She Made Eyes.

Women "make eyes" as a business in the days of powder, patches and artificial chivalry. Even now, some superannated belles, who slew her thousands by these old-fashioned methods in the days of Polk and Buchanan, will complain of her granddaughter: "Nelly has beautiful eyes, if she only knew how to use them." Charges are, the grand daughter hasn't the perfect eyes her ancestor had. "We do no 'make eyes,' but make and eyes good by proper application of glasses where needed. Glasses to fit any eye.

It isn't the material that goes into your repaired watch that counts, it is the Know How that does the business, any bungler can buy the fine kinds of material that I use in repairing; but skill is the most valuable material that can be used in watch repairing; and the bungler can't buy it. I sell my skill for what it is worth and it will cost you less than bungling at lower prices.

HONOR FOR NEBRASKA FRUIT.

Placed in United States Exhibit at Paris Exposition, Winning First Prize.

William A. Taylor, of the United States Department of Agriculture, who held the position of acting pomologist at the Paris Exposition, has written George A. Marshall, of Arlington, of Nebraska's success in competition at the world's exposition about a month ago. Mr. Taylor was in charge of the United States horticultural exhibit, and he conveys the information that in the temporary competition of June 27th the collection of apples of the crop of 1899, exhibited by the Nebraska horticultural society, was awarded first prize, "Premier Prix." There were four varieties on exhibit, the Ben Davis, Dominic McIntosh and North West Greening, all grown by Marshall Bros., of Arlington. Though the collection contained fewer varieties than the collections from some of the other states, the fruit was in excellent condition, and presented a fine appearance. Specimens of the above varieties in the exhibit of the Nebraska Horticultural society were included in the general collection of the United States, which constituted forty varieties from fourteen different states. This collection was awarded "Premier Prix" by the jury in the world's competition.

The honor is regarded with pride by those who were instrumental in making Nebraska's exhibit what it was. Mr. Taylor says he feels that the effort to increase the European demand for American fruit bids fair to succeed. He says the outlook at present for the immediate and large increase in the demand is very favorable. at 3t
