rants that had not been taken out of his office. Members of the board looked over the list of warrants he had and found a large number that they knew personally the parties had either left the county or execution proof and had the sheriff return them to the treasurer in order to save unnecessary cost to the county, yet the sheriff brought in a bill of $368 against those warrants.

With this array of facts which the pop members of the board had an opportunity to know, they voted against adopting the majority report. Were their votes influenced by political predjudice or for the best interest of the county? The sheriff has appealed from the decision of the board, hoping to bolster up his milage deals, but there is no court in the land no matter how partisan it may be that will compel a county to pay a claim not properly itemized.

"The Sheriff's semi-anual report shows that the fees of his office from January 9th to July 1st, are $2,052.77, or $52.77 more than he is allowed as his salary for a whole year. If the case is decided in Armstron's favor, not one cent of the money in controversy will go into Armstrongs pocket, but every cent will go into the county treasury to pay the running expenses of the county. It was a strange proceeding and when the board saw that at the end of the year the sheriff would have a handsome surplus to turn over to the county."

If this money would have gone into county treasury will the Beacon explain why it has not found its way there from the Sheriff's pocket in the past?

Only $273.02 were turned back for the year 1901, and we are officially informed that no mileage was accounted.

The Beacon knows or could have known that the sheriff does not recognize his mileage fees as part of the earnings of the office. He figures the mileage a perquisite of the office to which he is entitled for expenses. He does not account for the fees he collects on mileage. Instead of reverting back to the county, judging the future by the past, the mileage it would have remained in Eli's pocket and the county would have contributed just that much more to the Armstrong cattle ranch or some other line of his individual enterprise in which he is engaged.

THE ISLAND OF GUAM

BY H. H. HIATT.

Agana, Island of Guam, June 23, 1902.—REPUBLICAN—We have expected very wet weather this month, but it has been fully as dry as May. We are told that next month will be very wet. Nothing has been as it was reported except that this is a warm climate. We are to have a big "Baili" or ball to night in the school house, so we have no school. The dances which give us about two days off, are very enjoyable, and to encourage them, we all attend. A steamer is here with a number of cadets from Annapolis, who have finished their school work and are out on their first cruise. So the Baili is given for their benefit. the fact is, Guam is recognized as the Hub of American society west of the United States. All the "Half Breeds" are invited to night so as to supply the females quantum. Some of the half Spanish girls are quite fair to look upon, and dress with elegance and expense far beyond the American ladies.

A short time ago I looked over the family records of these people and found that 20 per cent of all the children are illegitimate, and 50 per cent of all the people have illegitimate records, and this is no doubt a fairer showing than the actnal facts, for the records are from personal statements of affairs.

This city is full of boys and girls wiohout any fixed home.

There has been an epidemic of inflamed ears among the American's the past month. And we have done some strong groaning, along with our suffering. We endure all these things cheerfully however, so long as it is for "the good of the country." It is amusing to notice the effect of superstitution among these people. We can't get them to eat "Deviled Ham." They get the Devil associated with the canned ham, and have all kinds of notions about it, Some think the Americans raise Devils and fat and kill them for food. Others think the meat is made of bad people who were possessed of Devils. While others think the Devil himself has a canning factory in which he uses all bad people for canning purposes. Like all ignorant religious people, these natives have far more awe and regard for the Devil than for anything else.

We started quite a garden a few weeks ago and sowed some radish seed from U. S. They soon came up, and and grew with promise, but when we looked for radishes to eat we found little woody roots unfit to use. Our tomatoes and cucumbers look well and we have hopes of a taste of real American vegetables. Nebraska vegetables are far more enduring as a palatable diet than all tropical fruit.

It isn't the material that goes into your repaired watch that results in a perfect job, it is the Know How that does the business, any bungler can buy the fine kinds of material that I use in repairing; but skill is the most valuable material that can be used in watch repairing; and the bungler can't buy it.
