A Preventative of Cornstalk Disease.

The following communication to the Logan County Pioneer may be of interest to our readers:

Dear Sir:—I noticed your article on corn stalk disease in your valuable paper and will say I lost three head, but I found out what killed them and I cured the rest of mine. I had twenty head more coming down with it. I noticed my cattle were very restless, traveled around from cornfield back to water tank, drank ten or twelve times a day. When I opened my cattle I found the stomach dry and hot, it showed to me that there had been a great deal of fever. Now my theory is based on these facts; in the fall of the year, for about six weeks, we have very short feed, then we turn our cattle in the corn field, they gorge themselves, their stomachs ferment and sour, digestion stops, which causes the fever that kills the cattle. Nothing will cure them after they are once paralyzed but there is a preventative; I use salt and soda. Take one and a half pounds of soda to one half bushel of fine barrel salt, put the same in a box or half barrel, place the same between the water and where they bed nights. My reason for this is, they will take a lick at the salt every time they pass by it; keep the salt and soda well pounded up all the time, in four or five days add another half pound of soda. The fever has all left my cattle. With the exception of four or five days I have had my cattle in the stalks right along. They are doing well up to the present time. Don't give them any other salt. I know I am right.

Yours truly,
C. C. BABCOCK.

MIDWINTER EXCURSION TO FLORIDA

The Burlington Route again offers a midwinter excursion to Florida, to leave Nebraska, points, Tuesday, January 5. Through standard Pullman sleepers will be run from Lincoln and Omaha to Jacksonville, Florida, doing away with the necessity of any change of cars.

The route will be via St. Louis and thence to Jacksonville, Florida, closely following the line of Sherman's famous march to the sea. The journey will be pleasantly broken at Chattanooga, Tennessee, where a day will be spent in visiting Lookout Mountain and other points of historic interest. Those who desire to stop over in St. Louis can join the party en route.

The excursion will be personally conducted by a representative of the Burlington Route who is familiar with points of interest en route and in Florida. After leaving Jacksonville, members of the party will have the choice of a number of attractive side trips and may return home at their leisure. An exceedingly low rate has been made for this excursion, and the opportunity to escape the snow and ice.

An Emperor's Strange Fancy.

Strange fancies have taken hold of some men regarding the manner in which their bodies were to be disposed of after death and the ceremonies to be observed at their funerals.

The great Emperor Charles V. had the curious idea of celebrating his own funeral. Shortly before his death he caused a tomb to be made in the chapel of the monastery of Estremadura, to which he had retired after his abdication, and on its completion he was carried to it as though dead. Placed in a coffin and accompanied by a procession, he was borne along, while chants were sung, prayers said and tears shed. After the solemn farce was over he was left alone in the chapel, where he remained a short time before rising out of the coffin.

Too Good Highlanders.

Some years ago a vote was taken among the men of a certain highland regiment (at that time not wearing the kilt) to find out how many would be in favor of wearing the highland costume.

In due time the sergeant major appeared before the commanding officer with the result of the voting.

C. O.—Well, sergeant major, how many are in favor of the kilt?
S. M.—Two men, sir.

C. O.—Only two. Well, I'm glad there are at least two good highlanders in the regiment. What are their names, sergeant major?
S. M.—Privates Patrick O'Brien and Michael Rooney, sir.—Scottish American.

Struck For $16 a Day.

In San Francisco in 1849 clerks in stores and offices had magnificent salaries. Five dollars a day was the smallest stipend even in the custom house, and one Baptist preacher was paid $10,000 a year. Laborers received $1 an hour. A pick or a shovel was worth $10 and a butcher's knife $30. At one time the carpenters, who were getting $12 a day, struck for $16.

A HEROIC TRIO.

Travis, Crockett and Bowie and a Neglected American Epic.

The late Frank Norris in an article in World's Work says that the American epic, which on the shelves of posterity should have stood shoulder to shoulder with the "Henskringla" and the "Tales of the Nibelungen" and the "Song of Roland," will never be written because the Hector of an ignored "Iliad" has been forgotten. "One of the requirements of an epic—a true epic—is that the action must devolve upon some great national event. There was no lack of such in those fierce years after forty-nine. Just that long and terrible journey from the Mississippi to the ocean is an epic in itself. Yet no serious attempt has ever been made by an American author to render into prose or verse this event in our history as 'national' in scope, in origin and in results as the Revolution itself. The prairie schooner is as large a figure in the legends as the black ship that bore Ulysses homeward from Troy. The sea meant as much to the Argonauts of the fifties as it did to the ten thousand."

"And the Alamo! There is a trumpet call in the word, and only the look of it on the printed page is a dash of fire, but the very histories slight the deed, and to many an American born under the same flag that the Mexican rifles shot to ribbons on that splendid day the word is meaningless. Yet Thermopylae was less glorious, and in comparison with that siege the investment of Troy was mere wanton riot. At the very least the Texans in that battered adobe church fought for the honor of their flag and the greater glory of their country, not for loot or the possession of the person of an adulteress. Young men are taught to consider the 'Iliad,' with its butcheries, its glorification of inordinate selfishness and vanity, as a classic. Achilles—murderer, egotist, ruffian and liar—is a hero. But the name of Bowie, the name of the man who gave his life to his flag at the Alamo, is perpetuated only in the designation of a knife. Crockett is the hero only of a 'funny story' about a saucy coon, while Travis, the boy commander who did what Gordon with an empire back of him failed to do, is quietly and definitely ignored. He died in defense of an ideal, an epic hero, a legendary figure, formidable, sad. He died facing down injustice, dishonesty and crime; died 'in his boots,' and the same world that has glorified Achilles and forgotten Travis finds none so poor to do him reverence."

Needless Alarm.

Dangerous things look safe, and safe things look dangerous. The trouble is all in the beholder's eye, as the common expression is. An Englishman was on a voyage to Spain.

Ships were flying by of varying shape, rig and color. One, the Englishman noticed, was bearing slowly down toward him, with her cargo piled on deck half way up the masts. What could she be? How could she hope, laden in this way, to live out the faintest suspicion of a gale?

The English traveler was considerably exercised about her. Something surely ought to be done to make such rascally "deck loading" illegal and impossible. He scanned the vessel with his glass. The breeze was light, but she rode buoyantly. At last a sailor cleared up the mystery.

"Why, sir," he said bluntly, "she's only a coaster loaded with cork."

Advantage of Advertising.

"Will you allow me to ask you a question?" interrupted a man in the audience.

"Certainly, sir," said the spellbinder.

"You have been giving us a lot of figures about immigration, increase in wealth and all that," said the man.

"Let's see what you know about figures yourself. How do you find the greatest common divisor?"

Slowly and deliberately the orator took a drink of water.

Then he pointed his finger at the questioner, lightning flashed from his eyes, and he replied in a voice that made the gas jets quiver:

He Caught Him.

Slick (to Blossom)—Is this Mr. Bloomer's office?
Blossom—No. His office is across the hall.

Slick (leaving the door open as he walks out)—Thank you, sir.

Blossom—Hi! Come back and close that door. Haven't you any doors in your house?

Slick—Yes, sir, but they all have springs on 'em. Allow me to show you, sir, my patient double back action door spring. It closes without a bang and is warranted to last a lifetime.

Professor Was Noting Things.

"Wasn't it a terrifying experience," asked his friend, "when you lost your foothold and went sliding down the mountain side?"

"It was exciting, but extremely interesting," said the college professor. "I could not help noticing all the way down with what absolute accuracy I was following along the line of least resistance."—Chicago Tribune.

No Better Off.

"Poor Robinson! He couldn't make a living and married a woman with money."

"But isn't he all right now?"

"Hardly. She is so close with it that he has to work harder than ever."—Life.

But They Help Not a Little.

"Of course, clothes don't make the man."

"Certainly not."

"At the same time, if you have a new suit you'd better put it on when you go out to ask for credit."—Chicago Post.

WHAT IS A "COLD?"

The Word That Covers a Multitude of Ills Expounded.

Professor Lohberg, in the Vienna Clinical Review, on an essay on cold in the head, says that the "ordinary cold is no individual complaint, but only a collective name for a large number of different complaints."

He continues, "The attempt to discover a universal remedy against a cold is just as absurd as to search for a generally efficacious remedy for headache." The particular complaint of which the cold is the symptom can only be ascertained by careful examination of the nasal cavities and neighboring parts. Hence sufferers should be circumspect in the use of remedies.

The professor says only that which is true, but of which the mass of mankind is ignorant. Colds are of innumerable varieties, but the most common one is that which is persistently misunderstood. It is attributed to anything but the right cause, which is a microbe.

All its symptoms are those of a highly infectious fever, and the public instead of blaming the microbe of infection and striving to kill it will persist in denouncing drafts, wet feet, low temperature, etc.

They exclude air, the enemy of the microbe, from their rooms; they supply a temperature in which it can multiply, and, having become thoroughly inoculated by breathing the germ laden atmosphere, they find that a cold current of air causes them to shiver. The shivering of the ordinary mind decides the question of causation.

It is significant of every fever that it begins with shivering, and a cold is no exception.

Money Saver.....

Custer County Republican

and the Nebraska Farmer one year for $1.25. The REPUBLICAN is the official paper of Custer county, and is the oldest paper in the county; and is an up-to-date newspaper. It was founded in 1882. It will continue to the future as in the past to faithfully chronicle and report all the news and neighborhood news, as well as to furnish weekly a budget of general news, entertaining miscellaneous reading and keen editorial comment on matters of current interest. It is indispensable in the up-with-the-times home.

THE NEBRASKA FARMER

is the leading general farm and live stock paper of the west. It was founded in 1869 and has outclassed the dozens of rivals which, since that time, have been started in this territory, all others having died or been consolidated with the Nebraska Farmer, except the latest brood, hatched since 1909, which are merely political papers masquerading under deceptive agricultural titles. Nebraska Farmer is exclusively agricultural, political matter and everything which divert attention from agricultural industry and home making are excluded from its columns. The editors and owners of Nebraska Farmer, each and every one, are practical farmers, owning land and farming or ranching in the west. It is a farmers' paper published by farmers—men who plow and plant as well as pen their thoughts and report their experiences to help other planters.

NO OTHER FARM PAPER

is published by men who have all their lives been doing the things they teach; no other farm paper is so closely in touch with the farm life of the west; no other farm paper can be so helpful to the farmers of the west, its 24 to 32 large pages, weekly, teeming with practical information and advice which will help to make the farm pay and the home pleasant. Nebraska Farmer is contributed to by all the leading thinkers and workers in agricultural industry. It gives all the news about agriculture and live stock affairs. The REPUBLICAN has succeeded in getting a special subscription price from the publishers of Nebraska Farmer. They have cut the best clubbing rate ever made almost square in two to accommodate us. Hence it is we can offer the Nebraska Farmer and the REPUBLICAN both together for $1.25, almost the price of the REPUBLICAN alone.

Call on us at once with your subscription, or send it by mail. Remember the bargain combination price as shown below:
