

LOCAL LORE AND PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

A ten per cent discount from the regular tuition fee at Custer college will be given all who enroll as students before August 1st.

Edwin F. Meyers returned the latter part of last week from Cambridge, Mass., where he has been taking a course in the law department of Harvard college.

Allan Reynier advertises a public sale of horses and mules at Hickman & Webb's barn in Broken Bow, on August 10th. Read the advertisement on opposite page.

Sheriff Richardson is again complaining of dull times in his line of business, but is not worrying very much as the time of year which causes him to get busy is near at hand.

"Cheer up, Mary," the Chautauqua begins Saturday and will give you "something to go to" for nine days and evenings—the best series of entertainments ever given in Broken Bow.

A. T. Seybolt, who formerly resided near this city, moving to Florence, a suburb of Omaha, a couple of years ago, writes that he has moved to the city for a change and is residing at 3622 Grand avenue, Omaha.

D. C. Konkel was one of the hottest men in Broken Bow on Tuesday. That was the hottest day this year and he had to unload a car of furniture. Another car load will be in soon and he's hoping for cooler weather.

A meeting of those who subscribed to the college building will be held in the college rooms, Monday evening, July 29th, for the purpose of electing officers and transacting such other business as may come before the meeting.

Isaac Deardorff, the general merchandise merchant and miller at Mason was a business visitor in Broken Bow on Tuesday, the hottest day of the season, but his equanimity was not disturbed thereby—being as "happy as a clam at high tide."

Judge Rice, the sage of Clift town, was in the city Monday on business, declaring that his presence here was of no political significance, whatever, but a twinkle in one corner of his other eye—when he made the statement—certainly betokened suthin'.

Hallie Joyner came in Sunday evening from Dunning near which place he has been doing claim duty for some time. He was accompanied by a full and frisky beard as a result of his outing, but which he dispensed with at the earliest opportunity after reaching the city.

L. F. Oxford, of Berwyn, owned five lots in Broken Bow and desired to dispose of them. Like the wise lad he is, he inserted an adlet in the REPUBLICAN stating the facts in a twenty-cent space and last week sold the bunch to A. P. Vannice for $900. Advertisements in the REPUBLICAN gets results.

The York county fair is being held this week and Judge Sullivan, president of the Custer county association has gone there to see what free street attractions are being given and if there are any good ones, make arrangements for their appearance in Broken Bow during the Custer county fair, in addition to those already secured.

Postmaster Jewett has promulgated a new time schedule of hours for business transactions at his rendezvous which patrons will do well to carefully consider and govern themselves accordingly. The new bulletin is published elsewhere in this edition of the REPUBLICAN and shows that the postoffice Sunday hours are now from 9:30 to 10:30 and closing in the evenings on week days at 7:30 instead of 8.

D. H. Bowen, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., quite well known by Broken Bow citizens, father of J. C. Bowen, has gone to visit the scenes of his youth in England and expects to remain there for two or three months. Mr. Bowen is now in his 81st year and came to the United States 65 years ago, never having visited his native land since setting foot on American soil and this visit will surely prove an interesting and pleasant one. The REPUBLICAN hopes good health and safe voyage will attend him and that he will visit Broken Bow for a vacation next year and enlighten us on the features of his trip to the old home.

F. M. Currie will hold a horse sale at the railroad stock yards on Saturday afternoon, August 10th. See his "ad" next week.

Miss Hazel Jewett returned home Tuesday evening from a two weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Chas. D. Scott, at Halsey, and admits having had "the time of her life" along the line of pleasure.

Prof. Teagarden reports good sales of season tickets for the Chautauqua during the past few days and that the people are rapidly awakening to the fact that a great literary and musical treat is being brought to them at so little expense to each of those who take advantage of the opportunity.

Whenever there's a strong zephyr it seems to hunt up A. E. Anderson and throw trouble at him in bunches. Early last spring one caught him out at night and took away his new $6.33 1/2 head gear, and last Thursday night another one came bowling along and removed several bunches of shingles from the roof of his building which permitted rain, which followed in torrents, to permeate the interior of his jewelry store.

Mention of the crop and weather conditions in the REPUBLICAN are not made with the view of enlightening those who reside here in Custer county or endeavoring to tell 'em something they don't know, but the REPUBLICAN has several thousand readers, former residents and persons interested in such matters here who desire to keep posted on these conditions which they do by reading the reliable reports furnished them in the columns of this great family journal.

C. C. Coffman and wife, of Eugene, Oregon, visited in the city last Saturday with the family of D. M. Amsberry. They were accompanied by Mrs. Jane Amsberry, of Ansley, who is a sister of Mr. Coffman. They were enroute to the Jamestown exposition. After visiting relatives at Ansley and Mason a few days they will go to Ute, Iowa, where a brother of Mr. Coffman resides. They will also visit relatives at Des Moines and in West Virginia and Kentucky before returning to Oregon.

Cashier R. D. Pickett, of the Security State bank, accompanied by Mrs. Pickett and the three children, reached home last Thursday from a visit of ten days with his parents at Tamara and in that vicinity, an outing which he thoroughly enjoyed as this is his first vacation since he entered a bank seven years ago. While many diversions entered into the formula to make a real good time, he dwells longer and describes more minutely the time spent in angling, when telling of his trip, not forgetting to add: "And its no fish story, either."

There has never been a year in Custer county, perhaps, in which the prospects for a good crop were so discouraging and then revived and became so encouraging in a short time, as the present year. Spring was cold and backward, corn planting being completed several weeks later than usual. Then the cold rains came and chilly weather continued but, presto, change, the sun came forth and spread its warm rays, and seed that had laid dormant sprung into life and grew with a rapidity that almost took the breath of those who saw the transformation. At present the outlook for splendid results from the growing crop is very flattering. As the old saying goes: "You can almost hear the corn grow."

Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Ernie Thomson are parents of a boy 17 months old who is certainly a caution when it comes to hazardous deeds. Out on the ranch near Arnold, while Ernie was away from home, the lad climbed a twenty-foot ladder on the windmill frame and walked out on a cross-beam. There he was discovered by Mrs. Thomson and his grandmother, Mrs. C. U. Richardson, and both displayed the unusual nerve of not making a scene and thereby startling the boy and causing him to fall, but neither had the strength or nerve to climb and rescue him. The man working in the field also saw the child's aerial position and lost no time in covering the distance to the house and up the ladder, and safely placing the lad in the arms of the ladies who all but smothered him to death with hugs and kisses.

The ladies of the U. B. church will serve dinner and supper at Temple Theater, Saturday, August 3rd.

The straight front and the Grecian bend are only ephemeral, while good entertainments like the Chautauqua live forever.

F. M. Currie will offer our people some good horses at his sale Saturday afternoon, August 10th. His sales are always conducted honorably and he always has a sale when he advertises.

Rasmus P. Scritsmier, of Lillian and Mrs. Eva S. Miller, Broken Bow, were united in marriage by Judge Humphrey, at the court house yesterday and were heartily congratulated by friends who accompanied them.

Undertaker Cole was summoned to Dunning last Sunday to officiate as director at the funeral of Mrs. Alex Simmerman, formerly a resident of this vicinity, who died on the 18th inst. She is survived by husband and eight children.

The grounds are being put in condition for the Chautauqua and will be ready for the opening exercises Saturday evening. The programs Sunday—morning, afternoon and evening—will be splendid and should be attended every citizen.

Jess Gandy has finally decided that he is a candidate for county office, but just which particular one he does not know—or if he does, will not disclose. Anyhow, Jess has paid the price ($5.00) necessary to declare himself, and some of the other fellows are losing sleep and wondering where he will finally head in, because Jess is a power in the land and will receive a strong, hearty and unshakable support for any public office for which he may announce himself a candidate.

L. E. Cole, the funeral director, has made necessary arrangements whereby his name will appear on the republican ballot at the primary election for the office of coroner. Mr. Cole is not only well qualified for the position, but it still remains a fact that whoever is county coroner should be a resident of the county seat. In case of death where his services are needed the services of the sheriff or deputy is also demanded, hence a call is sent to the county seat and in many cases complications arise by the coroner being a physician residing in an adjoining town and out somewhere—nobody knows where—calling on patients. Delays can be avoided by this official being a resident at the county seat and Mr. Cole is a position to properly discharge the duties.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bailey, in Broken Bow, is this week the scene of happiness and good cheer, a family reunion which was not prearranged being in progress. Had the children communicated on the subject and apprised one another of their intended visit, others of the family might also have come, but as it is the following named are here: Mrs. Salina Woodruff, of Lincoln, arrived last week and Mrs. Bailey, wife of Rev. R. Cooper Bailey, of Bennett, Neb., reached here Monday. Rev. Bailey is at the Jamestown exposition or he would perhaps join in the festivities at home. Yesterday morning Mrs. Susan Langstaff, wife of Rev. George Langstaff, of Farwell, Neb., came and last night the party was augmented by the arrival Mrs. Elizabeth Conley, wife of M. P. Conley, of Kansas City.

Gov. Sheldon Here.
Governor and Mrs. Sheldon were in the city yesterday. At 11 o'clock they were greeted by and addressed Normal students. At 7:30 the governor attended a regular meeting of K. P. lodge and at 8:30 delivered an able address to at least 1000 citizens in the city park.
