A vote for fusion will be a vote against the republican administration and an endorsement of the financial panic we endured through the years of 93 to 97.

The Hooker County Tribunes says that Fred Hewitt has severed his connection with the Bank of Mullen and departed last Thursday for Salina, Kansas.

Every voter who endorses President Roosevelt's administration

Glasses That Suit Your Eyes are what you want when you need glasses at all. Glasses that are not what your eyes require may be a hindrance instead of a help to good vision. It is also very important that the FRAMES hold the glasses in a proper position in front of the eyes. It will cost you nothing but a few moments of your time to step in and see if you need glasses.

tion now have an opportunity to show their appreciation by voting the republican ticket this fall.

Judge Sullivan's opinion on bible reading in the public schools seems to have stirred up a hornet's nest. The so-called opinion was really a straddle that pleased nobody and irritated a good many people.—Bee.

Peter Mortensen, state treasurer, is succeeding amazingly well in investing the permanent school fund. There is but 40 cents in the fund not invested. Quite a contrast from the record of the late pop treasurer, Meserve.

The Western Round Up of Merna, made its appearance again last week with the name of R. W. Kelsey at its head. It appears that Boldman & Sorenson's Merna Herald failed to materialize, which left room for the resurrection of the Round Up. Mr. Kelsey is a young man with considerable ability for a boy of his age and he is capable of making the Round Up a success, if he will conduct it on strict business principles, contract no debts and live within his receipts. The REPUBLICAN wishes him success.

The conclusion of the Custer County Republican that Mr. Hand of Buffalo county was not the only pebble, and that there were one and possibly two populists in Custer county who were suitable stuff for the judicial nomination, appears to have been somewhat premature.—Kearney Hub.

Yes. But just think how heartless those delegates were. Custer county could have made the sacrifice and still we would have had others left. What will Kearney do for another candidate when Hand is killed off. His defeat is assured and there are no more pops growing in the legal fraternity. Then the worst of it is that the Custer delegation deserted their own candidate to help do it.

Do not be fooled into voting for local candidates on the pop ticket with the notion that it will cut no figure in the presidential election next year. Suppose every republican would do that where would be the party to nominate and elect Roosevelt in 1904. If you are a republican the maintaining of the party depends upon you as much as it does upon any other republican. Be loyal to yourself, loyal to the party of progress, loyal to the principles for which the republican party stands by voting for the county, judicial and state nominees. They are the choice of the majority of the several conventions by which they were chosen. Besides they are all honorable men and worthy.

J. O. Taylor, the republican candidate for sheriff is one of the citizens of Custer county, who has been identified with the interests of the county, almost since its organization. He commenced as a homesteader, just after reaching his majority, with industry and good judgment as his principal capital in stock. He broke broncos and broke the prairies for his first crop on his homestead and has by energy and perseverance built up one of the finest farm homes in his part of the county. He now owns several hundred acres of good land, has his farm well stocked and equipped with good substantial frame building as a result of his labors. Such a man with the office of sheriff in his control as-ures that a strict accounting of the business of his office can be relied upon.

The charge of the Beacon that Judge Gutterston's defeat in the republican convention was due to the U. P. railroad influence, would have been a serious charge if it had been true. But every one that knows the situation knows his defeat was strictly from political reasons, for which neither the U. P. nor B. & M. cared a fig. But had the charge been true it was not to the dishonor of the republican delegates of Custer county, who for two weeks and through more than 1600 ballots remained loyal to Judge Gutterston, their own citizens and died with him in the ditch rather than forsake him on the field of battle. A party represented by men of such loyalty Providence delights to honor. Contrast will you the action of the pop delegates at the judicial convention and say which set of delegates you would delight to honor?

George B. Mair.
 The man who has stood by a county in its times of adversity should not be forgotten in its days of prosperity. The man who has been steadfast in private and public honor can be relied to meet the expectation of the people in official position. Geo. B. Mair has been a man whom the people have always trusted, and whose best endeavors have been given to the advancement of Custer county. He is seasoned in mind and character, and will bring dignity and efficiency into the office. The Clerk of the District Court should not be an adventurous tyro in politics. The office should be filled by a man of fixed business habits, careful management, and prudent judgment. Mr. Mair will serve the people regardless of party, and make official duty paramount to personal or political ends. Every republican owes it to Mr. Mair to give him his vote and influence.—Sargen Leader.

The Demo-Pop Judicial Convention.

The pop convention of the Twelfth Judicial convention held at Ravenna last Thursday developed into a double barrel affair that produced but one small wad.

In an adjoining room the democrats met at the same time of the pops.

When the pop convention had named a Kearney man, Willis L. Hand, for its candidate the democrats for with announced Hand as their choice.

Neither convention was very largely represented. Custer county was entitled to eighteen delegates in each of the conventions. The Chief says that of the pop delegates from Custer only Sullivan, Stockham, Beal and Shinn were present.

About the same number from Custer represented the eighteen democrats.

From reports it appears even the few could not agree in either convention.

The four delegates in the pop convention were equally divided for and against J. R. Dean, their home candidate. They cast the whole vote of the delegation and at no time did Mr. Dean receive more than nine votes and part of the time only 4 1/2 votes.

Political courtesy, should have suggested a complimentary vote, at least from the home county, regardless of the influence of the U. P. railroad or any other political deal that may have been previously made. Had Buffalo county had a better man morally or one better qualified to fill the position the Custer delegates might have been justified in deserting their home candidate for the Kearney man.

But such was not the case. Morally Hand is said to be of high repute and especially strong anti-saloon, but there are none who ever questioned Mr.

Dean's temperance views. On the question of legal ability it is said there is no great difference between them.

The Chief Says Hand is Not Strong

The Custer County Chief which has the distinction of having been the official organ of the pop ring for years, in speaking of Mr. Hand's nomination says: "We do not consider the nomination of W. L. Hand a strong one, and we believe the populists and democrats could have done better."

Will the voters of Custer county continue to affiliate with and support a party, so-called, controlled by two or three designing leaders who not only abandon the claim of the county's best citizens that, some one of their number may enjoy the smiles of some gigantic monopoly like the U. P. railroad, and who supinely acquire and become parties to the fusion deals enacted at the state and judicial conventions contrary to the implied wishes of the convention that elected them? Will you vote for nominees whose selection is not the best, when your own representatives turn traitor to one of our own citizens in consummating the deal? Do the honest populist of Custer county, who were populists from principle and not for spoils only intend to continue to allow these self constituted leaders, who openly and defiantly renounce the power from which they received their authority, lead them around as with rings in your nose? Has it come to that pass that two or three are the brains and the whole thing of the populist party of Custer county? If so, we plead with you to desert that stranded and depleted wreck before it sinks. Let the blame its down fall be where it belongs, upon the heads of its few misguided, who are wholly responsible for its deplorable condition.

Save your credit and the future disgrace of your children by deserting the skeleton before next November election strips it of every vestige of the honor and pretence that it once had. Vote the republican ticket straight to a man and declare yourselves free from the political shackles that has had but fusion and spoils for its stock in trade. Be men! Awake to your own financial interests and the general welfare and prosperity of the country and vote not for men, but for the principles of protection, progress and happy homes and you will never regret it.

and neither was it very harmonious.

Some of the faithful ones were opposed to fusion and wanted a straight democrat ticket while others contended that as the state and judicial convention had fused with the pops that the proper thing to do was to fuse in the county.

The fusion element prevailed and a ticket of democrats, pops and republicans was the result, as can be seen by the ticket as published in another place in this paper.

The main question did not seem to be so much whether the candidate was a democrat. Several of the delegates had personal friends that they wanted to favor and that created more trouble than did the brand of their politics.

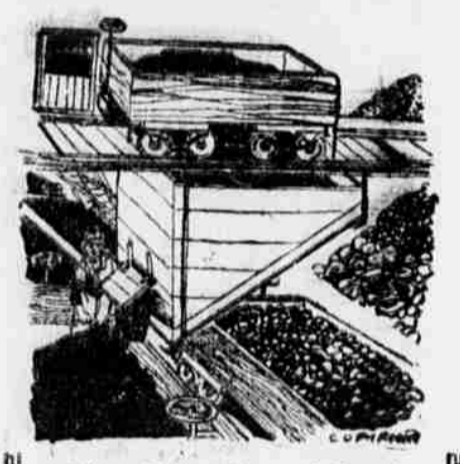

For instance Dr. Mullins contended that Dick Miller had a war record and thought he should be endorsed. Eastham contended that as both Richardson and Haney, as well as Boblits had war records in the Civil War that the convention had made a good record in remembering those with war records, and as Richardson and Haney were from Virginia none would question Richardson's democracy.

The nomination of Lewis was opposed by some on the theory that he was not a democrat, but the same parties wanted Johnson endorsed notwithstanding he is a pop.

The charge was finally made that the prohibition democrats had made the ticket and for that reason it was objectionable, but with Judge Boblits at the head of the ticket that contention will not be taken seriously by the burbons generally.

The most that can be said for the ticket is that it is not partisan, except in name and that it is not likely to attract a very great majority of voters, but it is very probable that some of the nominees will be elected. It is but justice to say in behalf of the nominees whose name appears on the republican and populist tickets that their endorsement was not through any connivance or knowledge of theirs, with pos-

Dragging Pains
 2825 Keeley St., CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.
 I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groin. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

 Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.
