Populist Day.

The state legislature are to be elected and also requires a majority of all votes cast at said election to be in favor of the amendment before the amendment can be declared legally carried. Thereby authorizing the counting of all votes against the amendment that were not cast for the amendment.

Therefore be it resolved, That we favor the submission of an amendment to the constitution whereby an affirmative vote of a majority of the electors voting on any amendment shall be sufficient for the adoption of said amendment.

Resolved that we favor the submission of an amendment whereby the word male shall be stricken from section one in article seven of the state constitution.

Be it resolved further that our delegates to the state convention at Lincoln are hereby instructed to work for the nomination of populists only for state officers, failing to secure this the delegates are at liberty to pursue such course at their wills dictate in regard to the nomination of state officers.

J. R. RHODES Chairman,
E. R. PURCELL,
C. T. HOLIDAY,
W. J. TAYLOR,
J. D. REAM.

It is a noticeable feature that no where do they mention the Kansas City platform nor do they endorse its nominees. This omission is on purpose to make the rank and file think that the leaders of Custer county have not gone in league with the democrats. So far they have been able to carry water on both shoulders and if wide straddling will help them they will continue the same tactics through this campaign in order to be ready to stand as mid-road populist for the county officers next fall.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

The pop convention of the Sixth district was called to order in the Opera house at 3 p. m. by A. F. Parsons of North Platte and the session was opened with prayer by Rev. Epley. Mr. Parson in opening the convention made an energetic speech but did not awaken any great amount of enthusiasm. He argued that the great question will be the perpetuation of our nation and their "war cry" shall be the declaration of Independence and the constitution. His memory possibly did not run back to the date when Schrader, an honored leader of the party named the constitution and defied it with the sanction of his party. Yet he maintained the Declaration of Independence and the constitution were personified in W. J. Bryan. He had evidently forgotten that only a few months ago that Col. Bryan deserted his regiment when it was called into active duty, for the avowed purpose of going to Washington to labor with his democratic brethren, in congress to get them to ratify the treaty with Spain, which included the purchase of the Philippine Islands. A permanent organization was made by electing J. M. Ellingworth of Dawes chairman and Will Mank secretary. He announced militarism and imperialism as the paramount issues, a large standing army and heavy taxation were his great fears.

The usual committees were announced from a slip of paper handed him by Parsons and the mill began to grind. The intermission was ushered in by music from the Broken Bow Harmony band. The remainder of the intermission was occupied by W. G. Eastman who was called out and succeeded in furnishing music for the next half hour that consisted principally in telling how good the people had been to him and that he was so glad that he had not been a republican all these years feeding upon husks. After the report of the committees Arthur Mullens of Holt county was recognized, who with an elaborate speech nominated Wm. Neville for congressman. There being no other names presented the rules were suspended and the nomination was made by acclamation. This called out Mr. Neville who told of his good qualities and how he had stood against the administration in congress and how necessary it was to continue him there to stand by Adlai Stevenson who with him was originally a greenbacker. He wanted "the republican party dethroned and the opposition elected that the country may again be put upon the march." We remember of the country being on the march from 94 to 97 but it was not the kind of "march" we long to see repeated. It was "Coxey's army of the unemployed labor marching to Washington to demand of congress relief from free trade. Three millions of working men and women were on the march vainly seeking employment or to soup houses. Business men every where were on the march up and down the floors of their respective places of business waiting for the sheriff to close them out, while hundreds of bankers marched into forced bankruptcy and thousands of farmers with their women and children marched from their once happy homes without, where to lay their weary heads and without a dollar.

THE DEMOCRATS.

At the conclusion of Neville's speech Mr. Fleeharty of Lexington was introduced as chairman of the democratic congressional committee. He stated that owing to the generosity the populist had displayed in accepting the democrat head of the national ticket that the democrats of the sixth district (which included himself Dr. Mullens, W. B. Eastham, Tom Finlen and six others had held a democratic congressional convention somewhere in the city) and nominated their candidate Hon. Wm. Neville as the democrat candidate from the sixth district by acclamation. Mr. Fleeharty eulogized Mr. Neville for his valuable record in congress and then drifted into the discussion of the political issues of the day. He was very much exercised over the provision of the constitution which provides that all men were created free and equal. He is to young to know from personal knowledge and not being versed in history did not know that the republican party engaged in four long years of one of the most bloody wars of modern times in teaching the democratic party that provision should be observed the same as its other provisions. His ancestors in that party fought that principle with all the power within them and did not yield until compelled by the force of arms. Mr. Fleeharty is to be congratulated that he now sees the meaning of that clause as have the republicans for the past fifty years. He need have no fears of the present administration on that point. The inhabitants of the islands of the sea, now under our control will be given every civil and religious liberty that the safety of life, property and order will permit. But the burglar will not liberated from prison nor will the doors of the penitentiary be thrown open to the ravager and murder upon the plea of equality before the law. Only those who obey the laws of God and man can hope to enjoy the liberty of law.

At the conclusion of his speech Rod Smith interposed a motion that was promptly adopted authorizing the chairman and secretary of the committee to fill any vacancies that might occur on the committee or ticket. Mr. Smith doubtless remembered the history of a year ago. Mr. Neville by motion was authorized to select the chairman, secretary and treasurer of the central committee, A. P. Smith of Broken Bow was selected congressional committee-man from Custer county.

The representative convention was held in the court house at 8 p. m.

Judge Morrison of Gandy was elected chairman and editor Wisley of Sargent, secretary. The informal ballot brought out a host of fellows who the office was seeking and they each were lined up for a speech. It is hard to have to state that some of those noble patriots who were willing to be sacrificed upon the altar for the good of their country did not get a single vote after they had made their speech. But to start the convention off at a rapid gait our friend W. J. Taylor was given the nomination as one of the candidates for legislative honors by acclamation. Then came the contest. There were a half dozen more the office had been chasing around for weeks and there was only one place left. It took five ballots to determine the matter. It required 26 votes to nominate and when J. D. Ream came under the wire with 27 votes and Glassey of Sargent with only 19 there was great rejoicing among the friends of the winner and sorrow with the other fellows and the race was declared ended. Next comes the battle.

WOMAN

IS LIKE A DELICATE MUSICAL INSTRUMENT

In good condition she is sweet and lovable, and sings life's song on a joyful harmonious string. Out of order or unstrung, there is discordance and unhappiness. Just as there is one key note to all music so there is one key note to health. A woman might as well try to fly without wings as to feel well and look well while the organs that make her a woman are weak or diseased. She must be healthy inside or she can't be healthy outside. There are thousands of women suffering silently all over the country. Mistaken modesty urges their silence. While there is nothing more admirable than a modest woman, health is of the first importance. Every other consideration should give way before it. Bradfield's Female Regulator is a medicine for women's ills. It is the safest and quickest way to cure leucorrhoea, falling of the womb, nervousness, headache, backache and general weakness. You will be astonished at the result, especially if you have been experimenting with other so-called remedies. We are not asking you to try an uncertainty. Bradfield's Regulator has made happy thousands of women. What it has done for others it can do for you. Sold in drug stores for $1 a bottle.

A free illustrated book will be sent to all who write to THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. Atlanta, Ga.

Populist Primary.

The populist primary in this city was organized by electing A. P. Smith chairman and J. J. Tooley Secretary. The meeting was far from being harmonious. It took nearly three hours to complete the organization and make the nominations. It was 2.15 when the meeting was called to order and it was 4:45 before balloting commenced on the several candidates. The main point of difference was over the construction of the Initiative and Referendum resolution which had been adopted to expedite business. About fifty candidates were placed in nomination for delegates to the county convention.

Rev. Epley was elected clerk of the primary and Elgin Beal and Dr. Hakes judges.

The following township officers were nominated. Committeeman A. P. Smith, Supervisors, H. Lomax, Township clerk, John Deitz, Township treasurer, Minor Taylor, Assessor, J. F. Carlos, Justices of the peace, W. W. Tooley and S. M. Dorrie, Constable, H. M. Brownell.
