CUSTER CANYON

Mr. Elmer Phillips is back for his father.

The weather is still fine and the canyon people are to go to the canyon.

Mr. Thomas left the canyon, he says the canyon people are to go to the canyon.

Elmer Phillips is still working for King. We think he will get to wear the crown yet.

Corn husking is about done in the canyon. It is said Earnest Booth has about 3000 bushels of corn.

Sixton Hillman said he went to town last Sunday, but we think he didn't go any farther than the Stedry place.

Blunder Bust said to one of her friends I wonder where Frank Giff is now days, his answer was this, you might know he is at Mr. Phelps.

UNION VALLEY.

Werther is fine for the time of year.

Will Canter is hauling hay from his place in the canyon.

Mrs. Ida Rogers was calling on Mrs. Williams last evening.

Mr. Henry Rutter and Eli Giff were calling to the city Friday.

Jesse Gandy was a pleasant caller at Nelson Hillman's Wednesday.

There were quite a number out to church Tuesday but no preacher.

Miss Rosa Giff is taking music lessons of Mrs. Williams. Success to you Rosa.

Dorr Sullivan and Mr. Weisenreider were cyote hunting in our vicinity last week.

Miss Etta Williams is layed up with a broken foot, caused by a horse falling with her.

Jesse Gandy says he raised 40 bushels of corn to the acre. That's too much, Jesse.

Mr. Williams has a new wind mill. Hope he will have plenty of water henceforth.

Mr. Jim Thomas went down the canyon to look after his interests in that vicinity.

Mr. Emmet Shoup and wife took supper with Mr. and Mrs. Rutter Tuesday evening.

We were quite surprised when A. T. Seybolt returned with a blooming bride. He says he had kept batcheors half long enough.

ORTELO.

Miss Eva Waddington spent last week at Ryno.

Mr. Ziehr's spent last Sunday at Mr. Hill's.

Rasmus Anderson, Real Estate.

Bert Waddington and Jim Milne have been on the sick list the last week.

Mr. Dyer are occupying their new house in the valley. They moved last week.

Miss Eva Johnson has been visiting at Broken Bow with her brother J. M. Johnson.

E. D. Morgan spent several days in the city last week. They expect to locate there in a few weeks.

J. M. Fodge, who has not been well for some time is now under the doctor's care. We trust he will soon be better.

J. J. and G. O. Joyner and Mr. Wenderman made a business trip to Broken Bow last Friday, returning Saturday.

Mr. Budd went to Broken Bow last Thursday, and accompanied his wife to Grand Island where she goes for medical care. She was seriously ill when she departed, but no news has since been received.

A. B. Cornish came over from Lodi Sunday and returned Monday. Mrs. Cornish and Masters James and Lyle accompanied him home. He has had the misfortune to lose several cattle and horses from corn stalk disease the last week.

J. R. Baker and wife have moved to the west side of the valley where they will live with J. F. Baker. Geo. Hughes will occupy the house they have vacated, while J. C. Baker will go to Marion City in a few weeks to run a blacksmith shop.

RYNO.

Have you kept that New Years resolution intact?

After a two weeks vacation Miss Mary Downham resumed her school at No. 246 last week.

Mrs. Jane Durant will go to Ohio and spend the remainder of her days among relatives in the Buckeye state.

H. L. Headley will start enroute to Logan county Kansas where he has the offer of a farm if it suits him he will buy and make his home in the Sunflower state.

This fine weather reminds us of the winter of 1871-2 in Pennsylvania or rather no winter; on Christmas bees and insects were as lively as on a May day; on New Years day the boys played ball barefooted all day; ground dry and warm, no ice formed to the thickness of a quarter of an inch during the winter; tender herbs were not frozen, blossoms, buds were swollen during the winter months, seeming ready to bloom and weather prophets predicted no crops as the spring frosts would destroy them, fortunately there were no frosts and we had good crops of grain and fruit.

THE HABIT OF GIVING.

Governor E. D. Morgan's First Taste of Real Happiness.

To the present generation the name of Governor E. D. Morgan of New York is scarcely more than a dim echo from the pages of history, but there are men still living who remember him as one of the group of great war governors whose firmness and courage served their country so magnificently in her darkest hour. It was one who so remembered him who told this incident:

Governor Morgan was a very rich man, but until he was seventy years old he never had given away any of his wealth. Then one day he sent for his old friend, Dr. Adams, the president of Union Theological seminary, and told him that he wished to give a large sum of money to the college. The doctor, almost incredulous at first, was soon convinced of the sincerity of the offer, and a time was set at which he was to go and get the bonds. At the appointed hour the doctor appeared, and bonds to the value of more than $200,000 were put into his hands. The governor stood and watched until the doctor's carriage was out of sight. Afterward he spoke of it to another friend.

"I am an old man," he said. "I have had a successful life and done about all that I had planned to do, and I supposed that I had been happy. But I know now that until I stood and watched Dr. Adams drive away with those bonds I never had known what happiness was. I cannot regret too deeply that early in life I did not form the habit of giving."—Youth's Companion.

The Wills of Noah and Jacob.

The origin of testaments is lost in obscurity, but doubtless they followed soon after the first institution of private property. Eusebius says that Noah made a will soon after the flood when he was disposed of the whole world. He was certainly possessed of a considerable landed estate, but Eusebius' story of the testament in writing and witnessed under his seal needs confirmation.

In the forty-eighth chapter of Genesis, however, we do find mention of a will, wherein Jacob bequeathed to his son Joseph twice as much as to his other children. This was not a testament in writing, but a verbal or nuncupative testament, declared by the testator "in extremis" before witnesses and depending upon oral testimony.

Such nuncupative testaments were at one time recognized in English law, but in the eighteenth century, Blackstone says, they had fallen into disuse and were hardly ever heard of.

Weighing Machines.

Weighing machines and scales of some kind were in use 1800 B. C., for it is said that Abraham at that time "weighed out" 400 shekels of silver, current money, with the merchant to Ephron, the Hittite, as payment for a piece of land, including the cave and all the standing timber "in the field and in the fence." This is said to be the earliest transfer of land of which any record survives and that the payment was made in the presence of witnesses.

The original form of the weighing scale was probably a bar suspended from the middle, with a board or shell suspended from each end, one to contain the weight, the other to contain the material of which it was made and from its former length. It is also known as the Roman balance and is of great antiquity.

Cunning Siberian Natives.

When compelled to travel all night, the Siberian natives always make a practice of stopping just before sunrise and allowing their dogs to go to sleep. They argue that if the dog goes to sleep while it is yet dark and wakes up in an hour and finds the sun shining he will suppose that he has had a full night's rest and will travel all day without thinking of being tired. One or even two hours' stop at any other time is perfectly useless, as the dogs will be uncontrollable from that time forward until they are permitted to take what they think a full allowance of sleep.

Policemen in the Blood.

A writer in Knowledge thus denounces certain wandering cells found in the healthy human body which destroy harmful microbes introduced into the system. "The tonsils, for example, are crowded with these guardian cells." The scene under the microscope when protective cells are introduced into a lively culture of typhoid bacilli is described as very striking, irresistibly bringing before the imagination "the fierce struggle which goes on when disease germs invade the body."

Neither Better Than the Other.

"This dollar"—began the cashier of the restaurant as he scrutinized the coin.

"Is bad, eh?" interrupted the sour looking patron.

"Well, it doesn't look very good."

"That so? Just bite it, and if it's anything like the dinner I had it'll taste even worse than it looks."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Dilemma.

Edith—Forgive me, Bertha, but your husband plays the flute atrociously. Bertha—I know, dear, but what can I do? He used to serenade me with that flute. If I tell him now that he is no player, he will think my love is growing cold.—Boston Transcript.

At the Tennessee Dairy School.

Geo. W. Markham, writing to the Farmers' Review from the Tennessee Agricultural college, says: "The short course began January 3, 1901. There were about thirty-three students at the opening, and some have come since. Much prominence is given to dairying, although all the subjects taken up seem to be very carefully considered. The dairy building is a very fine one and supplied with a large variety of milk testers, cream separators, cheese making outfits, together with all the other necessary machinery and fixtures required. All the students working in this building are uniformed in white duck suits and they present a neat and businesslike appearance. We are divided into squads and on different days have instruction in running the boiler and engine, milk testing, churning, and the manipulation of the several types of separators. Besides this, there is work in pasteurizing milk and preparing it for the city trade and in the making of cheese. For myself, I have been on churning, butter making, milk testing, boiler and engine, etc., and I have found out that one practice period on churning extending from one to six o'clock has taught me more than I ever imagined there was to know about this subject. All the students are delighted with this work and every one is surprised at the vast amount of information required to run a dairy properly."

A Prominent Chicago Woman Speaks.

Prof. Rexa Tyler, of Chicago, Vice-President Illinois Woman's Alliance, in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says: "I suffered with a severe cold this winter which threatened to run into pneumonia. I tried different remedies but I seemed to grow worse and worse and the medicine upset my stomach. A friend advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and I found it was pleasant to take and it relieved me at once. I am now entirely recovered, saved a doctor's bill, time and suffering, and I will never be without this splendid medicine again." For sale by J. G. Haeberle.

BROKEN BOW.

Where once the red man Made his abode, Beneath the ever changing skies, Where rolling prairies pleased The stranger's gaze, Where lofty hills and valleys rare Now stands the city of Broken Bow. Where all the bounties Rich and rare, Beneath the western summer air, Where fragrant flowers once Sent forth their sweet perfume, Now there stands many Happy homes. Where the peaceful Muddy Goes slumbering by; Where the early settler Chose to dwell, Now stands Custer county's pride. Broken Bow is a city, Young and fair; With beautiful schools and Houses of prayer, Midst the fields of fertile soil, Where the farmer never forgets To toil. Where the merchant seeks His customer's needs, And never ceases their wants To please. —J. T. M.

The Mother's Favorite.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the mother's favorite. It is pleasant and safe for children to take and always cures. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and is the best medicine made for these diseases. There is not the least danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by J. G. Haeberle.
