is the unanimous verdict of those for whom I have done watch work. I want the difficult and particular work in this line, because I know I am qualified to do it, and do it right, otherwise I wouldn't pay me to ask for it. Somebody may have repaired your watch to the best of his ability, and it remains just as troublesome as before. YOU are the man I want to see.

The county board convened in an adjourned session Tuesday. The chairman, Carr, has not returned from his trip east, hence the work of considering the petitions for division is left to the other members.
Hiram Miller, of Upton, while greasing a windmill on the Seybolt ranch Tuesday, had one finger so badly mashed that it had to be amputated at the knuckle joint. Drs. Pennington & Potter did the work.
Peale, John & Bushnell now have their dry goods and boots and shoes in place in their mammoth store, and are kept busy waiting on their customers with ten clerks. Miss Gates, of Mason City, has charge of the ladies' department.
A fine rain visited this vicinity Monday afternoon and evening. It was not heavy, but was sufficient for the fall grain, and settled the dust. At Mason City the precipitation was much heavier. Three inches by the government test is reported.

S. D. Butcher has the prospectus of his pioneer history of Custer county published, and in it we notice some fine views of Custer county ranches and farms. He will push the work of the publication of the book as rapidly as circumstances will permit.
Jas. Dooley returned Tuesday evening from the national G. A. R. encampment. While gone he visited his old home in Illinois and comrades at a number of different towns. He also spent several days visiting his married daughter Kate. He reports a splendid time.
J. L. McWilliams, who accompanied C. E. Wheeler and E. R. Douglas in an overland trip to the mountains in Wyoming, returned Sunday morning over the B. & M. He reports a fine trip, but the mule route got to slow for him, and he left Messrs. Wheeler and Douglas at Laramie.
Prof. Adamson informs us that arrangements have been completed for extending his telephone line to Sargent. He has ordered the material, and hopes to have the line completed within the next thirty days. He hopes in the near future to be able to connect Wescott, Comstock and West Union with Broken Bow by telephone.
C. C. Conley, of Gandy, was a welcome caller at this office Monday. Mr. Conley was formerly a resident of Broken Bow. Notwithstanding he has been a resident of Logan county for the past fourteen years, he still has a lively interest in Broken Bow, and keeps himself posted through the REPUBLICAN. He is a brother of Mrs. C. S. Martin, of our city.
J. J. Wilson showed as yesterday morning a bunch of strawberries, of which two were ripe, the second crop this year. Mr. Wilson has a bed of strawberries covering about two square rods, off of which he picked fifty quarts of berries this season. He thinks that had he watered them for the last two or three weeks, he would have had a quart or so of the second crop.
In pensions granted recently, we notice in Sunday's Journal two from Broken Bow who were remembered by Uncle Sam. They are Christopher Welliver, who was granted an addition of $8 per month, and Hugh Kenoyer, who was wounded in the Philippine war, $10 per month. Kenoyer was one of Co. M's boys who was shot through the lung.

that does the business, any bungler can buy the fine kinds of material that I use in repairing, but skill is the most valuable material that can be used in watch repairing; and the bungler can't buy it. I sell my skill for what it is worth and it will cost you less than bungling at lower prices.

Gov. Roosevelt Coming.
Theodore Roosevelt, republican candidate for vice president, will favor Broken Bow with a short visit October 3d, at 8 o'clock a. m. A stand will be erected near the depot, where he will speak to the people. He will make several other appointments on the B. & M. line west that day, and his stay here will be necessarily short, not to exceed twenty minutes. He will be accompanied by Senator J. P. Doliver, the noted orator of Iowa, who will doubtless favor us with a speech. They will be accompanied by other speakers, who will stop off and talk to the people at a later hour. But those who want to see and hear the next vice president, will have to be at the depot in Broken Bow at 8 o'clock sharp in the morning, Wednesday, Oct. 3d.

L. E. Wilson, of the firm of Wilson & Drake, one of the largest dry goods houses in Central Nebraska, informs us that their trade has been unusually good this season, and such as to warrant them in laying in the largest stock of goods for the fall trade they have for years. As Messrs. Wilson & Drake are conservative and successful business men, and sell for cash only, we regard this as a most flattering testimony in favor of the substantial condition of the citizens and country tributary to Broken Bow. As the members of the firm are democrats, it cannot well be claimed that Mr. Wilson, in making the statement, colored it for political effect. The almost daily receipt of goods, and an inspection of new goods received, will verify the statement.

Hon. M. W. Howard, of Alabama, was greeted with a fair sized audience in the court house last Friday night, where he discussed politics from the mid road standpoint. His speech was able and logical from his view, and was well received by all. At the conclusion of his address the mid-road congressional convention was held. H. G. Stewart, of Daws, was nominated by acclamation.

Judge Reese, state commander of the Nebraska department of the G. A. R., returned yesterday morning from the national encampment. He says that it was the largest gathering of the encampment they have ever had, except the year they met at Washington, D. C. He speaks very highly of the entertainment provided by the citizens of Chicago. The encampment will be held at Denver next year.

Silas Thompson, of Upton, was a friendly caller Saturday. From him we learn that he and his wife, with a man by the name of Johnson, were the parties that discovered George Zimmerer and Mr. Thomas in the water hole where they were drowned near his place last Thursday. He says it was about six o'clock p. m. when they found the team and buggy and Thomas. From the best information at hand, they had apparently been in the water for four hours, as they left Judge Boblitz about 1 o'clock. The recent rains had washed a hole about twelve feet deep where the road formerly crossed, and where they drove in the banks were perpendicular. The buggy had evidently tipped over as it went into the water, and carried the men under the water with it. The top of the buggy was up. Thomas was lying on one of the horse necks, with his feet on the neck yoke, his head and upper half of his body being under the water. The body of George Zimmerer was found where the buggy and horses were taken from. Both parties had bruises on their faces, and had been bleeding, which sustains the theory that in the upsetting of the buggy they became tangled up with the horses, and were hurt so as to prevent their escape by swimming out. Geo. Zimmerer was a son of Ferd Zimmerer, who formerly lived on the Loup, near where the men were drowned. The bodies were taken to Lexington the same night they were found.

Music! Music! Music!
I am prepared to give lessons in vocal music; also prepared to take pupils for the organ. Having had a long experience in the teaching of music, I am desirous of having a number of pupils, sufficient to establish a choral society in Broken Bow. I am also prepared to clean or tune your organ at your own home, at the lowest estimate.
N. B. Any person or persons wishing for further information, can obtain it by applying at the home of John Bailey, second block west of the Globe hotel, north side of railroad track. Yours,
J. W. DAVISON.
