I have been called an anarchist because I have opposed the trusts and syndicates which would manage this country. I am glad to have the opposition of these men. I am glad that if I am elected there is not a trust or a syndicate that can come to me and say, "We put you there now pay us back."—William Jennings Bryan.

Several days ago thirteen head of cattle belonging to Jas Hunter and two belonging to Wm Hollinrake were taken from Hunter's pasture north of town. Messrs. Hunter and Hollinrake went down to Hyannis and identified the stock. The prisoner is now in the custody of Sheriff Sweeney.

TIARA FOR MME. NORDICA. The Splendid Gift of the Great Stage's Admirer. A beautiful diamond tiara which is to be presented to Mme. Nordica by her admirers among the box and seat holders of the Metropolitan Opera House, has been put on exhibition in New York. The coronet contains 228 diamonds, which range in size from 1 1/2 carats to 1-8 of a carat. There are about a dozen of the larger stones, and the total weight of the diamonds in the tiara is about 29 carats. Its cost will not be far from $5,000. The style of coronet is that of Adams, in the time of the first empire. The tiara is built upon a base band of gold, which will rest upon the wearer's head and keep the diamond-set crown from slipping into the hair. This band is, however, only a round wire of gold about 1-32 of an inch in diameter. At its ends are loops into which hairpins or ribbons may be fastened to secure the crown to the head. Above the base and resting on wire uprights is the base proper of the tiara. This consists of a double line of diamonds, containing in all about seventy-five stones, enclosing a row of larger stones. Above this on either side is scroll work of diamonds, conventional grasses, and between these conventional flowers, all of diamonds. The tiara stands very high in front and the center piece is a remarkably effective specimen of jeweler's work. It is an open, graceful cluster of sprigs and flowers, and contains in all sixty-six diamonds. The tips of the sprigs contain the largest stones in the tiara, each sprig holding a single stone, and the centers of the conventional flowers are also formed of single stones of large size. The center piece of the crown can be separated from the rest and used by itself as an ornament for the hair. For this purpose it is provided with a gold comb, which sits at right angles with the front. This comb serves to steady the tiara when the entire jewel is worn. The idea of making a gift to Mme. Nordica is said to have originated among some of her admirers at the Waldorf, but it did not take definite form until Mr. James Otis took it in hand. He invited the great singer's friends to contribute for the purpose but limited the contributions to $10 each. The date for the presentation has not been fixed, but it will probably take place on one of the big nights when Northern stars during the coming season will appear in opera, which will be on Oct. 13.—New York Sun.

Presenting Noise of Trains. The peculiar ringing and singing noise made by the running of trains over iron bridges is annoying to many residents. To do away with this noise a Western engineer has devised the following: "He puts a decking of 1 1/2-inch planks between the cross girders, resting on 2-inch timbers laid on the bottom flanges. On the planks a double layer of felt is laid which is fixed to the vertical web of the cross girder. At the connections with the girder a timber cover joint is placed on felt, and two hooked bolts connect the whole firmly to the bottom flange. Four inches of slag gravel cover the decking, which is inclined toward the center of the bridge for drainage purposes. A layer of felt is laid between the planks and the timbers they rest upon and the iron work in contact with the decking is well oiled. The decking weighs 600 pounds per yard for a bridge 10 feet wide and costs 25 cents a square foot. It is water tight and has proved very satisfactory in preventing noise."

Menelek Is Sorry. A French physician who visited the Abyssinian king Menelek's camp, in February, writes that Menelek has expressed sorrow at the great bloodshed resulting from the war. The Shoan army was in excellent condition at that time and had been placed under strict discipline, an unusual thing for such troops. They were reported also to have acquired a certain dignity of character and bearing, which had previously been entirely wanting. Old Menelek expressed no doubt as to the final outcome of the war, but stated that he hated the bloodshed, and had only acted on the defensive. He scarcely had any idea of the great slaughter of Italian troops which his soldiers would so soon make.

Would Not Eat the Flag. An Englishman in Washington at dinner declined to eat an ice frozen in the shape and colors of the American flag. This he did because he held it to be bad form to absorb the national emblem. The incident was significant as showing the distinction and difference between the British idea of patriotism and our own. Englishmen lift their hats when their flag is carried past, and rise when the national anthem is played in theaters and music halls. No true Briton, in trade or out of it, would use the flag of his country for advertising purposes.—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

Are Getting Scarce. Pines are said to be getting exceedingly scarce in the pine tree state. Indeed, it has been advocated that a grove of pines just outside of Augusta, Me., should be purchased for park purposes, in order to preserve a few specimens of what was once the monarch of the Maine forest. Tommy Agreed with Him. "There are many things in the world to which we must shut our eyes," said the paternal Gibson. "Yes, pa, and soap is one of them," said young Thomas, who had received a "thorough good scrubbing" at the hands of his mother.
