Autumn Shadows Now Fall Across the Twilight Line and Timid Nature Changes her Dress of Emerald Green for a Gown of Gold.

Harry B. Iszard is out again after a lay-up of several days.

The city council has purchased a new boiler of the Fairbanks & Morse Co., for the water works plant.

Mrs. O. Knepper, of Butler, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Jos. Pigman, and brother, W. A. George.

Hon. F. M. Currie will speak at the court house at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, reviewing the political situation.

H. L. Ormsby, local weather observer, informs us that the precipitation in Broken Bow during the three days of rain, sleet and snow was 3 and 18-100 inches. Do you wonder why this mushy mud?

G. W. Shankland and Herman Swanson, of Anselmo, and E. S. Updike, of Merna, were Broken Bow visitors last Saturday and marched in a body to the REPUBLICAN office on a pleasant business mission.

Dr. Meyers left for the west Tuesday morning, with the intention of locating. When the train reached Anselmo it quit on account of deep snow. After spending the day there he had a change of heart and decided to return to Broken Bow, which he did on the first train through, arriving here at 1 o'clock last night.

Rev. Father Daley, who has been in charge of St. Joseph Catholic church in Broken Bow the past three years, has been given the pastorate of the church at Kearney. Father Daley is a good man and citizen, as well as scholar and pastor and it was with regret Broken Bow people learned of his change. Father Moser, who has been assistant at Grand Island, has been assigned to the Broken Bow charge.

Next Wednesday night is Hallowe'en. In every town where the population is over 500 there is a hoodlum element which take this occasion to destroy property and their capers in that direction, even when the perpetrators are known, is often condoned because of the innocent fun plea. But innocent fun does not destroy property, throw bricks through windows or stand outhouses on their heads and there should be a vigorous prosecution of all who destroy property regardless of that gray-haired plea of innocent fun.

The second entertainment in the Star course will be the Roney Boys Concert Co., Friday night, Nov. 2nd, at the Temple Theater. Of this entertainment the REPUBLICAN can speak knowingly, having attended one of their concerts, and we feel safe in saying that all citizens who attend this one will be highly pleased and well repaid for time and money spent. Wherever they have appeared they are sought for again which is evidence sufficient that they are popular entertainers. Reserve seats at Baisch's drug store next Wednesday.

For those of a mathematical turn of mind here is one that does not appear in any of the problem books used in our schools. Pupils who get a result are requested to report it at the REPUBLICAN office: "A farmer owned a hog and wanted to weigh it. The man weighed one hundred pounds and his wife one hundred and thirty-five. They put a board across the fence so that when they sat upon the ends it exactly balanced. Then they changed places his wife holding the pig in her lap just balancing the board again. What was the weight of the porker?"

A lady called at the REPUBLICAN office a few days ago and inquired as to the size of an ostrich egg. We informed her that our understanding was that they were oblong in shape and about the size of a bedroom heating stove, but we didn't really know because the last time an ostrich came our way he was racing too fast to lay eggs. Thereupon she stated that near the fair grounds she recently picked up an egg she thought might have been laid by the ostrich. It is now on exhibition at this office and is about the size of a hickory nut. The public is invited to call and express an opinion as to the species—especially those who are posted on ostrich eggs.

Robert Burnett, residing 7 miles south of this city, is feeling quite well, thank you, since last Sunday. It's a boy.

The city council has let the contract for two steel bridges, across Fourth and Fifth avenues. Contract price, $2171.

Mrs. E. D. George, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. A. George, the past three months, left for home, Boston Mass., today.

Miss Laura Ramsthal has returned from her home at Grand Island and resumed her position as stenographer in the office of Willis C. d'well.

Government Inspector Wadsworth is in the city, inspecting the land office of this place. He came in Monday night from Alliance where he spent several days last week.

When you leave home the Tuesday morning, November 6, tell your wife you will not return till after the votes are counted; that you will eat both dinner and supper, served by the ladies of the Baptist church, at the Temple Theatre.

An incident that appeared to the REPUBLICAN as being ludicrous to almost the limit was seen on the square one evening last week when a man clad in a fur coat drove up in front of a grocery store and commenced unloading watermelons.

Herman J. Martne, who has been holding down 160 acres of Uncle Sam's domain near Merna the past six years, was in the city Tuesday to make arrangements to prove that he has won that particular piece of land for himself, his heirs and assigns.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Pigman and son, Elba, reached home last night from a visit of a week at Columbia, Mo. They were accompanied by a niece, Miss Cora Stevens, who will reside with them in the future. Joe says there are heaps of mules in that state, but he did not have time to take a horse-back ride on any of 'em.

The Broken Bow Steam Laundry spares neither pains nor expense to keep fully up to the times in the matter of installing new and improved machinery for the betterment of work and pleasing of patrons. Mr. J. A. O. Thomas, the proprietor, at considerable expense, recently put in a collar turner, a machine that turns the lay down collar, leaves space for a necktie and puts a smooth velvety edge on it. With the addition of this piece of mechanism the laundry is now fully equipped and is turning out as good work as any laundry in the state.

Some are under the impression that the fourth Thursday in November is the day always designated as Thanksgiving, but such is erroneous. The custom has been for the president to designate, by proclamation, the last Thursday in November. November this year—the same as last year—contains five Thursdays, the last one falling on the 29th, and that will be the date of Thanksgiving day. Last year the last Thursday in the month was also the last day—the 30th—and it was designated the day for Thanksgiving.

County Supt. Pinckney has improvised a chart of school information which is a model of completeness. It hangs upon his wall, and by consulting it at any time he can tell at a glance the number of any district, its popular name, who its director is and where he gets his mail, who is the teacher, what salary is paid and how long taught in that district, what is the length of the school term and other information. The number of months of school is shown by a red line indicating the month when the term begins and ends. The names of beginning teachers are written in red ink, the others in black. The school census and enrollment are two items which appear on the sheet in parallel columns. The chart makes a ready reference and is, perhaps, the first one ever planned by any superintendent of schools in the United States. Supt. Pinckney informs the REPUBLICAN that there are fifteen districts in the county wanting teachers and that wages are from $5 to $7 per month more than was paid last year.

Don't forget that dinner and supper will be served at the Temple Theatre on election day.

There will be a change in time of departure of trains Sunday. Eastbound passengers will be later and westbound passengers earlier—if they are on time.

The Christian church invites you to attend its regular services. They offer something that will be helpful to you, and ask your help in winning souls for Christ.

A letter from H. F. Higginbotham, of Foristell, Mo., who made Broken Bow his headquarters several years ago, says: "We are having fine weather now. New corn selling at 45c; wheat, 67c; hogs, $6.25."

Without mail of any kind for a couple of days this week, on account of the storm which stopped railroad traffic, reminded old residents of twenty years ago before the cars came and mail was brought here by stage from Kearney.

Dr. T. W. Bass, who left here about two months ago to look up a location to practice dentistry, has returned to Broken Bow and will remain, having secured the rooms he formerly occupied over McComas' drug store. Many friends are glad to have him return.

Several notices intended for publication in the REPUBLICAN last week failed to make connections just because the person who were intrusted to bring them to the office "waited till tomorrow"—which was Thursday—and the paper had been printed and mailed before the notices were brought in. The REPUBLICAN is published Thursdays—just as soon after breakfast as possible—and notices brought in that day may be too late for insertion. Don't wait till tomorrow if you have anything for publication.

Delayed by the Storm

On account of the storm our supply of paper was delayed, consequently this edition of the REPUBLICAN reaches its readers two days later than usual.

Two Hearts that Beat as One.

On Thursday evening, October 18, 1906, at the home of the brides parents, Judge and Mrs. C. L. Gutterson, in Broken Bow, Nebraska, William S. Martin and Miss Faith Gutterson were united in marriage. Rev. W. H. Xanders of the Episcopal church, performing the ceremony, only members of the immediate families being present.

The contracting parties are strictly Broken Bow products and are both well and favorably known, the bride a handsome, intelligent and accomplished young lady and the groom a young man possessed of the sterling qualities that go to make a thorough business man and good citizen, both having the confidence and friendship of all acquaintances, all of whom—the REPUBLICAN included—extend hearty congratulations and wish them health, happiness and prosperity in great abundance.

A Valuable Invention.

Mr. George E. Cadwell, of Winfield, Kansas, formerly of Broken Bow, has just received word through his attorneys, Orwig & Lane, of Des Moines, Iowa, to the effect that the Patent Office, has formally allowed his application for patent on an improvement in latches.

Mr. Cadwell's invention is a decided advancement in the art of latches for the reason that he has provided one of very simple construction that may all be stamped out of sheet metal and that has the advantage of being able to automatically lock on a door that swings in either direction and also to work equally as well on a door that slides. In other words the same identical latch may be quickly and easily applied by any one to any kind of a door and it will work equally well. The latches can be sold at a good profit at the same price as the cheaper forms of latch now on the market and Mr. Cadwell proposes in the near future to have them adopted for general use.
