

News of a Local Nature

H. E. Zimmerman, of Ansley, visited in the city with the family of the publisher of the REPUBLICAN on Monday.

Col. J. E. Iszard went to Omaha yesterday morning accompanying his son, Harry B., that far on his eastern trip.

The Broken Bow Equality club will meet at the home of Mrs. Dr. Pickett Friday, afternoon, May 5, at 2 p. m. All members are requested to be present as it is election of officers.

Mrs. H. L. Ormsby enjoyed a visit last Thursday from an old school-mate, Mr. Howard Hulet, of Cairo, this state. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hulet and baby and they were enroute to Brewster, where they have a ranch.

J. C. Wehling, residing 1 1/2 miles west of this city, had the misfortune one day last week to have a mare, valued at $300, die from paralysis. It was one of Mr. Wehling's best horses and he deplors its death more than the monetary loss.

On this page appears an advertisement of the Advo Restaurant conducted by C. E. Stout. This restaurant has just had a spring cleaning and it is now a place of beauty and a joy always, where ladies are especially welcome and will find courteous treatment and first-class service.

It is hardly necessary to call the attention of REPUBLICAN readers to the "May discount sale" advertisement, as all will see it at first blush, but unless it is read by them no benefit will be derived by the reader. Do not lay aside the paper until you have fully learned what Mr. Watts proposes to do.

A letter from Theodore Miller, the printer who spent a part of last summer in Broken Bow and to whom Miss Lilly Moore was united in marriage, informs us that he has a steady position at $20 per week in Chicago. He says they do not like that town, however, as it is too big.

Mr. W. G. McWilliams received word of the marriage of her son, Frank, and Miss Dot Thompson, last Thursday, April 25th, at Roubax, South Dakota, where they will reside, Frank being in the employ of the C. B. & Q. railway at that point.

Mr. I. McCandless went to Berwyn yesterday and visited her son, Will L., the gentlemanly and efficient cashier of the Berwyn State Bank. On account of the bridge burning near Ravenna, which prevented the coming of the passenger train, she had the great pleasure of returning home on a freight.

J. A. Haggart, of St. Paul, Neb., was in the city last Friday, looking after the probating of the Kinkaid will. He and the publisher of the REPUBLICAN got filing papers on the same quarter section of land in the Grand Island office in 1873, and as but one of us could hold it we had to look elsewhere.

The farmers are doing some extra hustling these days. They are not only doing the usual spring work but are operating under unusual high pressure as they regard the season as later than usual and feel the necessity for greater exertion than in some years. However, the conditions are favorable, the soil being in fine condition.

Individuals adorn themselves with glad raiment to please and gratify their vanity and to attract the admiration and observation of others. Business men erect attractive residences, and furnish them elegantly, partially for their own comfort, largely for the prominence they secure from residing in beautiful homes. It is just as necessary to make the entire city attractive as the person and the home. Let's don't be dilatory about this matter but get a hustle on ourselves and make it Beautiful Broken Bow.

F. H. Smith who has performed the duties of draymen to the satisfaction of all patrons for several years, has sold to Frank Griffith and Fred Reeder. Neither of these young men are novices in this line of business as they, too, have been engaged in it and by promptness and efficiency gained many friends. They took possession yesterday. Mr. Smith has purchased a farm but will still reside in the city, do his grangering from a distance and take life easy. Or, if he can't take it easy, will take it as easy as he can.

What are you doing toward boosting and beautifying Broken Bow?

Merry May is here with skies so clear and vacation days so jolly; throw aside the books, bring forth the hooks and let's go fishing, biggily.

Did you ever see a manure spreader with side boards on it? If you did not, you ought to read the article on our first page by the Litchfield Mfg., Co.

None know better than students that the school days are rapidly glimmering and summer vacation time is but a few days hence and they are now making calculations for a jolly time when it arrives.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Walton drove over from their home near Arcadia, Monday, and returned Tuesday, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Hattie E. Speake, who will visit with them for a couple of weeks.

Miss Jennie Geeseman, the affable and accommodating clerk in the Broken Bow postoffice has spent the past few days visiting parents in Ansley and that vicinity and attending the wedding of her sister, Miss Abbie Geeseman and L. S. Newcomb.

It is suggested that the name of this burg might very appropriately be changed from Broken Bow to (the) Holy City, not on account of the extensively large number of devout residents, but because of the numerous and unsightly cavities permitted by the city fathers to exist in the sidewalks.

Willis Cadwell expects to leave for the Texas Coast Country next Monday. Those who have a piece of money they would like to double in a short time might do so by sending it with him for investment in that country where it heaps a much activity in real-estate.

S. P. Groat, who was laid up for several weeks during the winter with a formation in his ear which was very painful, was taken ill again last Friday from the same cause and has not been able to attend to business since then, but probably will be within a few days.

James Pennington, who has been engaged with the Eagle Grocery Co., for more than a year last past, has disconnected himself therewith and is now diligently employed in carpentering, hoping thereby to wax wealthy quick as there is much building "didding" hereabout.

J. A. Evans, residing six miles north of Callaway, was transacting business in the city Monday. Mr. Evans came to Custer county twenty-four years ago and for a time resided in Broken Bow and during all these years that have gone galloping down the tall, dark corridors of time, has been a subscriber to the REPUBLICAN—and paid for it—and that is the principal reason for his being prosperous and always happy.

G. Hiser, ex-supervisor, and Henry Bosle, represented the Litchfield district in the county capitol on Tuesday, paying taxes and surrounding a bunch of other business matters. They acknowledge the receipt of cold spring weather in their vicinity the past month and thereby claim to not be behind other portions of the state in up-to-date doings.

James Chittick, assessor of Wayne township, brought in his returns last Saturday and found that he was the first one of the assessors to complete their work. Still such a procedure on his part is not to be wondered at when one knows that he was raised in Chicago and always was a speedy young feller with which trait is coupled accuracy, honesty, honor and joviality.

It is strange that people will continue to pour kerosene from the can into a stove where there is a fire or where there are live coals when such an act is seldom performed without an explosion resulting and the person so doing being burned to death. But they will be foolish, anyhow, it seems. Monday, in Omaha, a girl aged 19, poured oil from a 2-gallon can onto the fire to hurry it up for supper. There was an explosion and not only her clothes, but those of an 8-year old girl, and the house, were set on fire. Before aid reached them everything except their shoes were burned off and even though their bodies were charred, one lived five and the other five and a half hours. Don't do it and instruct your children of the consequences if they attempt it.

Noit Amsberry and Art Copsey, of Ansley, were in the city yesterday, attending to business at the land office.

H. A. Watts has established a soda fountain in the post-office annex and will soon have it in shape to supply the trade with sodas of all kind.

Robert Weaver and Jas. D. Richardson, of Haisey, were transacting business in the city Saturday before the land office.

It was cold enough Monday night to freeze water in the pipe to the tank at J. C. Bowen's, and causing a burst in the pipe a foot and a half in length. Many citizens did not realize it was so cold that night.

When it comes to hauling manure a long distance there have been many objections offered to the average manure spreader. This is a point that is carefully brought out and made clear by the Litchfield continued story this week. See first page.

Mr. Wm. Mansfield and daughter, Olive, of Gandy, Nebr., the former a cousin of J. M. and J. R. Fodge, came into the Bow Sunday and on Monday purchased tickets for some point in Washington where he will visit a sister for some weeks. Mr. Mansfield is Gandy's principal merchant.

Mrs. L. Lambert and daughters, Ida and Emma, left Tuesday morning for Los Angeles, Calif., where they expert to permanently reside. Mr. Lambert, who went to Omaha several weeks ago and underwent a surgical operation and recovered therefrom, joined the family at Hastings and accompanied them to Los Angeles.

Harry B. Isgard left yesterday morning for May's Landing, New Jersey, where he will visit with an uncle and aunt, Capt. and Mrs. Harry Thompson. Of course he will endeavor to see all the good and strange things to be seen and in so doing will encounter Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Gotham. That he will fully enjoy the recreation trip goes without saying.

Shall We Celebrate?

That is the question heard quite frequently in connection with the 4th of July and it seems to be the consensus of opinion that it should be done in Broken Bow this year. If we are to observe the National day in an appropriate manner it is none too early to hold a public meeting, appoint committees and start the ball rolling so it will be a hummer and not a half-hearted, weak affair such as celebrations usually are when a decision to celebrate is reached only a two or three weeks before the glorious day.

Broken Bow should be patriotic enough to observe the day at least every other year and this year is the other one by two years.

Railroad Meeting.

Come to the club on Friday night at 8 o'clock at the Court house and here the railroad discussion as to whether we will vote bonds to the home company for an additional railroad in Broken Bow. It is up to us.

The Abduction Case Dismissed.

Two weeks ago last Sunday Geo. Taylor and a young lady, accompanied by George Philpot, drove to the house of August Lammert, 10 miles west of Callaway and invited Myrtle Lammert to go riding, and she accepted the invitation. She did not return that night nor the next day, and Philpot was missing, so the father started on the trail of the runaways, visiting various places, but they had just left each place, "alretty-yet!". At Plattsmouth he found the couple had been married, gave up the chase and returned home to find Mr. and Mrs. George Philpot had already returned and were awaiting his blessing, and he did not hesitate to give it in no uncertain tones or language, interposing therein many qualifying adjectives not permissible in print.

Then he straightway caused the arrest of Philpot and Taylor for enticing his daughter from home, claiming that she was not yet eighteen years of age. The case came on for hearing before Judge Humphrey in the County court last Monday. The parents both testified, after which H. M. Sullivan, attorney for defendants, made a motion to dismiss.

The parents, in their testimony, were so badly mixed on dates as to when they were married and the birth of Myrtle that Judge Humphrey deemed the evidence insufficient to establish the age of the daughter and discharged the defendants.

G. E. Cadwell Secures a Patent.

George E. Cadwell, who disposed of his farm, live stock and implements near this city about a year ago and went to Winfield, Kansas, perfected a doorlatch upon which he has obtained a patent and the REPUBLICAN extends the hope that it will prove a highly financial success. A printed copy of this patent will be furnished free to any reader of the REPUBLICAN who requests it of Louis Bagger & Co., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., and at the same time mention this paper.

More U. S. Citizens.

Citizenship certificates were issued during the recent term of court to the following: Michael Leonard, age 35, Anselmo; John Leonard, age 38, Anselmo; Thos. Teahan, age 46, Anselmo; Josef Jelinek, age 45, Ansley; Chriss Christiansen, 26, Callaway.

Additional Court Notes.

CRIMINAL CASES.

Joseph Schall, who shot up the village of Anselmo in March, and in his fulsade winged W. H. Lewis, the city marshal, plead not guilty and will board with Sheriff Richardson until the term of court which begins May 20th.

U. J. Smith, charged with shooting at Henry Grantman with intent to kill, was arraigned and plead not guilty. Trial set to be heard at May term and Smith remanded to custody of sheriff until that time.
