Miss Navy Pierson, who for several years has been stenographer for C. L. Gutterson, went to Lincoln Sunday morning, with the view of remaining permanently. Rumor has it that she is to be married soon.

Ed. McComas and wife, and L. W. Wilson and wife, of Merna, left Sunday morning for the Pacific coast. They expect to visit upper and lower California, Oregon and Washington, and attend the launching of the battleship Nebraska at Seattle on July 4th.

W. E. Baker has moved his billiard tables to the room of N. Gliem's tailor shop, recently vacated. Mr. Gliem has moved his shop to rooms on the second floor of the same building, and the room vacated by Mr. Baker is being fitted up for a bowling alley by Mr. Huff.

Fred Rinne, city clerk, has collected $400 of the city occupation tax, which leaves only about $100 yet to collect, besides $5.00 from each of the insurance companies doing business in the city. The latter tax goes to the fire companies of the city. All the business men of the city have been given an opportunity to pay their occupation tax, but it appears that they are a few who hope to stand the matter off as several have done in previous years. Mr. Rinne informs us that he intends to collect the amount remaining if he has to resort to the law to do it.

Judge Holcomb came up Sunday night on receipt of telegram of the death of his brother. His family came up Monday night. They remained over to attend the funeral.

The district court adjourned Saturday afternoon. The Harris case was continued until the next term of court for want of time, as the Judge had to be at Lexington Monday. The jury in the Rayles case disagreed.

Heavy rains are reported in the southeast part of the county the latter part of last week. Several rods of railroad track was washed out Thursday night near Litchfield, delaying the trains several hours before a temporary track could be laid to let trains pass.

It is safe to say that few abler addresses would be listened to in the large cities, than the one given by Hon. James Whitehead of Broken Bow, a veteran of the Civil War. He was able to draw on his own trying experiences for telling incidents. The causes leading up to the war; the struggle itself, and the final results were eloquently described. Many important lessons were enforced in the choicest language. —Taylor Clarion.

The Holcomb funeral Tuesday afternoon was the largest attended that has been held in this city in a long while. No one has passed away since the organization of the city that had been so greatly admired by so many people. His strength of mind, force of character and sublime and Christian patients, hopeful and cheerful disposition so manifested during his long years of suffering doubly endeared him to all who knew him.

DIED.

HOLCOMB—Sunday, June 8, 1902 at 10 a. m. Wilbur W. Holcomb of tuberculosis, age 36 years, 5 months and 15 days. The deceased was born in Indiana, October 23, 1865. In 1879 he with his mother's family moved to Hamilton county this state. In 1883 the family moved to Custer County. After home steading and farming a few years the deceased studied law with the law firm of Kirkpatrick and Holcomb, his brother S. A. being the Junior member of the firm. On being admitted to the practice of law he and his brother C. H. Holcomb entered into the practice of law and collection business under the firm name of Holcomb Bros. in this city.

In July 1893, the subject of this sketch visited his old home in Indiana. While there roaming over the hills, he slipped and fell, slightly injuring one of his knees. Not suspecting the injury was in anyway serious, he stopped over at Chicago on his return and visited the World's Fair, then in progress in that city. After reaching home the injury continued to grow worse and medical assistance proved of no avail. For a few months he was able to attend to business by going about on crutches, but for the past seven years he has been confined to his bed. Tuberculosis of the joints set in and effected every joint in his body, so that he has been entirely helpless for three or four years, even his jaws being partially set, so that his food had to be specially prepared in order that he might masticate it. For some time he had been deprived of his eyesight and his hearing was so effected that it was necessary to use ear trumpets to converse with him. Notwithstanding his sore affliction he kept himself posted on current events by having others read to him. Fortunately he did not lose his power of speech nor reasoning faculties until within a few hours of his death. Through all this trying ordeal he was patient and hopeful and had a cheerful word for his numerous and frequent callers. His mother who has been his constant attendant through all, has been to him all that the word mother can imply and her care was fully appreciated by him. In health he was an active Christian and Sunday School worker, and was superintendent of the Baptist school of this city when he was taken sick. His friends have the consolation that his faith in his Saviour never weakened and like Job, his misfortune only strengthened his faith in him "who doth all things well." He was a man universally respected by all who knew him in health, and thus had the sincere consolation of all in his long siege of sickness. He leaves a mother, sister and two brothers, several half-brothers and a host of near relatives and friends to mourn his sad ending. The funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon in the M. E. Church by Rev. Geo. P. Trites, assisted by Rev. J. R. Woods of Mason City. His remains were accompanied to the cemetery by a large concourse of people, the funeral being largely attended. The REPUBLICAN extends to his mother, brothers, sisters and relatives the sympathy of the entire community in their great bereavement.
