Can't Endure Prosperity.

The uneasy temperament of he American people makes it impossible for them to endure anything for a very extended period. They grow weary of prosperity and long for a change. The most of them are unconscious of their restlessness, because it is L. W. WAKELEY, G. P. A., disguised by an aspiration which is euphemistically termed a desire for reform. They are incapable of adhering for an extended period to the idea that it is a good thing to let well enough alone. In the midst of an unparalled prosperity they ask for something they think is better, and when they get it they find that it is a Dead Sea apple.

$350,000 In Coats of Arms.

There are sufficient people in England and Scotland paying the annual tax imposed by the inland revenue upon the use of armorial bearings to produce a sum of $350,000 each year. The great bulk of this sum is paid by people who care not an atom either about their family or their arms, but pay the tax regularly simply because they have carriages or plate heraldically decorated. The really old families of the realm, however, use armorial emblems for decorative purposes to an extent almost incredible in the eyes of those familiar with them only on note paper, table silver and carriage panels.

How the Pendulum was Found. Like many of the commonest mechanical instruments in daily use, the invention of the pendulum is due entirely to chance. Galileo, when under 20 years of age, was standing one day in the Metropolitan church of Pisa, while some painters were at work on the ceiling of the church. A suspended lamp which was hanging before the altar was disturbed in some manner, and the scientist was struck with the almost perfect regularity with which it swung back and forth. The idea of measuring time by such an instrument found instant generation in his brain, and he completed the system in use to this day .- Sunday Magazine.

Common Sense in Diet.

As man was created for a varied and mixed diet, he has abundant opportunities for selecting his food and supplying his individual needs. In most cases appetite is the surest guide to healthy digestion and proper nourishment. This certainly is the common sense view that must appeal to all rational feeders: "Eat with regularity and in accordance with the demands of hunger such dishes as have always been regarded as innocuous, and remember that, as a rule, it is neither meats nor bouillon nor wine nor spices nor coffee which poison us, but their abuse"
