Henderson's View.

Realizing that many of our readers do not fully understand the conditions in connection with the Porto Rican tariff measure, we print below a copy of the House bill, drafted by a member of our delegation.

It was written by himself to one of his constituents in the House of Representatives, and is as follows:

"I have a bill drafted for the Porto Rican tariff measure, and I am sending it to you for your consideration. It is a bill to amend the act of March 2, 1900, relating to the tariff on goods imported from Porto Rico. The bill provides for the reduction of the tariff on certain goods, and for the increase of the tariff on other goods. It is a bill which I believe will be of great benefit to the people of Porto Rico, and I am sure that you will support it. I am, Sir, very respectfully,

Senator Currie's death has been a great loss to the United States senate. The republicans in the United States senate is growing increasingly with Republicans. The republicans of D. E. Thompson and his efforts to get the endorsement of the republican state convention for that position is a matter of great importance. Thompson was a candidate before the legislature two years ago, when Senator Hayward secured the nomination. Senator Hayward's death created a vacancy, which is being filled by Senator Allen under appointment by Gov. Poynter. This appointment can only hold until the legislature elects his successor. As Senator Thurston's time expires by limitation the 4th of next March, there will be two senators to elect by the next legislature. Mr. Thompson is seeking to have the state convention endorse his candidacy will force the issue, and doubtless the successor to both Thurston and Allen will be nominated by the state convention on May 23 at Lincoln.

The propriety of the state convention endorsing anyone we question, but as the fight must be met in the state convention or legislature, it will be less expensive and liable to be more satisfactory if settled by the convention, where 1,000 representatives of the people are assembled than by 130 in the legislature. There will doubtless be several candidates and John L. Webster, who so courteously withdrew from the contest two years ago, when he saw the sentiment was so overwhelmingly in favor of M. L. Hayward, will doubtless be one of them. It should be the desire of everyone to aid in securing the position for the man most capable and at the same time the best calculated to represent the needs of the people.

Without deprecating the ability of either of the men above mentioned, we think that Custer county has a man that would be more acceptable to the people of the state than either Messrs. Thompson or Webster. Senator F. M. Currie, who so ably represented this senatorial district in the legislature two years ago, is not only thoroughly competent to fill the position of United States senator, but would be a popular candidate with the masses. With him as a candidate endorsed by the state convention, with another equally competent and popular there would be but little doubt of the political complexion of the next legislature, nor of the success of the republican state and national ticket.

Senator Currie is one of the few members of the last legislature who did not become tangled up with corporations, declining from first to last to even accept railroad transportation. He is a college bred man, an eloquent and logical debater, farmer and stockman, thoroughly versed on national issues and in every particular eminently qualified to represent Nebraska's constituency.

When the fall campaign is on and republicans throw the full light of history, both sacred and common, on the dangerous grounds taken by Bryan, we predict such an overthrow of modern Calhounism as has seldom been seen.

That trick of Mark Hanna's in taking Bill Dech out from among the straight pops and dumping him into the fusion ranks was a capital hit. It relieved the true pops of a mighty load, and planted Dech right among his own kind.

It begins to look as if the spirit of John C. Calhoun was being revived in Bryan democracy. There is need of a little more of old Jacksonian democracy just now to wallop the young bawling into his senses.

That remark of Tom Holliday's in the county convention about refusing to be a democratic pall bearer, etc., ought to throw some suspicion upon Holliday; Mark Hanna will get him yet.

We have just a little suspicion about the relation between J. R. Rhodes and Mark Hanna. Can it be possible that Mark gave Rhodes a tip just before the pop county convention.

It might be well just now to inquire what Bryan would do with the Indians of Alaska, if the "constitution follows the flag." Would he enforce it in full without their consent?

If Bryan wants the United States to "build and fortify the Nicaragua canal," he must expect the flag to carry the constitution there also. Still he would not have any expansion.

Wilson & Drake.

Poor Webb came to last fall's county convention and got in some fine work for his friends, but he is forgotten now. There is some suspicion that Mark Hanna may be too near to Webb.

We suspect that James Ream will be sorry he ever had the initiative and referendum experiment on in Custer county, as there are so many well trained office seekers in the fusion hosts that they will turn the precinct primaries into a disgusting rabble.

THURSDAY, APRIL 19th, 1900

An increase of $50,000,000 in the bank note circulation is already in sight as a result of the enactment of the new currency law.

There is some logic in the premise that only democrats can reform. It was said long ago, "I came not to call the righteous but sinners to repentance."

Ed Royse's candidacy for delegate to the republican national convention at Philadelphia June 19th, from the Sixth congressional district, is meeting with general favor.

Ask a pop anywhere in the country how politics are and he will answer something like this: "Oa, I am not interested in politics since it has become so rotten." Fusion for office is not interesting to farmers.

Mark Hanna seems to have opened a car load of persuasion to kickers in the pop ranks of Nebraska. This ought to make good times, or Mark finds very cheap bargains. Custer will feel quite a boom if reports are reliable.

There was an increase of $18,342, 716 in the amount of money in circulation in the United States during March, the total being, April 1, $2,021,274,596, or $26.12 per capita of the population. On July 1, 1896, it was only $21.10 per capita, but that was under Democratic management of our national affairs.

The number of votes cast Saturday the republican primary was the largest we remember of in the history of the city. It is an indication that republicanism is in a healthy condition in Broken Bow township. The REPUBLICAN is pleased to note that of the 145 who voted there were several recruits from the fusionists.
