Holcomb-Triplett Wedding.

At the brides parents, March 23rd, Karl Holcomb and Miss Rosa Triplett were married by Rev. Jas. R. Woods, in the presence of 50 invited relatives and friends. The bride was dressed in beautiful white, wearing a beautiful wreath of cut flowers. The groom was dressed in a fine black suit. After the ceremony at 7:30, all the invited guests repaired to a bountious supper, that Mrs. Triplett knows so well how to prepare, of which all partook of very heartily and enjoyed. After spending the evening in pleasant conversation and music all returned to their respective homes. On the following day the bride and groom were given a fine dinner, by the groom's mother, Mrs. Mandy Holcomb, with 50 invited relatives and friends. After partaking of her princely dinner and spending the after noon in conversation, all returned to their respective houses wishing the bride and groom all the joy possible. The bride and groom received many beautiful and useful presents. May they live long and happy.

Manure Spreader.

C. S. Martin gave an exhibition of a new Manure Spreader, Saturday, that he recently had shipped for use of farmers. A large crowd witnessed the exhibition and all were convinced that for economy of time, and satisfactory work the machine was all that is claimed for it. It is so arranged that by merely adjusting the lever the quanity spread upon the ground can be guaged from two to twelve loads to the acre. There is but little doubt but that every farmer who owns his own land would find one of these "spreaders" a profitable machine to own.

It not only does away with the forking of manure off the wagon, but it so evenly spreads it upon the ground that all the ground is covered and benefitted.

John Weheling of the West Table was in the city Monday and bought the sample Mr. Martin had on hands. These spreaders have been in use in the eastern states for the past thirty or more years and once a farmer becomes the owner of one, he will not do without one.

The Secret of the Golden Flood.

The source of the ayalanch of gold that bred a panic in high finance is revealed in the final chapters of the Wall Street mystery story in the April McClure's (the book is just out.) It is a dumfounding enlightenment that Edwin Lefevre has held in reserve for the finish of this lively tale, and yet it is all so simple, so entirely plausible. The reader must confess to having been fooled as completely by the ingenious plot as was ths "richest man in the world."

The bridge bill passed both houses Monday, with amendments.

P. Gandy's Addition. Said lien arising by virtue of the fact that on November 3, 1890, plaintiff purchased tax sale certificate on said lots for taxes for the year 1889 from the treasurer of said county and that plaintiff paid subsequent taxes on said lots for the years 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904 and 1905. That plaintiff's tax sale certificate being invalid he is subrogated to the rights and liens of said county. That there is now due, delinquent and unpaid to plaintiff for taxes paid as aforesaid and for money paid for said tax sale certificate the following sums, respectively:

For 1889 $6.75 with interest at 10 per cent per annum from May 1, 1890.

For 1895 $1.40 with interest at 10 per cent per annum from May 1, 1896.

Plaintiff prays that he may be decreed to be subrogated to the rights and liens of Custer county for the taxes so paid. That an accounting may be had, that the court find the amount due plaintiff and decree the same to be the first and best lien on said real estate. That defendants may be foreclosed of all equity of redemption in and to said real estate. That said real estate may be sold to satisfy the amount found due with interest and costs, and for such other and further relief as may be just and equitable.

You are required to answer said petition on or before Monday, the 17th day of April, 1905.
