Sunday School Missionary's Report.

BROKEN BOW, NEBR., July 10, 1905.—Dear Friend:—I have been very busy since last writing. I have attended four conventions, made 156 visits to families, thirty public addresses and driven more than six hundred miles. In quite a number of instances where the parties have been married from one to nine years they have never had a Minister or Christian worker visit their home until I came. I have placed three libraries in schools. I had organized one of these was put in a church that had been abandoned for several years. It had been advertised for sale. I went to one of the trustees to see if they would not reconsider the matter. He seemed obstinate and would hardly talk on the subject, so I went to work helping him tamp dirt in prairie dog holes, and worked from two until six o'clock before he would consent to letting the people keep the church in their community. They now have a Sunday school with an average attendance of 40 scholars and a good church organization.

In the last three weeks I have organized four new schools and worked up two ready for organization, which would have been organized but for its raining. In the first of the four organized, I went into the neighborhood about six o'clock in the afternoon. A young lady said, "I am glad you have come to organize a Sunday school for us, can't you organize it tonight?" I told her we could not get the people out that night. She said she would get them out and stepped to the telephone. In less than 15 minutes the people promised to come that night. We got together and organized a Sunday school with 25 present.

I went next to the Moody district and visited all the patrons organizing a Sunday school with 33 present. I then went to Blaine county up in the sand hills and visited in a newly settled neighborhood. The Sunday school was organized in Mr. Martin's house with 23 present. Mrs. Martin is superintendent. There is no school house here as most of the people have moved on homesteads here this spring. These good people seem to be very happy to have a Sunday school.

Going up the Dismal river about ten miles from Dunning I organized a Sunday school in what is known as the Cooper school house. There was a Sunday school in this district prior to 1894 but the people left and there was not enough to hold a school until the present time. There is a feeling now that though there would not be a large school, they could at least have an interesting and a profitable one.

I worked up a school in another community that had just been settled up this spring, and would have it organized but for rain. Will organize this next Sunday and another one on Saturday night at a school house where there has been no Sunday school for several years on account of not enough people.

I ask an interest in your prayers.
Yours in His name,
P. J. SPRAKER, Missionary.
American Sunday School Union.

State Fair News.

At a meeting of the board of managers on July 16th contracts were let for the erection on the fair grounds of one swine barn of fifty pens capacity; also of an addition to the amphitheatre 128 feet in length.

In the matter of Polled Durham cattle, which were not assigned a lot in the premium list, it was ordered that entries may be made under the head of discretion, and that the same rules and classification shall govern as in Red Polled cattle and the same money premiums be offered.

The executive committee of the grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen has appropriated funds for the erection of a permanent headquarters building on the fair grounds and a location for the same has been assigned on Fraternal avenue. It is understood that other fraternal orders are also arranging to erect like permanent headquarters. Space for such headquarters buildings is free, the fair management reserving the right to approve of the plans.

The educational exhibit will be greatly superior to any before made at a State fair, and Wednesday, September 6th, will be School day. It is urged that school officers delay the commencement of the school year until September 11th in order that teachers and scholars may have an opportunity to attend the State fair which, in itself, is a great object school.

The outlook for a successful fair was never more encouraging than at the present time.

Our Portland Letter.

PORTLAND, Oregon, July 8, 1905.—The 3rd annual convention of the National Woman's Suffrage Association has ended its work an adjourned. It has never been my privilege to attend a convention where there were a greater number of brilliant speakers or more executive ability shown by the officers.

The state of Oregon at the last meeting of the legislature passed the Initiative and Referendum law and now the women of the state believe that equal suffrage can be carried and are going to try to get it at the first state election in June next. The women of the National convention raised $3000 to carry on the campaign here in Oregon.

We have now spent a few days at the Exposition. The grounds are not as large as those at Chicago or St. Louis but the site is one of the most beautiful, it is possible to imagine. Nearly all the large buildings except the government building are on high ground. On three sides of this high promontory, the land slopes down into ravines and to the lake. The hills are rounded off and the rapid slopes are covered with trees, grass and flowers.

The hills are from 200 to 300 feet above the lake and from some points the landscape is indescribably beautiful. To the west and south of the grounds the range of hills rise from 400 to 600 feet, and these heights are fast being covered with splendid homes. Electric cars run up at different points and all along the heights.

The falls at Oregon City, furnish such an abundance of power that the Exposition grounds and buildings and also the city itself is brilliantly illuminated every evening. In the city the incandescent lamps are strung along each side of the streets, only a few feet apart. Hundreds of signs are formed of them and the whole effect is exceedingly pleasant.

At the Exposition, the buildings are covered with so many lights that in the evening they look as if they were built of Sparkling gems. The Avenues, drive-ways and the slopes of the hills are fringed everywhere, with high posts from which arch out numerous branches each terminating with lights covered with semi-transparent globes. The trees all over the grounds seem to sparkle with a fruit of glittering gold. Some of the state buildings are large and are wonderfully well filled. California, Oregon and Washington have the largest buildings. The resources of these states are justly proud to belong to a state, almost every county of which, sends in such a variety of products of the mines, the forests and the farm. California shows oranges, lemons, olives and a great variety of nuts, which neither of the other coast states can produce. The mineral display of these states and the Rocky Mountain states is very large and rich. Oregon leads in apples, peaches, cherries and plums. With their wonderful resources the three Pacific states are capable of supporting a population as large as now occupies the whole United States.

The Rocky mountain states should, in time be the home of the greatest factories and workshops of the world. They have timber, iron, coal, lead, copper, gold and silver in almost limitless quantities. The numerous mountain streams are capable of producing power enough to drive all the machinery in the United States. With a very healthful climate and matchless scenery these would be the ideal locations for capital and enterprise to start the wheels of a thousand factories.

A Fatal Accident.

Last Thursday as Mrs. Perry Foster, accompanied by three of children, were returning from Westerville to Ansley, Fanny, the four year old daughter was fatally kicked in the head by the horse they were driving. Mrs. Foster had been to visit her mother near Westerville. On their return the breaching of the harness broke and let the buggy onto the horse, which caused it to kick.

Little Fanny was struck in the head and rendered unconscious. The physicians at Ansley were unable to relieve the patient and she was taken to Omaha where she died. Her remains were brought back to Ansley Sunday night and her remains were laid to rest in the Ansley cemetery.

The funeral was preached at 2 o'clock by Rev. J. R. Wood of Mason City.

For several years, until two or three months ago the Foster's had resided in Broken Bow, where they are well known.

Fanny was a bright little girl and was the delight of all who knew her. The parents have the sympathy of all of their many friends in Broken Bow.

The G. A. R. Encampment.

The national G. A. R. encampment which is to be held at Denver this year will have special inducements in the matter of transportation. Department Commander John Lett, of the Nebraska G. A. R. states that the railroads have made a rate of one cent a mile west of the Missouri river. The encampment commences Sept. 4th and continues the entire week. The Burlington railroad has been designated by Commander Lett as the official route. He requests all comrades, their wives and friends to accompany him on this official train.

Highlanders Install Officers.

At the regular meeting of the Highlanders Tuesday night, one referee was initiated and the officers elected were installed for the ensuing term. After concluding the work of the session, refreshments were furnished by the valiant clansmen and a good time was enjoyed by all present.
