"MY NOSE WASN'T MADE FOR GLASSES."

Is an expression with which we are often greeted by prospective customers. Before they leave us we usually convince them that the question of whether they can wear a nose glass rests more on the optician's ability, than in noses.

In complicated eye defects we sometimes advise the use of spectacles instead of nose glasses, and there are, too, some few noses on which it is impossible to fit glasses, but they are rarities with us.

Twenty-three Years Ago.

The following items were published in the REPUBLICAN 23 years ago:

The REPUBLICAN announced that it had 528 subscribers.

Hon. F. G. Hainer, of Kearney, delivered the 4th of July oration.

The population of Custer county as shown by the assessors returns in April is 4086.

J. L. Cobb, of Jefferson called Monday. He says the new bridge across the Middle Loup is completed lacking a load of lumber and few pieces of irons. This is the first bridge of any note in the county.

S. C. Beebe and Dr. Waterbery of Westerville spent last Wednesday afternoon and Thursday forenoon in town. They enjoyed themselves Wednesday evening in joining the boys in a game of base ball.

Isaac Merchant and N. J. Rice of New Helena were among our callers Friday.

Bro. Beebe informs us that a bell had been presented to the M. E. church at Westerville which gives Westerville the credit of receiving and ringing the first church bell in the county.

H. C. Keyner, six miles northwest of town has corn out in fassel and ear silking. It is a dwarf variety and is called "six week corn."

We note the school report of the Broken Bow, twenty three years ago made by J. J. Brown teacher, that "those present every day for a month with perfect deportment were: Hannah Dunning, Kate Dunning, Merna Dunning, Belle Gandy, Edith Pelham, Rillie Hutchinson, Mary Boyce, Livona Lewis, Mary Oxford, Clinton Hewitt and Chas. West.

Moses Lewis went to Ord last week returning the Saturday evening.

H. C. Stuckey and family of South Loup were over visiting the metropolis last week.

Miss Saunders organized a I. O. G. T. at Westerville last week with thirty members.

Opening of the Shoshone or Wind River Reservation in Wyoming.

The President's proclamation opening the Shoshone reservation lands for settlement has been published and prescribes the plan of drawing for these lands, which has proved so successful with other Agencies. Applicants are to register at Worland, Thermopolis, Shoshone, or Lander in Wyoming, between July 16th and 31st. The subsequent drawing for these lands will be held at Lander commencing August 4th, the drawing to be supervised by a committee of three persons of undoubted integrity. Parties can return home after registering, and the successful ones are notified by card when and where to appear to make filings for the land drawn.

The Shoshone area comprises about 400,000 acres of agricultural lands to be drawn for, and the government made a remarkably cheap settlement with the Indians so that the cost is not going to exceed $1.50 an acre for the agricultural lands, except, of course, the additional cost on the prorate plan for the irrigation works to be built.

Sixty days after August 15th, those seeking timber and mineral claims can cross the border and take up these claims under the timber and mineral act, and all persons are especially admonished by the Government not to attempt to jump mineral or timber claims or to enter the Reservation for that purpose prior to the appointed time.

It has been a close race between the building of the Burlington's Worland extension up the Big Horn River and the opening date for this registration, and the most remarkable energy has been put into the work by the railroad to get this line finished to Worland by the 4th of July. Two or three daily shifts of laborers are laying rail day and night, and right behind the steel gang come the ballast trains loaded from an immense gravel bed on the right-of-way. It is certain that the Burlington's line will be finished to Worland probably two weeks before July 16th, which is the first day of registration.

One of the problems of settling up irrigated lands in the West is Why take chances of buying any but the American Hemp Mixed Twine?

That's why it pays the farmer to buy it—he can be sure he won't lose any grain from loose bundles. Farmers all over the country write that costs no more than Sisal or Standard and is the best they ever used. It is longer, smoother, stronger; binds 50 to 100 more bundles to the ball than the best Sisal or Standard twine you ever saw. Water or moisture won't rot it; it works well on any wheat or corn binder, without bother, without wearing the knotters. It is cheapest for the farmer to use because it costs less and goes farthest. Buy it and try it—if it don't come up to our guarantee take it back to the dealer and get your money back. Write today for book of letters from farmers who won't use any other kind now—they all bought it on our guarantee. Over 1,000,000 pounds used in Nebraska for 1905—not a ball returned—every customer pleased.

THE MAN WITH A HOBBY

I confess to having a hobby and my hobby is to sell the best buggy that can be sold for the money and to give you a guarantee that if the buggy is not what I tell you it is I will fix it or refund your money.

I have my buggies made after my own specifications and I know what they are made of. By buying direct from the factory I am able to save 25 per cent over what my competitors pay for theirs and consequently am able to sell you a buggy from $10 to $20.00 less than they can possibly do. I have just received

Two Car Loads, the latest effect of the factories, all bright and new. There has never been shown in Custer county as many buggies under one roof as I will show you if you come in. I have everything, carriages, surreys, road wagons, spring wagons, driving wagons, carts and buggies of all descriptions. In fact, I will show you over 100 different jobs.

LATER.
The picnic held in the grove at the mouth of Spring Creek last Saturday under the management of the Ryno baseball club, was a success. Ice cream and cake was furnished in plenty. A ball game in the afternoon added interest to the proceedings.
