The Church dedica in at Ansley.

Last Sunday the Baptist church building at Ansley was dedicated at 2:30 in the afternoon. The sermon was preached by Rev. S. P. Morris of this city, and the prayer offered by Rev. J. R. Woods of Mason City. The church was organized four years ago with but a few members. Now the membership is nearly, if not quite, three times as large. The building complete cost in the neighborhood of $1,700. While the building is not so pretentious in outward appearance as some churches, it is very handsomely finished in the interior as well as commodious and comfortable.

It is seated with elegant pews and is lighted with electricity and heated by a furnace.

There were thirty who went down from Broken Bow to attend the afternoon services. A few went on the 11 o'clock train, but most of them drove down, returning in the evening. All speak well of the cordial treatment by the Ansley people.

The Boggs Cattle Sale.

At the Boggs public sale of Red Poll cattle Monday at his residence north of Weissert, something like fifty head of cattle were sold. The cattle consisted of grade cows, heifers and bulls. The heifer calves brought $20 a head. While the cows did not bring as fancy a price in proportion, they brought good prices considering the depressed condition of the cattle market. Those who bought animals of this fine family of Red Polls will never have occasion to regret it. Mr. Boggs has been fifteen years in breeding up this herd to the high standing it has attained and it was one of the best herd of Red Poll cattle in the county. He did not sell his entire herd. He still has 20 or 30 head of high grade and pedigree stock that he kept out. He has some fine registered bulls that he would sell should anyone desire them.

A FARMER FINDS FAULT.

He Wants Wages Reduced, Low Prices And Cleveland Times Again.

Broken Bow, Oct. 26, 1903.

Editor REPUBLICAN:

DEAR SIR:—I want to let you know that I'm about tired of the way you fellows blow yourselves. Its all humbug! Love the people! Well, yes—I guess so. And I'm tired of this blamed prosperity too. No sir, I think I'll vote the pop ticket this fall. I had better times when Cleveland was president than now. I could hire my work done at half present wages and I could take the world easy and above all I used to run the place myself whereas my hired man bosses the job now. No, when times are so good that hired men want to boss the boss and slur the women of the house I think its time for a change. Give us Cleveland times again. Then these same overbearing fellows will come around and beg for work at any price and they will not fly off the handle either if things don't go exactly to suit them.

If you had half the sense you think you have you'd work and vote against the party that fetched us this prosperity, which put us at the mercy of the hired man. All respectable people should stand together now, we want cheap and respectful labor and the easiest way to get it is to vote the democratic party into power. You know its so, and you might be honest once anyway and admit it. Yours truly,

A FARMER.

The above communication from a farmer was a rather pleasant surprise for us. We really didn't know that times were so good that something had to be done to keep the wage earner down. Of course a farmer is right in that he says that Cleveland times will fetch them to time. Yes, we admit it. Yes, give granny democracy the reins once more and the soup houses, tramps, strikes and general stagnation would be here again. A Farmer was merely in hard luck in getting an especially hard case as hired man. A Farmer's experience is the exception rather than the rule. But does anybody want a return to conditions as they were under Cleveland's administration? No, certainly not, unless it were a kid glove farmer. The hired man gets high wages simply because the farmer can pay high wages and have a balance left. If he could not be sure-ly would not hire. The point is however that if the hired man can earn his wages and a surplus under the republican administration, the farmer who himself is a laborer earns in the same proportion as the laborer. The income from the farmer's own labor can only be high when the hired man earns high wages also. So if a farmer wants to cut his own earning in two he is on the right track. But if he does not, he merely had a spell of the blues, and when he gets over that he will be himself again—get into the push and dig. And he'll vote the republican ticket all the way through and feel ashamed that he ever bore a grudge to the laboring man. Facts speak louder than theories. Conditions and results are undeniable. If a man like A Farmer plainly sees from cause to effect and then wants a return of the soup house to fame labor there is no more room left for argument. Time alone may work off his over stomach.

Attention Farmers.

Why remain in the North and stay in doors six months in the year consuming what you raise during the other six months?

Go South where you can work out doors every month in the year, and where you are producing something the year round. If you are a stock raiser you know your stock are now "eating their heads off" and, besides, have to be protected from the rigors of winter by expensive shelter.

Economical stock feeding requires the combination of both flesh-forming and fat-forming foods in certain proportions. Alabama and Florida produce in abundance the velvet bean and cassava, the first a flesh producer, and the latter a fat producer, and they are the cheapest and best fattening materials known to the world.

More money can be made and with less labor, in general farming, fruit and berry growing, and truck gardening, along our road in the South than in any other section of the Union.
