Vermont and Maine gave increased republican majorities at their state elections which is a good indication of what every northern state will do on date of the general election.

The populists of the 56th representative convention "took time by the forelock" by pledging the nominees if elected not to support W. J. Bryan for United States Senate if elected.

Honest Tom Holliday already has the fusion crowd against him for the legislature. The only reason assigned is that he was with the Deaver crowd four years ago and helped defeat Nevill for Congress and is now against Bryan for the Senate.

Candidate for Governor Berge on the fusion ticket is still talking about the wickedness of the new revenue law. But he isn't quoting the recent fusion supreme judge Sullivan, who thoroughly examined the law, passed upon it, and found it to be a good law.—Grand Island Independent.

The democratic national committee has made several special efforts since the St. Louis convention to install enthusiasm into their campaign, but thus far every attempt has been a failure. Realizing that theirs is a lost cause in the west their whole attention has been turned to the east and south. But even in those localities only a lukeworm support of Parkerism is seen. The present indications are that both New York and Indiana which they had hoped to count in the democratic column will give handsome majorities for Roosevelt and it is even predicted that Missouri and Mississippi will give the republican candidates their electoral vote.

A. Galusha.

A. Galusha, republican candidate for Secretary of State, was born at Franklin Falls, Franklin county, New York, July 29, 1859. His parents died when he was a mere child and when eight years of age he was "taken to raise" by his grand parents and resided with them until their death nine years later.

Thus for the second time left to his own resources, young Galusha worked on a farm to earn his education which consisted of the usual common school grind supplemented with a course at Lawrence Academy.

In 1882, Mr. Galusha removed to Nebraska, locating at Seward where he spent three years clerking in a general store.

In 1885, Mr. Galusha, having married meanwhile, entered business upon his own account at Red Cloud, continuing there in the clothing business until July, 1893. Since then Mr. Galusha has been a travelling man and has devoted a large portion of his time to insurance and fraternal work.

He is a member of all branches of Masonry, and has been a member of the Grand Lodge of Avon, since the advent of that organization in this state. He has served on nearly all of its committees and has been secretary of its finance committee for many years.

Mr. Galusha has been tendered many county offices all of which he has refused, preferring to serve the party as a private in the ranks. He always has been a stalwart republican and was one of the few outspoken adherents of McKinley in Webster county in 1896.

Mr. Galusha entered the race for secretary of state—that being the only office which he has ever craved—and won the nomination because of the enthusiastic work of his old friends and neighbors in Seward and Franklin counties and elsewhere. In the convention the counties in which he had resided were uncompromisingly for him, "first, last and all the time."

Scott and Dobesh.

Since our last issue supervisors districts one and seven have placed republican candidates for supervisors in their respective districts. In District No. 1, John Scott of Westerville, was nominated and District No. 7, A. P. Dobesh.

Both these men are representative citizens and successful farmers. They are men highly capable of filling the office for which they have been selected and should they prove to be the choice of the voters of their respective districts their constituents will never have cause to regret their choice.

The republican nominations for the several districts that elect this fall, now have all been made. They are: John Scott from Dist. No. 1, G. H. Thorpe from Dist. No. 3, F. J. Drumm from No. 5 and A. P. Dobesh No. 7. They are men well qualified, conservative and men of business ability.

G. H. Thorpe of this district is the present chairman of the board and is thoroughly conversant with the business of the county. His experience in the last four years will be invaluable in conducting the affairs of the county and reelection his should be unanimous.

Fusion Democrat on Fusion.

Col. H. W. Risley, one of the editors of the Grand Island Democrat always a submissive fusionist for Bryan's sake, gives his opinions of the late fusion conventions in the following language:

"The delegates to the democratic and populist state conventions are leaving for home today in a far from good humor. An afternoon and long night of vigil necessary to carry out a bargain has left its sting of bitterness. The engagements of commerce sometimes produce this result.

"Two weeks ago, the bulk of the democratic leaders of Nebraska signed and sealed a compact that a populist should receive the fusion nomination for governor, together with such other places as populist leaders should see fit to ask, and the compact has been delivered. The boys on the firing line were not consulted and of course had nothing to say.

"Favoring fusion as I always

Neglected Colds.

Every part of the mucous membrane, the nose, throat, ears, head and lungs, etc., are subjected to disease and blight from neglected colds. Ballard's Horehound Syrup is a pleasant and effective remedy. 25c, 50c, $1.00. W. Akendrick, Valley Mills, Texas, writes: "I have used Ballard's Horehound Syrup for coughs and throat troubles; it is a pleasant and most effective remedy." Sold by Ed. McComas, Broken Bow and Merna.

have, I am bound to admit that a free and untrammelled expression of the individual delegates in both conventions would have defeated it decisively. The hardy warriors of ancient Gaul compelled their captives to pass beneath a yoke to denote their submission to a power. If this submission was at times sullen and silent, it was none the less absolute. In such mood did the delegates of both conventions accept the decree of their leaders, and pass beneath a political yoke they wished, but lacked courage to avoid.

"Four or five democrats and as many populists outlined a program and compelled its ratification. Kindly indulge me if I doubt the love of good government of those who on the one side preferred republican success to the acceptance of anything less than the lion's share of the spoils and I question the wisdom of those who on the other side tamely submitted to the humiliation of their party and lifted never a finger to prevent it. Plenty of proof is available to support the assertion that there was an entire lack of conciliation, a total disregard of the preferences and even the rights of delegates.

"The democratic convention was the least creditable of any ever held in the state. It was the first time in the party's history that a democrat was denied an opportunity of voting for a democrat in a democratic convention as his choice for governor. Shallenberger would have been the nominee. Boyd and Smyth had supporters and Billy Thompson had plenty of friends who intended to ignore his refusal to run and vote for him. The acceptance of Mike Harrington's deft disfranchised every democrat in his own convention, and the day of reckoning may not be long coming for the few men who thwarted the laudable ambition of many men to at least express a preference for one of their own faith."

LINCOLN LETTER.

Mr. Berge poses as a life-long friend of the farmer. Just what he has done to deserve this title no one takes the pains to explain, but he says that he is the farmer's friend, and of course he ought to know. But it seems a little queer that this farmer's friend who never has befriended the farmer should open his campaign by firmly upholding the right of municipalities to tax railroad terminals, which of course means that the rural districts would lose the benefit of the railroad terminal values and Omaha and Lincoln would profit immensely thereby. The whole proposition has been threshed over so often of late that it is scarcely worthy of mention, but the remarkable fact that a farmer's friend should befriend only the white-shirted farmers in Lincoln and Omaha to the detriment of the real farmers (who by the way have a habit of selecting their own friends) is a novel thing to encounter even in the present somewhat ludicrous state campaign. If Mr. Berge keeps on at his present gait he will soon have him befriending the working man by lowering his wages. The proposition is no more absurd than the one just submitted to the people by Mr. Berge.

Last week your correspondent referred to the garbled, if not deliberately falsified, report of Warden Hopkins, keeper of the state penitentiary under the administration of Governor Poynter. It will be remembered that by reporting about one-seventh of the actual cost of maintaining his institution Warden Hopkins was able to show a per capita expense of about $43.00, for the six months commencing December 1, 1899, and ending May 31, 1900. After revising and correcting Warden Hopkins' report by adding the expenditures which the auditor's records prove that he spent, we find that the actual per capita cost of maintenance was $113.73. Under Governor Mickey, Warden Beemer reports a per capita of $87.96 for a corresponding period this year, the saving to the state being $25.77 per capita or $7,035.21 for the six months. This proves the entire truth of the old saying: "Figures won't lie, but a smart man can make them lie," and it proves also that economy in state affairs is not always effected by those who use the word most frequently in their campaign speeches. The fusion claim of economy is as leaky as the roofs of the state buildings were when they went out of office.

The veteran Tibbles, whose opposition to the fusion state ticket was only surprised when the "business interests" of the Nebraska Independent appeared to demand that he make a show of supporting Berge and the rest of 'em for the sake of retaining a few Bryan democrats and pie-hunting populists upon the subscription list—this virile defender of the Populist faith is said to be secretly arranging for the defeat of William J. Bryan, even though the legislature should go fusion. A Lincoln Populist who claims to speak advisedly states positively that Mr. Tibbles has advised some of his closest friends to work for the nomination of populists who will agree not to vote for any man for United States Senator, who is a supporter of Judge Parker. Can you think of any Nebraskan, say a boy orator for instance, who is a supporter of Judge Parker and an aspirant for the United States Senate? If you can, you know a man who will feel somewhat aggrieved when he learns the trend of Mr. Tibbles' mind. The striking feature of the situation is the extreme forethought of Mr. Tibbles in providing for such a remote contingency as the possible election of a fusion legislature. It proves the careful thoroughness of the man. It proves other things, too, to Mr. Bryan—but we will not dwell upon that painful subject.

The Ultimatum.

My position is this: I will support our gallant Watson and Tibbles, and unless the people's party state central committee take from the state ticket every democrat on it I will use every possible effort to re-elect Mickey and the state ticket. If Hon. Geo. W. Berge of Lancaster county, whom I personally know and love, and our John M. Osborn, whom I have supported many times and know to be upright and an honest neighbor as he is—if they and every other populist candidate do not stand for populism alone, I will endeavor to defeat them, that in after years our standard bearers may know that to compromise with sin and hell is to die and be damned.—W. C. Starkey, in The Nebraska Independent.

Not Guilty.

W. P. Deardorf of Arnold, who was before the county court last Thursday and Friday on a serious charge had no trouble in convincing the court that he was not guilty of the offense charged. Mr. Deardorf has been a resident of the county for the past 20 years or more and has reared a family of highly respected children. He was never before drawn into court and it is a matter of congratulations to his friends that the court held that he was not guilty of the offense.

Accidental Death.

Julia, the eleven year old girl of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vistrup, eight miles south-east of the city fell from a mower last Friday afternoon and was almost instantly killed.

The unfortunate girl was riding on the mower and had gotten within a few rods of the house when the team started to trot down an incline. The ground being rough she fell off and her head was run over by the wheel crushing her life out almost instantly. Her two sisters, Anna and Mrs. Elsie Wright were but a short distance behind her in a buggy. As soon as they reached her they picked her up but her life had gone out. Mr. Vistrup was in the city at the time of the accident after a load for their new school house. He was reached by telephone and the sad news told him before he left the city.

Julia was a bright girl and possessed a happy and genial disposition and was not only the pride of the home but greatly admired by school mates and teacher. Her tragic death is greatly regretted and the bereaved relatives have the sympathy of the community in their great loss.

The funeral services were held in the Baptist church Saturday afternoon by Rev. A. W. Yale and her remains laid to rest in the Broken Bow cemetery.

Dear Julia, in death's clasp so cold,
Safe from home in the Shepherd's fold;
Faithfully guarded by Angels fair,
Instead of mother's loving care,
Sweetly at rest on the Saviors breast,
Freely from pain and earth's unrest;
Your life will know no hardsome side,
No sin or sorrow will ever betide,
May we trust the All-wise love,
That'll lead our hearts to the home above,
And be glad the bud so rare,
Does in beauty bloom in that land so fair.
Upon our heart's altar each day,
Illumed with most genial ray;
Love's offering shall be renewed,
As we journey along in deep solitude.
