One single drop of watch oil will keep your watch well lubricated for a year. To insure perfect running and timing, that drop is just as necessary to the watch as are the gears to the mammoth engine. Friction and atmospheric conditions turn the finest watch oil into dirty gum in a twelve month.

After that you carry a pocket piece—not a time piece.

I charge more than the "tinker" for watch repairing, but it is cheaper for you in the long run.

It isn't the material in the watch that is repaired, but the material that is used in the repair. It is the Know How that does the business, any bungler can buy the fine kinds of material that I use in repairing; but skill is the most valuable material that can be used in watch repairing; and the bungler can't buy it. I sell my skill for what it is worth and it will cost you less than bungling at lower prices.

In Memory of Our Brother, David E. Taylor.

(Composed by Sisters Bessie and Ida Taylor.)

He passed away
To heaven on a day;
A-void the music of birds
The angels bore him away.
Amid the scent of the flowers,
His spirit took its flight;
From this world of care,
To dwell in realms of eternal light.
Leaving friends to mourn,
His loss hard to be borne;
Lo, he gives us strength to say:
"Thy will, O Father, we pray!"
They laid him to rest,
With folded hands upon his breast;
Pale was his face, his brow,
And cold those fond lips now.
Dark clouds hung o'er,
And winds did whisper low;
When they bore him away
To the tomb, that day.
Peace to thee, dear friend,
Heaven's atones upon thy grave descend;
Kind friends around you weep,
And your names in memory will keep.
We hope to meet thee,
Over the part y sea;
When at the golden gate
Loved friends watch and wait.

HONOR FOR NEBRASKA FRUIT.

Placed in United States Exhibit at Paris Exposition, Winning First Prize.

William A. Taylor, of the United States Department of Agriculture, who held the position of acting pomologist at the Paris Exposition, has written George A. Marshall, of Arlington, of Nebraska's success in competition at the world's exposition about a month ago. Mr. Taylor was in charge of the United States horticultural exhibit, and he conveys the information that in the temporary competition of June 27th the collection of apples of the crop of 1899, exhibited by the Nebraska horticultural society, was awarded first prize, "Premier Prix." There were four varieties on exhibit, the Ben Davis, Dominic McIntosh and North West Greening, all grown by Marshall Bros., of Arlington. Though the collection contained fewer varieties than the collections from some of the other states, the fruit was in excellent condition, and presented a fine appearance. Specimens of the above varieties in the exhibit of the Nebraska Horticultural society were included in the general collection of the United States, which constituted forty varieties from fourteen different states. This collection was awarded "Premier Prix" by the jury in the world's competition.
