It is a puzzle to the modern youth how so many old duffers managed to get along in the world without the knowledge of things in general possessed by the modern youth.

A Western hen has laid an egg on which were etched the words, "Prepar for the end is near." The spirit that did the etching has given us good reasons for believing there was a spelling reformer near.

The great dam across the Nile at Assuan has been completed and now Egypt need no longer speculate upon the rise of the crop-bringing water. The great river will rise just when it is needed and as high as needed and Egypt's corn crops will now be uniform.

Boys who "work their way" through college often hit upon odd ways of turning an honest penny. Girls in similar circumstances also appear to be resourceful. Several Radcliffe students are earning their college expenses, or a part of them by tending babies. They receive from twenty-five to fifty cents an hour, and are acquiring information not obtainable through the regular curriculum.

The wisest words spoken in a recent meeting of young New-Yorkers, which was addressed by three conspicuous millionaires, were uttered by Colgate Hoyt. "Business founded on friendship is friendship endangered," said he, "but friendship founded on business is friendship assured." Half of the proposition, that fair dealing wins good will, would be assented to by everybody. But many men have had to learn by sad experience that nothing so surely transforms a friend to an enemy as the suspicion that he is viewed and used as a sort of commercial convenience.

The life of an officer in the navy tends to narrow a man's views. The officers are firm and dogmatic about everything. Their ideas have been acquired as a man is taught to read and write. Inflexible rules govern everything. The officers dress, converse together, go to bed, rise, eat and live in accordance with fixed regulations. Perhaps this is the sort of an institution the navy should be, for the sake of efficiency, but it necessarily involves a condition which interposes a gulf between the enlisted man and the commissioned officer, which persons who have not seen it can hardly understand.

One need not look for changes of world-wide importance to follow the accession of a new ruler in Great Britain, for the power of the British sovereign is, after all, closely circumscribed. Though in theory, for example, the sovereign may veto an act of Parliament, in practice the privilege is not allowed. No English King or Queen, in fact, has exercised the power since Queen Anne vetoed a bill in 1707—almost 200 years ago. It is worth while to contrast this with the practice and power of our own chief executive. Although Washington, indeed, vetoed only 2 bills, and Lincoln 3, Grant vetoed 43 and Cleveland, in his first term alone, vetoed 801.

Philanthropy has been defined as Tom's opinion of what Dick ought to do for Harry. An ounce of illustration is worth a ton of definition. A visitor at a Hartford hospital was told that Nancy Cornelius, a young Indian nurse, could earn twenty dollars a week in that city, and have all her time employed. Feeling a call of duty to the sick and aged among her own people, this splendidly equipped woman offered her services as doctor, nurse, housekeeper and scrubwoman in a little hospital among the Wisconsin Indians. For this arduous work she receives the meager sum of two hundred dollars a year. Her returns in gratitude, and the humble efforts of her people to follow her lead to better things, pass all computation.

Two projects for changing the boundaries of States have of late attracted considerable attention. One is to transfer a part of Western Florida, extending for one hundred and fifty miles on the seacoast, to the State of Alabama, and the other is to annex the northern neck of Idaho to the State of Washington. The chief argument in support of the change in each case is, that it would place the region in question in the State with which it is most closely allied in interests. Most of the business of Pensacola, the leading city of West Florida, is with Alabama, and if it were a part of that State, its importance as an export point for Alabama products would doubtless be heightened. It is also considerably nearer to Montgomery than Tallahassee, and nearer Birmingham than Jacksonville. The "panhandle" of Idaho has very direct railroad connections with the cities of Washington, but very indirect connections with Boise and Pocatello. Proposals for rectifying boundaries as well as for dividing States have been many, the changes actually made, few. Where historic associations gather around a divisional line they are not easily effaced, whatever may be the commercial considerations working in that direction. In cases where railroad connections have made the business relations of a region closer with another State than with its own, the remedy is found in the construction of new lines. Political geography enters somewhat into railroad-building. If a map of the United States, with all its cities and geographical features, were spread out before the wisest of men, and he were asked to divide it into fifty convenient units, how different would be the result of his work from the map of the States as they are! Yet no one, probably, would accept his rearrangement of the lines. State pride makes it difficult to transfer even a square mile of territory from one State to another.

There is a pretty story of a Boston physician and a small patient whom he attended a few years ago. It was necessary for the doctor to perform a surgical operation, slight but somewhat painful, and there were reasons why he did not wish to use an anesthetic. The patient was only 5 years old, but he bore the pain with great fortitude. After the physician had gone, the little boy turned to his father and said, "Papa, I like that doctor. He tells me the truth. He said he was going to hurt me, and he did." The story carries a lesson which parents ought not to overlook. How many fathers and mothers are as honest with their children as this wise old doctor was with his little patient? How many of them can claim from their children the respect he won merely because he told a truth? It is not only in the matter of honesty and frank dealing that children have frequent cause of complaint against their elders; politeness is even more neglected. Parents too often seem to consider courtesy beyond the appreciation or understanding of a child, and even in the presence of strangers will treat their little sons and daughters as if they were quite devoid of feeling. "Who of us," asks Mrs. Charlotte Perkins (Stetson) Gilman, "has not seen a clear-eyed child struck dumb and crimson by the rude laughter of his elders over some act which had no element of humor except that it was new to him? We put grandpa's hat on the downy head of the baby and roar with laughter at his appearance. Do we put baby's cap on grandpa and then make fun of the old lady's looks? Those who really know children are aware that they are sensitive and self-conscious, and often suffer keenly from slights to their personal dignity. There is no surer way to win their hearts than to show the same consideration for their rights as they are asked to show for the rights of others."

Newspaper Run by Convicts. One of the curiosities of journalism is a weekly newspaper run by convicts for convicts. This unique publication circulates among the unfortunate residents in the French penal settlement at New Caledonia in the South Pacific. Its editor was formerly responsible for a Parisian review, but is now undergoing ten years' "hard" for a serious misdemeanor. In consideration of his good conduct in the island various privileges have been extended toward him, among them being that of running a newspaper. Fiction and poetry are the chief features of the weekly.

BISHOP HANDY

SAYS "I Cheerfully Recommend Peruna to All Who Want a Good Tonic and a Safe Cure for Catarrh."

Prominent members of the clergy are giving Peruna their unqualified endorsement. These men find Peruna especially adapted to preserve them from catarrh of the vocal organs which has always been the bane of public speakers, and general catarrhal debility incident to the sedentary life of the clergyman. Among the recent utterances of noted clergymen on the curative virtues of Peruna is the following one from Bishop James A. Handy, D. D., of Baltimore:

"I take great pleasure in acknowledging the curative effects of Peruna. At the solicitation of a friend I used your remedy and cheerfully recommend your Peruna to all who want a good tonic and a safe cure for catarrh."—James A. Handy.

OTHER NOTABLE CURES. A Husband Escaped the Pangs of Catarrh of the Lungs.

Most Cases of Incipient Consumption Are Catarrh.

Edward Stevens. Mrs. Edward Stevens, of Carthage, N. Y., writes as follows: "I now take pleasure in notifying you that my husband has entirely recovered from catarrh. He is a well man to-day, thanks to you and Peruna. He took six bottles of your medicine as directed, and it proved to be just the thing for him. His appetite is good and everything he eats seems to agree with him. His cough has left him and he is gaining in flesh and seems to be well every way. I hope others will try your medicine and receive the benefits that we have."—Mrs. Edward Stevens.

When the catarrh reaches the throat it is called tonsillitis, or laryngitis. Catarrh of the bronchial tubes is called bronchitis; catarrh of the lungs, consumption. Any internal remedy that will cure catarrh in one location will cure it in any other location. This is why Peruna has become so justly famous in the cure of catarrhal diseases. It cures catarrh wherever located. Its cures remain. Peruna does not palliate; it cures. Mrs. Frederick Williams, President of the South Side Ladies Aid Society of Chicago, Ill., writes the following words of praise for Peruna from 372 Taylor avenue, Chicago, Ill.

"My home is never without Peruna, for I have found during the past six years that there is no remedy that will at once relieve suffering and actually cure, as Peruna does. It cures catarrh of the head, throat, chest, and stomach, generally called catarrh. It alleviates pain, soothes soreness, increases the appetite and so tones up the entire system that the patient quickly regains strength and health."—Mrs. W. A. Allison.

"I have had frequent opportunity to observe the wonderful curative effects of Peruna, especially on persons suffering with a congested condition of the head, lungs and stomach, generally called catarrh. It alleviates pain, soothes soreness, increases the appetite and so tones up the entire system that the patient quickly regains strength and health."—Mrs. W. A. Allison.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

A magnificent oak tree at Athens, Ga., not only owns itself, but possesses other property. It was owned many years ago by Colonel W. H. Jackson, who, in his childhood, played around its massive trunk and in later years grew to love it almost as he would his own child. Fearing that after his death the old oak would fall into the hands of persons who would destroy it he recorded a deed conveying to the tree "entire possession of itself and of all land within eight feet of it."
