I have had occasion to use your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.

J. B. BELSHER, St. Louis, Mo.
Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cured by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it is possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

OBITUARY.

Leaves have their time to fall. Flowers to wither at the north wind's breath. And stars to set, but all. Thou hast all seasons for time, O death.

The truthfulness of these beautiful lines was brought home to the citizens of Anselmo and vicinity in realistic manner last Friday morning, when Mother Kingery fell suddenly and peacefully into that "sleep that knows no waking," in the arms of her son Dan, as a tired child softly sinks to cradled rest on its mother's breast. She awakened in her usual health and having finished breakfast, which was always brought to her bed, she was talking to her son about superintending the cooking for the threshers, whom they were expecting that afternoon, when she suddenly remarked "I'm going!"

And, "twan the wink of an eye, 'no's the draught of a breath. From the blossom of health to the paleness of death."

Mrs. Mary Louisa Kingery, with her two sons, Theodore and Daniel have been residents of Custer county for over twenty years, having come to Anselmo, Neb. from Wisconsin in 1882. Mrs. Kingery was upwards of eighty years of age and in most feeble health, yet was the link that made home for this trio, and for many years she has been very frail and her physical strength was slowly, but surely going. There is no language at our command by which we can fittingly portray the sincerity, unwavering and untiring devotion of these two young men to their aged and infirm mother. If any one ever graced earth with a pure and unselfish and self-sacrificing life, it has been these two sons.

At 3 o'clock, Saturday, Nov. 29, short religious exercises were held at the home, 2 1/2 miles south of Anselmo, and were in accordance with the expressed wish of the dead, of a simple and unostentatious kind and were the more impressive for their very simplicity. Appropriate selections from the scriptures were read and a few benedicting remarks, expressions of sorrow and sympathy were made by the Rev. Mr. J. T. Haney in his usual feeling manner.

The songs were the familiar hymns: "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "One Sweetly Sounded Thought," "Nearer My God to Thee."

The pall-bearers were old friends of the family, Messrs. James Lindly, Ira Foster, F. H. Britton, Wm. Richardson, F. C. Willson, H. B. Andrews, James Lewis, and Fred Brechbuhl.

Willing hands had prepared in Grand View Cemetery, "the low narrow house, whose portal never outward swings," and in that last resting place was tenderly laid and left, just at sunset, all that is mortal of a mother and a good neighbor. And as we returned sadly and thoughtfully home, we were made to feel, "That after all there is something appropriate in the serene death of the old. Nothing is more touching than the death of the young, the strong. But when the duties of life have all been nobly done, when the sun touches the horizon when the purple twilight falls upon the present, the past and the future, when memory with dim eyes can scarcely spell the records of the vanished days, then, surrounded by friends, neath comes like a strain of music. The day has been long, the road weary and we gladly stop at the inn."

The Grass Thrips. Bulletin 83 of the Maine Station consists of a scientific and technical description of the grass thrips (anaphothrips striata Osborn). As the bulletin is not of general interest only a limited edition was printed and it will be sent only on application.

The grass thrips is a minute insect, from one twenty-fifth to one-sixteenth of an inch in length, usually living in some part of the grass plant, from which it sucks the juice. In the early summer its work is confined chiefly to June grass, but later in the season timothy and other grasses are attacked also. The dead grass tops seen along the highway and in the edges of the field are often due to this cause. If the top of a plant thus affected be gently pulled, the stalk usually parts above the upper joint, and the part which was covered by the sheath is found withered and shrunk.

As the thrips feeds by sucking the juices of the plants, contact poisons, as kerosene emulsion or whale oil soap are the only ones which are of use in combating it. When only a small area is infested, one of the insecticides just mentioned or even a liberal application of water will prove successful in controlling the pest. When a large area is infested the application of an insecticide is not feasible on account of the expense of materials and application. In such a case the burning of the dead stalks after the ground has frozen in the fall so as to secure a close burn without injuring the roots of the grass, may prove successful. With badly run out fields, which are the ones most likely to be badly infested, the best remedy is deep plowing in the fall or in the early spring before the grass has started. If this is followed by thorough cultivation none of the insects will be able to make their way to the surface of the ground.

Egyptian Clover. Trifolium alexandrinum. This is an annual clover recently introduced from Egypt. It is believed that it will do well in the southern states, but

It will require more experimentation to show just what its value is and just where it will grow to best advantage.

One Kind of Farming in Mississippi.

Bulletin 76, Mississippi station: The present system of farming in Mississippi fails to make profitable use of all the land on the farm. It permits the most excessive washing of surface soils, and in consequence the cultivated area becomes less productive each year, while the gullies and washes get wider and deeper and more numerous. Grass is not wanted and is either treated with indifference or as an enemy. The money received for the cotton crop is spent for supplies, for work stock and for feed, because not enough of these things are grown on the farm to supply the demand. The present system will not permit of paying good wages for labor, and labor that is poorly paid is generally unsatisfactory.

The growing of live stock on the farm has an important bearing on its productiveness and increases very greatly the opportunities for using all parts of it profitably. By furnishing a means for disposing of the crops grown, live stock encourages diversification and makes it easy to practice rotation without "losing the use of the land when it is occupied by restorative crops." Under the present system one dollar per acre for the entire area is very good rent for the average farm. A few will rent for a little more, while many will not rent for so much. This condition, apparently, is largely due to the fact that no returns whatever are gotten from large areas, while the average productiveness of other large areas is too small for any profit.

World's Cereal Crops for 1902. The Hungarian minister of agriculture issued on September 4 his annual estimate of the grain crops of the world. The figures are approximately as follows:

	Bushels.
Wheat	2,900,000,000
Oats	3,000,000,000
Corn	2,970,000,000
Rye	1,575,000,000

It isn't the material that goes into your repaired watch that results in a perfect job, it is the Know How that does the business. Any bungler can buy the fine kinds of material that I use in repairing; but skill is the most valuable material that can be used in watch repairing; and the bungler can't buy it. I sell my skill for what it is worth and it will cost you less than bungling at lower prices.

Money Saver.....

Custer County Republican and the Nebraska Farmer one year for $1.25. The REPUBLICAN is the official paper of Custer county, and is the oldest paper in the county; and is an up-to-date newspaper. It was founded in 1882. It will continue in the future as in the past to faithfully chronicle and report all the home and neighborhood news, as well as to furnish weekly a budget of general news, entertaining miscellaneous reading and keen editorial comment on matters of current interest. It is indispensable in the up-with-the-times home.

THE NEBRASKA FARMER
is the leading general farm and live stock paper of the west. It was founded in 1869 and has outlasted the dozens of rivals which, since that time, have been started in this territory, all others having died or been consolidated with the Nebraska Farmer, except the latest brood, hatched since 1900, which are merely political papers masquerading under deceptive agricultural titles. The NEBRASKA FARMER is exclusively agricultural, political matter and everything which divert attention from agricultural industry and home making are excluded from its columns. The editors and owners of Nebraska Farmer, each and every one, are practical farmers, owning land and farming or ranching in the west. It is a farmers' paper published by farmers—men who plow and plant as well as pen their thoughts and report their experiences to help other planters.

NO OTHER FARM PAPER
is published by men who have all their lives been doing the things they teach; no other farm paper is so closely in touch with the farm life of the west; no other farm paper can be so helpful to the farmers of the west, its 24 to 32 large pages, weekly, teeming with practical information and advice which will help to make the farm pay and the home pleasant. Nebraska Farmer is contributed to by all the leading thinkers and workers in agricultural industry. It gives all the news about agriculture and live stock affairs. The REPUBLICAN has succeeded in getting a special subscription price from the publishers of Nebraska Farmer. They have cut the best clubbing rate ever made almost square in two to accommodate us. Hence it is we can offer the Nebraska Farmer and the REPUBLICAN both together for $1.25, almost the price of the REPUBLICAN alone.

Call on us at once with your subscription, or send it by mail. Remember the bargain combination price as shown below:
Regular Subscription Price of Nebraska Farmer Per Year....$1.00
Regular Subscription Price of Republican.....1.00
Regular Price of Both Papers.....$2.00
Our Special Combination Offer, Both Papers, Per Year, $1.25.
The publishers of Nebraska Farmer guarantee to us that they will positively stop their paper without notice when the time for which it is paid in advance expires.
