Negroes On All-America Cage Squad

New York, March 5.—Paced by giant 6'10" Bill Russell of the San Francisco Dons, the Look Magazine All America Basketball Team is again dominated by Negroes it was announced today.
For the second straight year, four Negro players have landed berths on the 10 man squad, which is selected from the ballots of over 700 sports writers and broadcasters, the new issue of Look reveals.

In addition to Russell, these players are: K. C. Jones, San Francisco; Sihugo Green, Duquesne; Willie Naulls, U.C.L.A.
In announcing the squad, Look singled out two repeaters from last year's squad, Russell and Duquesne's Si Green, for special mention.

Russell, Look said, "led the Dons on their record-breaking victory string. His reflexes and range pressurized opponents. Even the revision of the rules... to widen the free throw lines... could not stop him."

"Si Green is an all time marvel," Look continued, "he singlehandedly put his team in the National Invitation Tournament."
This year's Look squad is history's tallest. But, unlike the squads of ten years ago, the big men can now maneuver and handle the ball and shoot from the outside and the corners.

"The ponderous big boy, like the 'goon' of yesteryear, is definitely finished," Look said.
The complete Look All America Squad: Bob Burrow, Kentucky; Robin Freeman, Ohio State; Sihugo Green, Duquesne; Tom Heinsohn, Holy Cross; Joe Holup, George Washington; K. C. Jones, San Francisco; Willie Naulls, U.C.L.A.; Bill Russell, San Francisco; Ron Shavlik, North Carolina State; Bill Uhl, Dayton.

Kellom, Kapers Blue Trotters Scare Crusaders

Led by Terry Fosse, Jack Heenan and Tom McCormick who scored 13, 11, and 12 points respectively, the rejuvenated Blue Trotters built up a 24-18 halftime lead and almost upset the dope sheet as they battled the highly voted Crusaders to a stand still for three quarters in Monday's action in the Senior Boys League.

Only through desperate efforts by Robert Burgess and Harold Nero were the Crusaders able to pull the game out of the fire and earn an overtime victory. Here for the Crusader's cause was Robert Burgess whose two free throws with 12 seconds left produced a 51-51 tie at the end of the regulation period. Robert also fired the winning basket in the overtime period.

In other games; Bill Connolly and Jim Skymaski hit for 10 points apiece to lead the league leading Celtics to a 39-22 victory over the Bouncers; August Leo hit for 14 points and Lonzo Patterson for 12 as the Falcons shook the Rockets 50-22; and the Courtmasters outlasted Purple Tide 44-34 behind Bill Jones' 12 points.

YAL INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE
In Tuesday night's YAL Intermediate League close game feature, the action was close all the way.

In the first game Deputies edged Nationals 31-30 in two overtimes, on Roosevelt Stubblefield's sudden death basket.
The second game saw the Browns nick Main Christ Child 32-31 on Joe Crawford's basket with 13 seconds left.

And in the third contest Joe Darrow scored 19 points to lead the nights to a 27-24 victory over the Crusaders.
Court Devils advance in Midget Tournament. Led by Freddy Hare, brother of Tech High basketball star Frank Hare, the Court Devils upset the league winning Kellom Jet 22-19 to advance into the semi-finals of the Kellom Double Elimination Tournament for Midget Boys.

Brief Jackets, Soft High Waists Are The Newest

By Eva Mae Davis
The short, short story is the new one now.
In general, Paris is inclined to wait until early autumn for decisions of serious fashion moments. Not so, this spring—two silhouettes and one new "air" were unmistakably established. The new Paris silhouettes, first a blousing line that makes for lovely new ease above the waist, whether it's a natural waist or lifted high. This new lift to the waist is the second Paris silhouette change—high belts, ties, sashes, seams, that make the waistline anywhere from one to six inches higher—on suits and coats and dresses for day, late day, evening, for spring and summer.

The new "air" in Paris is the air of beauty, an aura like spring itself, of melting beauty. The new bloused lines and high belts often help to create it.
So do white organdie ruffles—there's a wonderful rush of this old white magic around the new Paris clothes. There are organdie blouses under flannel jackets, chiffon blouses, under tweeds, low necklines above the high belted waists—and often there's a rose thrust into the belt.

Cropped to the waist—and sometimes shorted—jackets help give spring's costumes a little, long legged look that is both delightfully fresh and young.

This is part of the high rising fashion that spring from the Regency Period. It was then that little, short jackets were the rage too.

They go with the feeling for skirt lines that rise to below the bosom. The high placed sashes, the slim line skirts.

These brief jacketed costumes of all spring's clothes, make the wearing of heavier hats—either wider or heavier a must to finish the final picture.

Costumes of this kind have already arrived in town, ready and waiting for the first breath of warmth to come along. They are engaging as spring flowers, and just as freshly pretty.

Though the overall look is slender, there is considerable leeway in the skirts. There is one for every type of figure.
Below the close clinging jackets some of the skirts are slimness itself, with no inch of unnecessary width. Others have the easy softness of an unpressed pleat or two, or of all around pleats. All three such skirts are on the costumes selected today.

Between them they can be worn by every woman, making the short cropped jacket costume an universally becoming one.
Besides these three there will be many more costumes, suits and dresses as spring progresses, all playing on the same theme.

You'll see print dresses, with short wool jackets.
Illusion boleros will give the same general effect.
Dresses under jackets that stop just below the bosom will have high rising skirts with print tops concealed beneath the boleros.

CALIFORNIA styling of the most meticulous and luxuriant type is evident throughout this home. Step from the flagstone front terrace into the charming foyer that is separate from, yet serves to accentuate, the magnificent 27 foot expanse of living room. The enormous bow window affords three exposures, and the commanding fireplace dominates the entire inside wall. A sunny den off the living room provides another 10 feet of depth to the main area. Close by, the dining room affords a panoramic view of the outdoors and opens onto your rear patio. The spacious kitchen is the control point of the entire house. Right next to it is the laundry area. The bedroom wing consists of three bedrooms with ample storage space and two modern bathrooms. Other features include a full basement, a recreation room and workshop and a roomy garage.

ALABAMA LAWMAKER'S CALL TO RACE VIOLENCE IS CONDEMNED BY NAACP

New York — The NAACP denounced this week what it interpreted as an incitement to racial violence by a state representative in Alabama.

In a telegram to Alabama Governor James E. Folsom, NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins quoted an assertion by Rep. W. L. Martin of Greene county, Ala., that white people in Alabama must leave the state, "stay here and be humiliated, or take up our shot-guns."
"With the tensions created by resistance to the orders of the Supreme Court, this statement could spark tragic disorders in the State of Alabama," the Wilkins message declared.

"Should anyone now take up his gun in an act of aggression, the blame can be firmly fastened on Rep. Martin."

The NAACP, Mr. Wilkins said, "urges you to take every precaution against such an eventuality, which could result not only in serious loss of life but would be most damaging to the reputation and prestige of the State of Alabama and our nation as well."

Mr. Wilkins' telegram to the governor was dispatched on February 29th.
