I Once Was Lost, but Now I Have Found it.

Where? At my door. At the Eagle Grocery. What in the world is it, my dear? It is at the Eagle Grocery, a mammoth stock of Groceries, and at the lowest prices you ever heard of. The Eagle has been reading the papers and keeping posted on what was being offered for sale. They don't say anything about Terbacker and Candy, and other good things like that. It is not pickle dishes you want now, it is Candy. The Eagle has 2,000 pounds of candy for sale cheap. Christmas committees are invited to call and get my prices. Remember the place, on the big corner, just east of First National Bank.

HOMESEEKER'S EXCURSIONS.

The Way to go to California.
Is in a tourist sleeper, personally conducted, via the Burlington Route. You don't change cars. You make fast time. You see the finest scenery on the globe.

Your car is not as expensively furnished as a place sleeper, but it is just as clean, just as comfortable, just as good to ride in and nearly $20.00 cheaper. It has wide vestibules; Pintech gas high back seats; a uniformed Pullman porter; clean bedding; spacious toilet rooms, tables and heating range. Being strongly and heavily built, it rides smoothly; it is warm in winter and cool in summer.

In charge of each excursion party is an experienced excursion conductor who accompanies it right through to Los Angeles.

Cars leave Omaha, St. Joseph, Lincoln and Hastings every Thursday, arriving San Francisco following Sunday, Los Angeles Monday. Only three days from Missouri River to the Pacific Coast, including two stop-overs of 1 1/2 hours at Denver and 2 1/2 hours at Salt Lake City, two of the most interesting cities on the continent.

Hangs Pictures for a Living.
There is in New York a young woman who hangs pictures for a living. Her novel occupation is both pleasant and profitable. She finds most of her customers among people of moderate means, who cannot, like the very wealthy, employ a distinguished artist or first-class decorator for such work.

Electric Mail Coach.
An electric mail coach, which will seat eighteen persons, has produced a very favorable impression in automobile circles in Germany. On fair roads it can run with one charge over forty-seven miles, at a speed of nine miles an hour, or over thirty-seven miles at a speed of sixteen to nineteen miles. The battery has eighty cells, and weighs 6,800 pounds. The coach, with battery, weighs 13,200 pounds. It is driven by twenty-seven and one-half horse power motors.

CONVICT FARMS.

Very Little Net Cash Profit Ever Gotten Out of Them.

Georgia has a great number of penitentiary convicts—about 2,200, we believe—most of whom are hired to contractors engaged in the lumber business. But she has a state farm on which 223 men are employed. The main crop cultivated there is cotton, and 278 bales were raised last year. The profit upon this, it is expected, will be about $4,000. If expectations are realized, the convicts will have supported themselves and also earned for the state about 5 cents a day each. The amount seems small, but those who have "farmed" prison labor know that convicts are costly to guard; that few of them are good laborers; that nearly all of them dodge their work whenever possible, and that great numbers of them undoubtedly are sickly or utterly broken down in health. All experience goes to show that the state which employs its prisoners on farms can expect, year in and year out, very little net cash profit. And yet if the bill now pending in the United States house of representatives should become a law, making it a crime to transport prison-manufactured goods from one state to another, most states would be compelled to put their convicts to farming or else keep them in idleness. To Virginia that would mean a loss of net revenue of from $30,000 to $40,000 per annum.—Richmond Dispatch.

AFTER DARK IN A TEXAS TOWN

Among Gamblers Across "the Creek" in San Antonio.

While in San Antonio, Tex., recently, the writer took a peek at the city after dark by making a tour of the resorts across "the creek" which is the danger line beyond which it is not advisable for a stranger to roam at night. The writer was accompanied by Ed Pfeferling, a native of San Antonio, who is familiar with every inch of the ground, and is on good terms with every saloonkeeper, gambler, policeman and detective in the "tenderloin" district. Ed is a perfect type of physical manhood; he is straight as an arrow, about 6 feet tall, and the kind of a fellow who could be relied upon to take care of himself in any company. With Ed as a guide, no one need have any fear of being molested. The first stop was at the Black Elephant, where Jeff Roberts deals out drinks and affords an opportunity for the cowboys to try their luck at Klondike or poker. The Black Elephant is a typical barroom. Every saloon has its gambling annex. The names given to these resorts are suggestive of dime novel literature. The more pretentious barrooms are named the Silver King and the Crystal Club. These two latter places are fitted up in elegant style, with art galleries and expensive furnishings and decorations. The gambling is carried on on an extensive scale, with roulette wheels, faro layouts, Klondike and poker games, all doing a flourishing business. On the trip Pfeferling pointed out at least a dozen men who had "notches on their guns." The present proprietor of the Crystal Club stood trial for killing King Fisher and Ben Thompson, two noted characters from Houston, who came to San Antonio one night with the intention of closing up a variety show, having sent word in advance to that effect. The proprietor of the Silver King was acquitted after killing a man about a year ago. In both cases the taking off was considered justifiable.—J. J. McNamara in Pennsylvania Grit.
