BUSINESS COLLEGE NEWS.

Miss Ella Downey of Merna, visited with us Tuesday.

Mr. P. T. Leonard of Rest, Nebraska, enrolled with us Monday.

Misses Florence Emerson, Nellie and Jessie Rector, returned to school Monday.

We now have two large stoves in the commercial department and one in the typewriting. This makes the rooms a great deal more comfortable.

Since writing the notes of last week it has been decided to give a vacation of two weeks instead of a little more than a week as was announced then.

Prof. Macy drove over from Callaway last Friday in company with Miss Morgan who wished to see our school. They returned Saturday.

Miss Cora Beckwith who has been holding a position as stenographer and book-keeper, with Senator Currie at Sargent, returned to school Monday and resumed her work in the short-hand department.

For the benefit of the business community it has been decided to begin a night school immediately after the holidays. Those who wish to attend and take up arithmetic, book-keeping or work in penmanship, may do so at reasonable rates.

The B. Y. P. U.

The entertainment given by the B. Y. P. U. in the south east corner of the Realty Block last Friday night was quite a successful affair. The Stereopticon lecture on the Spanish American War was an attractive feature of the entertainment and was well rendered by Rev. S. P. Morris, Pastor of the Baptist church. The able manner in which he presented this historical scene of that memorable event was no less interesting than the scenery that marked the path and reproduced the engagements and conquests of the American army and navy as they were thrown upon the canvass. The pleasure of the lecture was fully equalled in the part that followed, especially by the male portion of the audience, as they vied with each other in their efforts to secure the baskets of their choice as they were auctioned off to the highest bidder. A lunch that was probably worth 25 cents brought all the way from 50 cents to a dollar and several purchased from two six baskets before they got the one of their choice. In order to provide for all, those who had more baskets than they could use to advantage turned them over to the committee and they were resold for a less fabulous price to those who could not afford to indulge in a dollar luxury. In this way the society received two prices for a number of the baskets. The receipts of the evening was about $40 and the good time the young people got out of it was worth fully as much more.
