STROLOGY: This nrt or science enables the astrologer to read from the horoscope, or map of the heavens at the time of a person's birth, many useful, manous and important things relating to one's life, characteristics, health, wealth, business, marriage, etc. The facts and evidence will justify at all times and to all persons the conclusion that some are naturally fortunate while others are just the opposite and some just an average. The astrologer always finds a marvelous sympathy existing between the indications of horoscope and the life of the person born at any particular time.

For the benefit of the readers of this maper we will publish FREE in these columns: The zodiacal sign rising at your birth including your ruling planet and a brief character reading by Astrology. Those wishing readings should send the following data written plainly in ink: Sex, race or nationality, place of birth including state, county and city, year, month, date, hour and minute of birth, A. M. or P. M. as hear as possible; also give name or initials and address under which you wish your reading published. If you know the date but do not know the time of birth and wish a reading send two 2-cent stamps for further instructions. Letters will be numbered as received and the readings published in regular order so those wishing to take advantage of this liberal offer should write at once for we can only allow one column in each issue for this department, Addre s Prof. G. W. Cunningham, Dept. 4, No. 194 South Clinton St., Chicago, Ill.

Note:-The following readings are given according to data furnished. The description may vary slightly in some points in accordance with which sign the ruling planet may be found. It always partakes of the indications of the sign in which it is placed at birth, also the planets in configuration with it:

Miss Mary, Detroit.

You have the zodiacal sign Sagittarius, which Jupiter rules, rising at your birth, and therefore Jupiter is your ruling planet or significator. Sagittarius usually denotes a person above medium breight; a well proportioned and commanding figure; the complexion clear and healthy; the hair near a chestnut color growing thin and formng a notch above the temples; the forehead is full and broad; the eyes expressive; the laugh is loud, merry and cheerful; you are jovial, happy, generous and charitable; you are kind to animals and fond of a fine horse; you are not as conservative as you should be and are liable to get into too large deals; you are a natural leader and have plenty of courage to carry any scheme through that you know is legitimate: you always have a certain kind of good luck that does not seem to come to others; you may apparently be on the brink of a financial precipice and just ready to tumble over, yet something will turn in your favor and pull you through all right.

Paul G., Chicago. **

You have the zodiacal sign Taurus, which Venus rules, rising at your birth, and therefore Venus is your ruling planet or significator. The sign Taurus usually denotes a person with short, but full, strong and well-set stature broad forehead; dark, curly hair; dark complexion; broad full chest and shoulders; short thick neck; wide nose; full, pouting lips; you will have a habit of shaking your head sideways when talking earnestly. You are very quiet, peaceable and patient in your disposition, have great love for the beautiful in art and nature; you are very fond of the fine arts, such as music, painting, drawing, sketching, etc. You are fond of good living and generally manage to get it; you are subject to attacks of the blues without any apparent good cause. You seldom lose control of your temper, yet when you do you become furious. You dislike to change your business or location and have great love for home and its pleasant surroundings.

He Found Out.

A good East Winthrop, Maine, deacon got into a discussion the other day with a newspaper man relative to the size of a hole a horse could go through. The solution came quicker than he antic.pated. Going to his stable, he found that his horse, weighing over 1,000 pounds, had failen through a scuttle into the cellar, ten feet below, without receiving a scratch, although the dimensions of the scuttle were fifty-four inches one way by 181/2 the other .- Ex.

TOLD BY THE PLANETS! A WOMAN ELECTOR.

SARAH MALLOY A MEMBER OF THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

Will Cast the Only McKinley Vote from Wyoming-Her Husband's Democratic Friends Voted for Her-She Is a Stanch Republican.

OR the first time in history a woman will vote as a member of the electoral college for a President of the United States, This woman is Mrs. Sarah Malloy of Cheyenne, Wyo. She was requested to run on the republican ticket and accepted after some hesitation. Indeed, the honor was thrust upon her. When Mrs. Malloy was nominated her husband frowned, and she told him she would do exactly as he bade her. Mr. Malloy made some inquiries, and found out that his wife would not be called upon to do any campaigning, and so gave her his permission. Mrs. Malloy is a native of Ohio. She was born in a little town called College Center, near Columbus. Her father was a soldier in the civil war, and was retired because of incapacity due to wounds received on the field of battle. Mrs. Malloy has lived in Wyoming since 1870. She is in full sympathy with the idea of woman suffrage, which has been in vogue in Wyoming ever since she settled in it. She has served as a delegate to republican county conventions, and has always done her duty in a creditable manner. She never misses voting on an election day. Her husband is a stanch democrat, and a favorite remark with him is that he has been throwing away his vote ever since his marriage because his wife always votes the other way. While Mrs. Malloy takes extreme interest in politics she is a good housewife and a kind mother. She has four children, the eldest a civil engineer 18 years old. Mr. Malloy is superintendent of the Union Pacific Railroad from Cheyenne to Ogden, a stretch of 500 miles. Many of his democratic friends in the service of the road voted for the wife of their superior officer. Mrs. Malloy is being congratulated for the unique distinction thrust upon her. She will cast her electoral vote for Major McKinley.

Estimate and Cost.

The estimated cost of the Manchester ship canal was $28,750,000. Nearly $80,-000,000 was spent before the canal was ready for business. The international commission reported in 1856 that the cost of digging the Suez canal would certainly not exceed $40,000,000. It has cost $94,500,000, to say nothing of Egypt's gratuitous work, amounting to $20,000,000 more. Engineers spent a year collecting data for their report on the Congo railroad, which they asserted could be built for $5,000,000. They now say that the total cost will be from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000. The egregious underestimate of cost of the Panama canal nearly swamped that enterprise before wholesale stealing completed the ruin. The forts on the Meuse river, estimated at $4,500,000, cost $16,000,000. The Corinth canal cost $12,000,000 instead of the estimated $6,000,000. A harbor and a railroad on the island of Reunion cost $13,500,000 instead of $6,-800,000. The Senegal railroad, which was to be completed for $2,600,000, absorbed $9,000,000. The Langson railroad, in Tonkin, which was to open a conquered province for an expenditure of $500,000, bled the French treasury to the tune of $4,367,790.

What a Hobo Is.

By the general public the term 'hobo" is applied to all species of the tramp genus, but among the vagabonds themselves this appellation is restricted to a certain class. A "hobo" is a tramp who begs, but will work rather than commit crime. A criminal tramp who does not hesitate to commit larceny, robbery or burgley is known among the fraternity as a 'yag." The latter class never works unless under penal duress. The "yag" never affiliates with the "hobo" and each is proud of his exclusiveness. The usual salutation by which unknown tramps recognize each is the query Have you seen Johnny Cattleman?" In the tramp patois "Johnny Cattle-Water." It was sent to Cripple Creek. | man" means a freight train, and the greeting is practically equivalent to 'Are you a tramp?"

Not Long Ago They Were Treated as the Turkish Women Are.

It is curious to think what a short time it is since the emperors of Russia treated their womankind in the same way they are still treated in Turkey, says a writer in the Montreal Daily Star. In those days the czar chose his wife from among his subjects, and she was never considered his equal. The matters were arranged in this way: On a certain day the nobles brought their young daughters to be looked at, and she who took the emperor's fancy was forthwith chosen to be his wife. The princesses were kept with the same strictness as eastern princesses, and marriage only changed their place of residence, but gave them no more freedom. They were allowed occasionally to be present when guest's were received, to whom they would hand a cup of wine, and then retire to their apariments, there being a suite of rooms at the north side of the palace reserved especially for them. If they were ill the room was darkened before the doctor was admitted, and he was not even allowed to feel their pulse, and when they drove out the windows of their carriages had drawn curtains. The first czarina who emancipated herself from this state of slavery, and so instituted a new and happier era for Russian women, was the beautiful Nathalie Neryschki, the second wife of Alexis Michaelovitch, and the mother of Peter the Great, and her first triumph was when she obtained her husband's consent to drive with him in an open carriage to the monastery of Troitzky, a proceeding which at the time occasioned a great scandal. Naturally, when the Russian princes began to intermarry with other European royal families, they were obliged to treat their wives differently but it was a long time before the court of Russia became as civilized as the rest of Europe.

PARISIANS TAKING TO SKIRTS. Bloomers Are Not the Smart Thing Any More.

Bloomers are not the smart thing any more. Since the smart houses refuse to make this unbecoming garment, the better class of French ladies has taken to wearing skirts; at least, apologles for skirts, such as we see attached to a bathing suit and barely reaching to the knee, says a Paris letter in the New York Journal. The middle-class women still cling to the masculine attire, however. As to the difference in the wheels themselves, the tin or metal rims instead of our wooden ones are the most notable feature. A police regulation demands a name plate, with the owner's name and address on every wheel, so that stolen or lost property may be identified or returned. In many cases the bells, which are also a necessity, are replaced by large-sized rattles which swing from the handlebars and fingle along the streets until one feels as though the seasons reversed and the sound was that of diminutive sleighs spinning past. At night there is a picturesque change from our regulations. Instead of oil lamps, gay-colored Chinese lanterns hang on the handle-bars and sway with every motion of the wheel. They do not cast as good a light on the road for the benefit of the rider as do our favorite lamps, but they are certainly immensely effective for the looker-on. and suggest at once the idea of a "feast of lanterns" on wheels. The more practical part of French bleyeling is seen in the militia. Gendarmes riding by in their red uniforms is a common occurrence, while the sight of an officer. booted and spurred, with shouldercape and sword, receiving and returning the salutes of his regiment, all on wheels, is something quite unique.

Archbishop Temple and the Cabman. Dr. Temple, after coming out of the house of lords one evening, hired a cab and was driven home to Fulham. He tendered the cabman the exact legal fare, two shillings. The cabman, hoping the bishop would prove a good "fare," expostulated with his lordship and asked for another shilling. The hishop, however, firmly refused to be drawn. Thereupon cabby became abusive, and as a Parthian shot to his lordship, who had turned on his heels to enter the palace, said:

"You call yourself the head of St. Paul's cathedral! D'ye think St. Paul, if he were alive and were living here with ten thousand a year, would try and 'do' a poor cabby by giving him only two shillings for a drive from Westminster to Fulham?"

"No," said Dr. Temple; "if St. Paul were alive he would live at Lambeth palace, where the fare from Westminster is only a shilling."

Pretty Trifles in College Colors.

Shopkeepers have discovered that gifts for the young collegian at Christmas time, or when he enters college, are much in demand. It is easy now to find many pretty trifles offered in the colors of Princeton, Harvard and Yale, and the smaller colleges are not without some representation in knicknacks. Exquisite etched glass loving cups and tankards with tiny flags in the college colors etched on them and lettered with "Rah, rah, rah, Yale!" or whatever it may be, are justly reckoned handsome as they are expensive. Numerous other glass utensils in similar designs are seen, and the choice extends from them to the pretty shaving balls of crepe paper in college colors quite at the other end of the list in cost .- New York Times.

THE THRONE OF THUNDER. It Is the Inghest Point on the Western

Side of Africa. Mungo Mam Lobel, the throne, or place, of thunder, as the natives call it, the peak of Kameruns, as the whites call it, is the highest point on the western side of the African continent, says National Review. The first view the voyager gets of it, who, coming for weeks along low shores and up the stagnant rivers fringed with mangrove swamp is a thing no man can ever forget. Suddenly, right up out of the sea, the great mountain rises to its 13,760 feet, while close at hand, to westward, towers the lovely island mass of Fernando Po to its 10,190 feet, and, great as is its first charm, every time you see it it becomes greater, although it is never the same. Five times I have been in the beautiful bay at its foot and have never seen it twice alike. Sometimes it is wreathed with indigoblack tornado clouds, sometimes crested with snow, sometimes standing out hard and clear as though made of metal and sometimes softly gorgeous, wit's green, gold, purple and pink vapors tinted by the sunset. There are only two distinct mountains or peaks to this glorious thing that geologists brutally call "an intrusive mass"-Big Kamerun and Little Kamerun. The latter, Mungo Mah Etindah, hag not yet been scaled, though it is only 5,820 feet. One reason for this doubtless is that people desirous of going up mountains, a rather rare form of human being in fever-stricken, overworked west Africa, naturally try for the big peak; also the little peak is mostly sheer cliff and covered with almost impenetrable bush. Behind the Kamerun mountain, inland, there are two chains of mountains, or one chain deflected, bearing the names of the Rumbi and Omon mountains. These are little known at present and are clearly no relation of Mungo's. They are almost at right angles to it, and are, I believe, infinitely older in structure and continuous with the manynamed range we know in Kongo Francaise as the Sierra del Crystal. In a southwest direction from Kamerun mountain, out in the Atlantic, is a series of volcanic islands, presumably belonging to the same volcanic line of activity-Principe, 3,000 feet; San Thome, 4,913 feet, and, farther away still, Ascension, St. Helena and the

AN ABLE PRACTICAL JOKE.

Tristan d'Acunha groups.

It Created Considerable Excitement in a University City. The Cambridge (England) Independent Press retails the story of the hoax perpetrated upon the civic and university authorities at Cambridge on the occasion of the visit of the late shah of Persia to that country. It was on Saturday, June 28, 1873, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, that a telegram was bound lying on the hallkeeper's table in the Guildhall. It was directed to the worshipful the mayor of bridge, and was signed by Lieut.-Col. Hamilton and read as follows: "His imperial majesty the shah of Persia desires to visit your university town today en route for London by special, arriving at Cambridge station about 1:10 o'clock. Be prepared with escort and reception as far as time allow." Instantly everybody began tumbling over his fellow. The town clerk was sent for and messages were dispatched to the vice chancellor, the members of the corporation, the volunteer officers and the cook of St. Peter's college kitchen, The vice chancellor hurried on his robes, the aldermen and councilors did ditto, the volunteers donned their uniforms and the cook began to boil and fry. Nor was the general public behindhand. Flags were hung out and crowds gathered in the street. Dr. Cookson, the vice chancellor (irreverently known in those days as "Dismal Jimmy"), made his way to the station as fast as his dignity would permit. The mayor, Mr. T. H. Naylor, and the corporation followed suit. A guard of honor and carriages were in waiting and soon everybody was there except the shah. Then the news flew around that the rallway officials knew nothing about the special train, and after a brief delay it was apparent that the whole thing was a hoax. The perpetrators of the hoax were never discovered, though two persons were afterward freely mentioned in connection with it. In the year of grace 1873 the era of practical jokes was past, but had the authors of the shah's visit been alive in the days of Theodore Hook they might have lived in literature.

Water-Works on His Farm.

L. W. Follis has finished putting in a system of water works of his own on his farm on Dry Creek. On the hill above his residence is a never-failing spring that he has piped down to the house. He has run a line to the yard, where he can irrigate his lawn, and has also taken it to the barnyard, where it supplies abundance of water for the stock. The spring is high enough to give considerable pressure. By attaching hose he can throw water to the roof of his big barn. Pity the Millionaire.

Austrian millionaires seem to be unduly sensitive to criticism. An unfortunate capitalist in Vienna has committed suicide. Phosphate for Clover.

Whenever phosphate is sown with grain, a part of the fertilizer is always appropriated by the clover seed sown with it. Clover is a lime plant, and it also needs the phosphoric acid that is so helpful to the wheat.
