Children must be taught to work, to love work, and to work because it is right.

Bear constantly in mind the truth that the aim of your discipline should be to produce a self-governing being; not to produce a being to be governed by others.—Herbert Spencer.

Jimmy—When I grow up I'm going to be school teacher.

Papa—Why do you want to be a school teacher?

Jimmy—"Cause you don't have to know the lessons yourself—you just have to hear them out of a book.—Harper's Round Table.

It is the teachers duty to train the children and the responsibility is great. The work in the school-room to day will have its influence a thousand years from now. But in a few short years the children of today will go into thronged cities and crowded marts; or they will go to foreign countries, and there they will take their part in the world's work and be "living epistles known and read of all men." Train the children, and the vices will be shriveled up, the church strengthened, the cause of God uplifted; and those who have looked with sadness at the unconcern and neglect of the past will then rejoice—"the little one has already become a thousand, and the small one a great nation."

Miller & Wildy have secured the services of the Alliance miller. The mill has always had the reputation of getting out the best flour and no doubt will so continue.

Mr. Smith is a young man of energy and ability and his promotion has been earned by steady application to his duties.

PATRIOTIC PEOPLE.

Memorial Day is Appropriately Observed by the Loyal and Grateful People of Hemingford and Vicinity.

On Saturday, May 30, now generally designated as Memorial Day, the largest assemblage ever seen in Hemingford gathered to pay fitting tribute to the memory of the nation's departed heroes. The procession formed with the Hemingford Cornet Band of eighteen men, at the head, and marched to the Congregational church, which had been beautifully decorated with flags, flowers, and bunting. The church, which holds about 600 people, was filled to its fullest capacity, while many could not gain admittance. The band played an appropriate selection after which Rev. Kendall offered an excellent and appropriate prayer.

The choir of fifteen trained voices selected by Prof. Blanchard, especially for the occasion, with Miss Nellie Goodenough at the organ, rendered an appropriate selection at the close of which Hon. W. L. Akers, orator of the day, was introduced by Chairman Pinkerton. For a moment, the speaker himself a veteran, at the sight of maimed and battered comrades, of '61-65, who sat before him with bowed heads, was overcome with emotion. Quickly overcoming this, he began his address which was both eloquent and grandly pathetic, moving the vast audience to tears while the old veterans sobbed aloud as the sad scenes of other days passed in review before them and at the close of the address each old soldier grasped the speaker's hand with a fraternal feeling that others can never realize.

The band played and the choir sang again and the audience was dismissed until after dinner. The old soldiers formed in double file, headed by the band, and were escorted to the Gerber Hall where the ladies of Hemingford had prepared a bountiful dinner for them and their families. One hundred persons sat down to the first table, Rev. Wornom invoked the divine blessing, and the people of Hemingford vied with each other in their attention to their honored guests. After the ex-soldiers arose a general invitation to visitors was extended and the dinner was ample for all. After dinner the procession consisting of seventy-two teams besides many on horseback and bicycles, was formed by Marshal Sweeney and proceeded to the cemetery where the graves of Edward Roberts and Werner Schumpf who are there interred, were decorated by the school children under the direction of their teachers, Mrs. Blanchard and Miss Frazier. The following named old soldiers were in attendance:

School Closes.

The school year of the Hemingford High School closed last Friday with the usual literary exercises. The expressions of satisfaction with the able corps of teachers, from patrons and pupils, are uniformly favorable. The occupation of teacher is one of the most arduous of professions and the untiring devotion of our teachers, Prof. L. H. Fenner, Mrs. Blanchard and Miss Frazier to their laborious duties, are worthy of the highest praise.

A Birthday Surprise.

A surprise party was given Mr. James Stratton, at Berea, yesterday, the occasion being his 71st birthday. A pleasant time is reported. Those present were:

The second meeting of the Lincoln Park Association will be held in that city from June 16th to 19th inclusive. The Association has spared no efforts or expense in securing a large field of horses for the several races, and the program will be so arranged so as to give those attending the first day the opportunity of witnessing the greatest field of 2:09 pacers that will likely be brought together this year. Their aim is to give a class of races, the equal of which has not taken place in Nebraska, to please the public and merit their patronage.

TIERNY—HOLLINRAKE.

Married, in the Catholic church at Chadron, June 2, 1896, by Rev. Father Brophy, Mr. Phil Tierney and Miss Mamie Hollinrake.

The happy couple accompanied by Mr. Henry Hollinrake who acted as best man and Miss Mamie Friel the bridesmaid, repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hollinrake, where an elegant wedding feast was served to about sixty invited guests. After all partook of the sumptuous repast the tables were cleared and the tripping of the light fantastic was indulged in till the wee small hours, when all departed for their respective homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Tierney a life of happiness and prosperity. Many useful presents were received among them the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Katen, glass set;
J. A. Hunter, set silver knives and forks;
Mr. and Mrs. Burlew, silver pitcher;
Mrs. Jas. Hollinrake, picture, towels and comfort;
Maggie Hollinrake, cake stand;
C. J. Wildy, picture;
Mr. and Mrs. Cross, table cloth;
Geo. Fendrick, towels;
Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Whelan, pillow shams, bowl and pitcher;
Samuel Hollinrake, set of knives, forks and spoons;
Della Reed, picture;
Mr. and Mrs. Neeland, napkins;
Ester Neeland, doylies;
Mamie Friel, bed spread and cushion;
Grandma Hollinrake, table cloth and fruit dish;
