Everybody is invited to all of the services.

The heaviest rain we have ever seen fell here last Saturday and was followed by another on Wednesday. We fear these heavy rains will cause a crust to form on the top of the ground, and if so, our farmers should immediately proceed to harrow their small grain and break up this crust, no difference if your grain is knee high and you do tear up a part of it. If left alone this crust will not only retard the growth of the grain, but will draw the moisture from beneath. We are speaking from experience and know what we are talking about. Follow our advice and you will thank us next harvest.

A Pleasant Surprise.

One of the most pleasant parties of the season was the surprise given Mrs. John Lemons, Tuesday evening. The party was gotten up on short notice but a good sized crowd turned out and by nine o'clock the commodious residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lemons was completely filled. Dancing commenced at 10 o'clock and at 12 all sat down to an elegant supper which the "intruders" had brought in their baskets. After the repast dancing was resumed and continued till 3 o'clock when all departed for their homes with the feeling that Mr. and Mrs. Lemons is an excellent place to go to enjoy yourself.

SOMETHING ANCIENT, SOMETHING NEW!

Illustrated Lecture on the LIFE OF CHRIST

As it is in the Bible, given by Rev. T. P. Haley, of Alliance, in the Catholic Church at HEMINGFORD, JUNE 25, '96.

Lecture begins at 8 o'clock p. m. It is the whole life of Christ, painted by the most celebrated artists, and represented in life size. The lecture is purely historical, and was equally appreciated by all denominations in a score of places recently. Interesting to all. Come!

Admission, adults, 25 cents, children, 10 cents.

Educational Department.

Office days of Co. Supt. are Monday and Saturday of each week. Teacher's examination, the third Saturday of each month.

The Teachers' Institute is maintained for definite purposes. To make provision for enriching the course of study in the country schools.

To elevate the standard of professional ideals and to direct the professional studies of teachers; to create educational sentiment and enthusiasm, and to give educational inspiration.

To exemplify, by the best methods, how the several subjects should be taught in the elementary schools.

To instruct teachers in how to organize, manage and control schools and properly care for the health, comfort, general culture, and moral elevation of the children.

It is not for the purpose of teaching the "common branches;" or for making teachers of people who are ignorant of those branches.

It is not for the purpose of preparing people for passing examinations for teachers' certificates. It is not to be conducted in view of an examination at its close; and the examination, which is held at the close, is not confined to the few brief lessons taught during the institute.

It is not to furnish silent listeners to instructors who think telling is teaching.

The Institute is a school where everybody works, it costs money and is worth money—worth many times what it costs, if wisdom is used on the part of the conductor and instructors and if the teachers come for the purpose of being strengthened in their profession.

Believing firmly that teachers should be urged and encouraged to strive for educational and professional improvement, I have decided to make the renewal of certificates depend on the following conditions: 1st.—All teachers who hold second-grade certificates having an average of 85 per cent or more, may have them renewed (a) upon passing a satisfactory examination in Teachers' Reading Circle Work of 1895-96; or (b) by taking examination in at least three of the branches in which they have their lowest grades. 2nd.—All teachers who hold second grade certificates having an average of less than 85 per cent will be required to take examination in at least five of the branches in which they have their lowest grades. 3rd.—Teachers who have not taught since receiving their certificates cannot have them renewed except on entire re-examination. Anyone who has never taught may receive a certificate on passing the required examination if he brings a written testimonial from his teacher certifying that he possesses ability in that line.
