One quart each of small whole cucumbers, large cucumbers sliced, green tomatoes sliced, and small button onions, one large cauliflower divided into flowerets, and four green peppers cut fine. Make a brine of four quarts of water and one pint of salt; pour it over the mixture of vegetables and let it soak twenty-four hours. Heat just enough to scald it, and turn into a colander to drain. Mix one cup of flour, six tablespoonfuls of ground mustard, and one tablespoonful of turmeric with enough cold vinegar to make a smooth paste, then add one cup of sugar, and sufficient vinegar to make two quarts in all. Boll this mixture until it thickens and is smooth, stirring all the time, then add the vegetables, and cook until well heated through.

Almond Blane Mange.

One and one-quarter ounces of gelatin, one quart of new milk, a little rosewater, a small blade of mace, twelve blanched almonds pounded very fine, a little lemon peel and sugar to taste. First soak the gelatin in the milk for two hours; then simmer altogether till dissolved and strain into a mold. Serve cold with a nice boiled custard or whipped cream.

A Point in Piemaking.

In making a custard pie remember that the baking is an important item. Experience may teach one just the point at which to interrupt the cooking. The best way is to watch the pie and remove it from the oven the moment the custard reaches the boiling point. A custard pie is spoiled if allowed to boil in the oven.

SUPERSTITION IN THE SOUTH

One Negro's Alleged Experience with a Demonincal Black Cat.

"I reckon our Southern 'darkles' are about the most superstitious race of people in the world."

The speaker was a Virginia gentleman in Chicago on business, and his remark was addressed to a little group sitting in one of the hotels and swapping stories. No one disputed the Southern man's assertion, and he con-

"Our darkies see signs and omens in everything imaginable, and the greater part of their life is spent in trying to live up to these omens. This superstition of theirs is undoubtedly a heritage from their forefathers, brought from Africa in the old slave days, and even when the present-day darky gets a little education he never gets quite enough to dispel his superstitious bellefs. They have, among their many other queer ideas, a horror of black cats, which they think are the abodes of wicked spirits, and this reminds me

INCREASE OF UNMANLY MEN.

8 another dreadful catastrophe is proclaimed on the housetops. Will ly man? He is making his approach quite as insidiously as did the unwom anly woman. Before we know it, he will have arrived, just as she did.

Ages ago, it is said, a clever queen invented trousers as a modest and seusible garment for her sex. Man saw their comfort, threw aside his togalike draperies, and appropriated those of the opposite sex. Behold the first unmanly man!

Later, a woman of our own country invented bloomers. Shortly after somebody invented the bicycle. Man cast an envious eye at the bloomer, then quietly grabbed it, called it "knickers," and to-day in the costume of Mrs. Amelia Bloomer's devising for the benefit of her own sex he parades the streets in what he calls "bleycle togs."
