and Conductor Everett Lee, of Cleveland, Ohio and New York Joseph Rosenstock is General Director. (ANP)

of our communities and nation in the years ahead."

All 12th grade girls in the nation's public, private and parochial high schools who will graduate in 1956 are eligible to participate in the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow. They must be enrolled by their school not later than Oct. 31.

Study Material Available
Study materials for use in teaching many subjects will be sent to participating schools. The girl with the highest test score in each school will be named Homemaker of Tomorrow for that school. She will receive a pin designed by Trifari of New York. Her school will receive a copy of the Good and Easy Cook Book and her test paper will be entered in the competition for her state.

The school of each state Homemaker of Tomorrow will receive a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica. Each state winner and a female faculty adviser will be invited to participate in an expense-paid educational tour of Washington, D. C., Colonial Williamsburg, Va., and Philadelphia April 8-12.

Miss Arnette, the first year national winner, is using her scholarship at Judson college in Alabama.

WARN DIXIE DISTRIBUTORS ROY WILKINS URGES ESSO

New York,—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has written the ESSO Standard Oil Company urging the company to make a survey of its southern territory "in an effort to discover whether or not your employes are participating" in campaigns of economic reprisals against Negroes who demand civil rights and an end to public school segregation.

Previously, the NAACP executive had written to the company about efforts of an area distributor in Orangeburg, S. C., to have the franchise of the Sulton Brothers, a Negro-owned ESSO station, revoked because they had signed a petition to the Orangeburg school board asking for desegregation of the schools.

Informed by J. A. Miller, general manager of ESSO's marketing department, that the Sulton Brothers are served directly by the company and not through an area distributor, Mr. Wilkins responded that "it does not allay our concern over the attitude reported to be exhibited by your area distributor, or the possibility that other ESSO area distributors in other sections of the South may be engaging in activities affecting Negro filling station operators who are not served on a direct basis but must depend on the distributor."

"It is inconceivable to us that the ESSO Standard Oil Company would tolerate for one moment this type of activity," the letter concluded, "and therefore we urge that an appropriate memorandum on company policy be sent to the sensitive areas."

"KENTUCKIAN" STAYS 2ND WEEK AT STATE

Burt Lancaster has done a fine thing in his debut as a motion picture director with "THE KENTUCKIAN," CinemaScope Technicolor printed film which continues for a second week at the State Theatre through United Artists release. He has taken an action-packed, swashbuckling fragment of frontier history and infused it with a warm, rich story and peopled it with lovable characters. Lancaster himself stars in the film as Big Eli, a hunter who with his son, Little Eli, finds Kentucky too confined and tame for him, and heads for Texas—"where a man has room to move about."

Lancaster's feminine co-stars are two extremely attractive young women of different types. The rather demure, conservative schoolteacher of a small frontier town is played by Diana Lynn. She falls in love with Lancaster but realizes it would be cruel to tie him down and so loses him to the more wild, impulsive backwoods' girl, played by Dianne Foster, whose nature and interests are similar to Eli's.

Ten year old Donald Mac Donald, who plays the appealing role of Lancaster's motherless son, turns in a performance that will endear him to all audiences. Other prominent actors in the cast, all of whom do splendid characterizations, include Walter Matthau, John McIntire, Una Merkel, John Carradine and John Littel.

Betty Crocker Announces An Ed. Contest

Minneapolis, Minn. — Educational scholarships totalling $100,000 will be awarded in the second Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow, it was announced this week by General Mills.

This is a $25,000 increase in scholarships awarded in the 1954-55 program when 187,463 high school senior girls from 8,040 schools sought the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow title which was won by Deloris Arnette of Enterprise, Ala.

In addition to a $1,500 scholarship to each state winner, there will be a new award of $500 to the homemaker rating second in each state. The scholarship of the national winner, who will be announced April 12 in Philadelphia, will be $5,000.

Test Will Determine
The basis for selection of winners will be test scores in a written homemaking knowledge and attitude test developed by Science Research Associates of Chicago. The test will be given in all participating high schools on Dec. 6. The project has the endorsement of the national contest and activities committee of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, a department of the National Education Association.

"The enthusiastic endorsement of thousands of educators, religious leaders, civic leaders and parents throughout the nation and the extensive participation of students in our first year project have made General Mills pleased to renew this worthwhile activity and increase the scholarship funds," declared Charles H. Bell, president of the company.

President Continues
"We believe in sponsoring programs which contribute to a better way of living for all. We are happy to assist public, private and parochial high schools in training girls for successful family life after marriage, and we are equally happy to focus public attention on the fine work these schools are doing."

"We have faith in the American teen ager of today. Given the opportunity, the guidance and encouragement, this teen ager will become the type of American homemaker who will assure the health, happiness and security

Important Information For All High School Boys & Parents

Since the passage of the Reserve Forces Act on August 9, there has been considerable interest in the new status of high school boys with regard to service in the Armed Forces. To help you understand the provisions of this Act, here are some of the main points in simple question and answer form. For complete information on these questions and any others you may have, mail the coupon below.

This Young Man Has Planned His Future. You Should, Too! Write For The Facts.

What is this new Reserve Forces Act?

In general it requires that all men entering the Armed Forces also take part in the Reserves. It was passed by Congress and became the law of the land in August, 1955.

What does it mean to me?

For one thing it can mean you may have more control over the time when military training takes place in your life.

How does it work?

There are some provisions for draft deferment in this act. Learn about them in detail by sending in the coupon.

How many years of Reserve service are required of me?

It can vary. It depends upon the plan you select. Again, write for complete information based upon your own circumstances.

Will I be able to finish high school?

Yes.

How about me—I didn't finish high school. When do I take the training?

There's a plan for you, too. But to learn all about it, just fill in the coupon below.

Is there any pay during training under this act?

Yes—both while attending Reserve meetings and while you attend your Active Duty for Training.

Any chances for promotion?

You will earn promotion points.

Any other benefits?

Yes. Aside from being a better trained man, being paid, and meeting your military obligation, you will also earn points toward retirement benefits.

Do I have to serve in one unit, or is there an opportunity for transfer?

Yes, there is an opportunity for transfer. But, again, fill out the coupon for information.

What does it do to my Draft Status?

You will be deferred, but to get the exact information, please fill in the coupon.
