District Court News.

As the REPUBLICAON went to press last week the Lodi church case was on triai. It was about the middle of the afternoon Thursday, while the jury was enjoying a ten minutes intermission, that Judge Grimes proposed to Attorney Sullivan, one of the attorneys for the church, that he would pay half the amount sued for if he would pay the other half. Sullivan accepted and the amount, $27.00, was paid into court. On the reassembling of the jury Judge Grimes dismissed the case. He delivered the following speech:

"Gentlemen of the jury, the amount involved in this case has been paid into court, and you are discharged from further consideration of it. It is a shame and an outrage that a case of this kind should be pending in tor Deitrich and Postmaster this court.
