Having become tired of paying for a mixture that threatens to destroy their farms, the tillers of Nebraska soil will begin a crusade for pure seed. Hundreds of instances are cited where farmers have received seeds of devastating weeds when they ordered grass and grain seeds. Not only were they cheated out of the value of their money, but what was still worse they were sent seeds that produced crop destroying weeds that overrun the land and cost hundreds of dollars to eradicate. Next to the wretch who sells poisonous and adulterated foodstuffs to ruin the health of consumers, the dealers who impose on the farmers by palming off adulterated seeds are the worst.

It's a dull day when a new fad in food isn't thrust upon a long-suffering world and the latest is carrot eating. If a woman would have a clear, fresh complexion, says the theorist responsible for the idea, she must eat a raw carrot every day. In a school just outside of Boston, which is noted for its pretty girls, the young ladies are expected to eat a carrot daily, just as they might eat an orange or an apple, and they don't make the slightest protest either. But then, what woman wouldn't suffer in order to be beautiful.

The Texas legislature has whitewashed Senator Bailey and sent him back to the upper branch of congress with the endorsement of his actions as attorney for the oil trust. Senator Burton of Kansas was less fortunate—when he practiced law in addition to his official duties.

Should the defense in the Thaw case succeed in corroborating the testimony of Mrs. Thaw given on the witness stand, the jury will free Thaw. No woman in American history ever made a greater sacrifice for her husband than has this young woman in making public her shame.

It is reported that while in Washington recently Colonel William Jennings Bryan stated: "I stand just where I stood four years ago." Correct, colonel, and you'll continue to stand in the same position for several times four years more—outside the White House.

The appropriations of congress threaten to reach two billion dollars for the session, practically a third of the cost of the civil war. It will be up to speaker Cannon to double the statement made by Tom Reed when he said this was a billion dollar country.

That Philadelphia man who secured a marriage license and then notified a strange young lady that he was ready to marry her, believed in economizing in the time that many foolish people waste in courtship.

Someone has suggested that a dollar will not go as far today as it would ten years ago but he seems to forget that ten years ago many of us were wondering where the dollar was coming from.

"Thirty ways of nursing a cold" is the title of a newspaper article. There are more ways than that if you believe all that you are told by your friends and neighbors—when you have one yourself.

Railroad people cannot see the justice of the same rate for sending mail matter 3,000 miles, and both male and female only one mile.

Coroners and others are so busy "fixin' the blame" for railroad accidents that it is difficult for them to get to church on Sundays.

Swettenham now says he meant it all in a Pickwickian sense. The Dickens he did.

Ask Your Own Doctor

If he tells you to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for your severe cough or bronchial trouble, then take it. If he has anything better, then take that. But we know what he will say; for doctors have used this cough medicine over 60 years.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for bronchitis, but could not get relief. It has done me great good, and I believe it is the best cough medicine in the world for all kinds of lung troubles."—J. C. REED, Albany, Oregon.

Samuel Thomas Clears up a Neat Sum.

S. A. Thomas, a young man who commenced business for himself six years ago in Custer County with cash in his pocket to the amount of five dollars and an indebtedness for the same amount, sold out last week with a net balance of twelve thousand dollars.

He commenced by buying land on the installment plan and engaged in farming to make his payments. He soon found himself farming on a large scale and he continued to add to his real estate possession and continued to increase his indebtedness.

He finally leased his land and engaged in other lines of work as opportunity afforded but made real estate deals his principal object. He had got control of about 2000 acres of land and it was the sale of this land to R. R. Ryerson for $21,000 that developed what he had made in the six years. Twelve hundred acres of the land was home farm which he had got together in the vicinity of Ash Creek, southwest of this city and the other 800 acres were in Lincoln county where he had been dealing in real estate the past year. In the deal he got the Ryerson residence west of the Globe Hotel, which his father and mother will occupy as soon as he gets possession. Out of the $21,000, he has to his own credit, with all his obligations met, $12,000 to the good.

Not every young man can expect to succeed quite so well, but let it be an incentive to young men to start in with a purpose and to add something each year to their possessions, instead of spending more than they make and in a few years the chances are, by industry and economy, they will have a fine balance to their credit.

EULOGY.

To the memory of David R. White, by his loving friend and neighbor,
Dr. C. Pickett.

"And Enoch walked with God and he was not for God took him, but he had the evidence that he pleased God." This language may well apply to one whom God hath taken away from among us and who also had the witness that he pleased God.

"Daddy" White, as we familiarly and lovingly called him, is dead. The kind and loving heart is stilled, through the halls and corridors of which the breath of God had gently swept and made it his own temple where daily and hourly worship was performed. Our hearts beat heavily and sorrow pierces our being when we know that we shall see him no more. If I could command the language to portray the beauties that clustered around and adorned the character of my dear friend, I would be glad, but denied this, I must content myself with enlarging as best I may that character and holding it up as one worthy of imitation.

Eighteen years of the closest friendship has given the writer an opportunity to study the man for he was in all that goes to make up a man an "Israelite in whom there was no guile." He was an Adventist, differing in belief from one part of that church, in what particular I know not nor do I care, for he lived out the spirit of the sermon on the Mount nearer than any man I ever knew. To say that I loved him would not be wrong, for to really know him was to love him. Whatever his belief may have been on religion he believed in the "Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man." His views were optimistic, for the sunshine of his nature would not allow him to be a pessimist. His look was forward and upward while on his brow "there fell the dawning of a grander day." He believed in the imminence of God while man's possibilities were the measure of his faith. He saw only the good in his fellow man while their mistakes to him were ever always open to those in distress. He sat quietly in the evening of his life and feared not the morrow, for to him "The harp at nature's advent strung, had never ceased to play."

The song the morning stars did sing He never died away. He recognized that thoughts are things and he knew that if he only sent forth good thoughts they would benefit others and return freighted with the olive leaves of peace to himself. He realized that if this world was to become a heaven, as John in his vision saw it, we must make it so, and he done his part faithfully. No one could be long in his company without feeling that he was in the presence of a good man. While nearing the western gate of life feeling that his shadow was falling far to the east, he wished to live to make men better by being better every day himself. He never wished to impose a burden on another that he was not willing to share in carrying. He believed in water baptism but he felt that the spirit of God must run through us before Jordan could successfully run around us. To him a holy life was the "house of God and the gate of heaven." The path of the righteous shines brighter and brighter unto the perfect day, and in him this saying was literally fulfilled. Once when one had heard that he had done a thing that was wrong, I said friend you are badly mistaken, he said why, I answered that I had not heard it but I knew it was not correct, for it is not like him and it so proved. I think it was a case of mistaken identity. I knew enough of the probity and uprightness of his character to know it could not be true. He lived so that his life made the community better in which his lot was cast. He was not gifted with large ability for the acquisition of wealth, but he was honest, very industrious and commendably frugal. He, like very many of us, was poor, but if his family ever suffered it was through no fault of his. He often helped to relieve the distress of others asking that his name might not appear in the case. He was for many years at least blest with good health for which he never forgot to give thanks to the giver of every good and perfect gift. While he never assumed to tell others

WORKS WONDERS.

A Wonderful Compound. Cures Piles, Eczema, Skin Itching, Skin Eruptions, Cuts and Bruises.

Doan's Ointment is the best skin treatment, and the cheapest, because so little is required to cure. It cures piles after years of torture. It cures obstinate cases of eczema. It cures all skin itching. It cures skin eruptions. It heals cuts, bruises, scratches and abrasions without leaving a scar. It cures permanently. Grateful testimony proves it. Mrs. Mary York, of 340 North Topeka avenue, Wichita, Kan., says: "I still have the same faith in Doan's Ointment that I had four years ago. I used it occasionally and find that it always gives the same satisfactory results. Off and on for thirty years I was annoyed with tetter or salt rheum, as some call it, on my hands. They would scale over and then break out, little bunches appearing and the itching would be so intense I could not resist rubbing the parts, and this irritated them and made them worse. I tried nearly everything recommended to cure such annoyances, and consulted doctors, but in spite of all I obtained little if any relief until I learned of Doan's Ointment and procured it. Its use promptly stopped the itching and healed the sores. When cold weather sets in I often notice a return of the trouble, but I can always rely upon Doan's Ointment to give positive relief. I am, indeed, grateful for the benefit I have received from this preparation." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

what they should do, he desired to know what God would have him to do. He dealt justly, loved mercy and walked humbly with his God. His children may well be proud of such a father. His words of counsel and kind admonition will doubtless be cherished by them. He may have made mistakes but he always stood willing and anxious to be set right. I have heard him often quote the saying of the gentlest memory of our world the mortal Lincoln: "With charity for all and malice towards none" thus he lived and thus he passed through the door of an abundant entrance into his joy and peace. How welcome must be such a soul.
