Those who bought trees this spring of the Crete Nursery will no doubt be interested to know that their representative Frank G. Stevens will come to Broken Bow about June 1st to call on every customer in the county that has bought trees of the Crete Nursery to see how they are succeeding and to render all possible assistance in the way of advice and helpful suggestions. Mr. Stevens has demonstrated his faith in Custer county by opening up a farm of 480 acres and he expects to take a permanent interest in the horticultural development of the country. His frequent visits will be a great help to those growing fruit and those who contemplate planting fruit trees will find it to their interest to hold their orders for him that they may have his valuable assistance in getting an orchard started. The day has come when fruit can be grown in Custer county and a few years of careful planting and culture will prove it.
