Woman's Wit. TOLD BY A SOCIETY GIRL.

Something About Morphine, Sulphur, Molasses and Other Things.

From the Evening News, Newark, N. J. Among the popular society leader " Easy Orange, N J., Emma L. Stoll, a conting young maiden, stands in the foremost rank. She is of a lovable disposition and the light of the social set in which she moves. For two years she has been a sick giri from intwo years she has been a sick girl from in-ternal troubles peculiar to women, and hav-ing recently recovered, has given our reporter the following interesting account: "Instead of improving under the care of my physician I became worse. For five weeks I was unable to get out of bed and about six 6 clock each morning I suffered horribly. My lips were sore and lacerated from the marks of my leach, for in my offerts from the marks of my teeth, for in my efforts to keep from screaming I sunk my teeth deep into my lips. At such times I rolled and tessed until the bed shock like an aspen and tossed until the bed shock like an aspen leaf and it finally got so serious that the dector—I won't tell you his name—gave me some morphine pills to take. The very thought of them now makes me shiver. These morphine pills simply put me to sleep for awhile and when I became conscious again my agony was renewed.

"The pain in my stomach and back was more than I could stand. 'Your blood is poor,'said the doctor, 'take sulphur and mo-lasses,' and I did until it was a great wonder that I was not a molasses cake. It was time wasted in taking it because I was not der that I was not a molasses cake. It was time wasted in taking it because I was not beoefied in the least; my suffering con-tinued, but by a mighty effort after being in bed so long. I got up. Oh, but I was a and sight then. From H2 pounds I had fallen to ninety; my checks were pale and sunken and I limped; yes, actually hobbled from the extreme pain in my side. Then I read of Dr. Williams' Pink Fills for Pale People and the testimonials in the News inspired me with hope. I got the pills and took them. Before many days I began to im-prove and before I had finished one box I felt as if I could go out and walk for miles. I scon stopped fiming and through the Pink Pills I scon bid goedbye to my head-aches while the pain in my stomach and back slowly but surely succumbed to the influence of these pills that seem to be able to permade all pain to heave one's body. Now I am as I used to be; well and strong, lighthearted and merry but never without the pills. See I have got some of them now," and from a nearby desk she handed out one of the boxes. Dr. Williams' Pick Pills contain, in a con-decase form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to femiles, such as suppressions, frequilarities, and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow checks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, over work, or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams Medi-tine Company. Schenectady, N. FASHION'S FANCIES.

A quaint little costume for a child of four years is made of white cashmere. The skirt is plain, save for three bands of satin ribbon. The waist is closefitting, and a yoke is outlined by ribbon bands matching the skirt. From shoulder to elbows the sleeves are trimmed with the ribbon. Over the sleeve tops and across the front and back is set a very deep fall of openwork embroidery or Irish point lace. A bow of ribbon on either shoulder and a ribbon sash are worn with it.

the Did Not Love. A complaint filed with the county clerk in San Francisco furnishes evidence that some men have peculiar notions as to what constitutes a joke. In this case the funny man stands an excellent chance of being soundly castigated by some male relative of his victim, who is a young lady whom the jokist tricked into a marriage. Miss Incz Mercer, a young New York girl, was traveling through Oregon in May last with her parents. The journey was of the dawdling varlety, the tourists having means and time at their disposal, and a rather lengthy stay was made at Portland. There Miss Mercer's known and some society people induced the young New Yorker to take part in a play which was to be performed in ald of charity. The affair was placed in the hands of one R. B. Westcott, who had experience in some matters, and during rehearsals which preceded the performance it was noticed by other members of the company that he paid a great deal of attention to Miss Mercer. The young lady neither encouraged nor repelled, feeling no interest whatever in the man. After the standard play, which formed the greater part of the evening's entertainment, had been performed the performance concluded with a farce, which was especially written and produced for the occasion by Westcott. In that farce a marriage ceremony was to take place between the hero and heroine, played by Westcott and Miss Mercer, respectively. So, under the impression that the whole affair was purely fercical, Miss Mercer went through the marriage ceremony on the stage with Westcott. This occurred on May 24 last and on Sept. 15 Miss Mercer learned for the first time that it was no farce, but a genuine, binding ceremony that took place between herself and Westcott. The latter had a marriage license in his inside by no amateur actor, but by a real live the mairlage, the first step being the | 000. filing of complaint with the county clerk at San Francisco, where Westcott The pleasant flavor, gentle action and at present resides. The latter affects still to regard the whole affair as a joke and says he will interpose no objection to the annulment. Miss Mercer's brother, an athlete of some renown in his circle, says little about the affair beyond expressing a deep conviction that family should have a bottle on hand. should he ever meet Mr. Westcott the latter will be likely to hear and feel something to his disadvantage.

Running Double Capacity.

In the year 1894 the De Kalb Fence Co. of De Kalb, Ill., doubled the capacity for producing their lines over 1893, which gave them an output of 20 miles per day. The demand for their goods has been so great the past season, that in order to be able to supply their trade, they have been compelled this year to double the capacity of 1894, which now gives them an output of 40 miles per day. This in itself speaks well for their

Salaries of Bull Fighters. Spanish bull fighters get salaries as large as those of exceptionally great actors. "First swords," like Mazzantanl or Guerrita, are among the richest men in Spain. Guerrita, who is not yet 30, earns an income which is never less than 540,000 in one year, and owns near Cadiz, a villa and park, where in the winter he entertains his friends with lavish hospitality. Mazzantini has $100,000 invested, and it is a bad year when he does not earn $50,000. To provide the necessary protection an inexpensive breakwater was constructed, which was recently described by W. P. Hardesty in an article on the Swan Lake works, of which the reservolr is a part. The inside slope of the banks is one foot rise in a horizontal distance of five feet, and the face is protected by cobble-stone in some places and by willows in others, the latter giving the best results. They were obtained early in the spring and fall, when they will sprout. A square trench is made in the bank down to the highwater mark, and the butts of the willows laid in it. Dirt is then thrown over the butts and rocks laid over the projecting ends. This has been found to make a fair temporary protection. and the cuttings begin to grow immediately, reaching a height of four or five feet during the first year. This protects the bank from ordinary waves, but to keep the unusually high ones from it, which are pretty sure to cause damage, a floating breakwater is employed. This was constructed by first driving a line of piles into the reservoir about fifteen feet from the toe of the bank. They were driven from twenty to twenty-five feet apart, and a row of cedur logs about twelve inches in diameter was strung along on top of the water between them. The ends of the logs are fastened together with chains, and the logs are fastened to the piles in such a way that they rise and fall with the wayes. This boom has been found to break the force of the waves quite effectually. The fastenings to the piles are sometimes broken loore in storms, and to protect the bank in such cases a simple plan has been adopted. A in cold water just before retiring, and wire about the size of a telegraph wire is strang at intervals from the piles to the bank. A loop or rider of wire is then passed over the first line and fastened firmly to one of the logs in the boom. In case the log breaks loose it is guided by the wires straight to the shore and still offers some protection to the bank.
