BOSS IN HIS OWN COURT.

Montana Judge Refused to Listen to Point of Law.

At one time, the supreme court issued a supervisory writ directing Judge Clancy, of Montana, to make a certain order in a case, either granting or refusing a right to Amalgamated, so that the matter might be finally determined in the higher tribunal. When this was brought to the Judge's attention, he announced that he would take the matter under advisement. The judge had taken other matters under advisement and they had never been heard of afterwards; it was one way of allowing Heinze ample time to extract valuable ore bodies from the disputed ground. "Under the decision of the supreme court, we are entitled to an immediate order," said L. O. Evans, the Amalgamated attorney, who presented the matter in court. "Well, I'm not going to give it to you," came back the reply from the bench. "Our only recourse will be another appeal to the supreme court," said Mr. Evans. "You can go to the supreme court, or anywhere else you please," said the judge. "This court can be punished for contempt—" "Go away, go away," shouted the judge, waving his long arms belligerently toward the lawyer. "You talk like a town fool I used to know back in Missouri. Bailiff, adjourn court."—McClure's Magazine.

FAITH IN HER NINE LIVES.

Cat Took Chances in Flying Leap from Burning Building.

During a fire in the tenement house at 124 West One Hundred and Second street the other day a large black cat, with shiny yellow eyes, appeared on a window sill of the fifth story. Behind it a dull red glow and an occasional puff of smoke gave warning that the flames were rapidly approaching. Puss understood, and, after a short walk on the sill, launched herself into space. The flight through the air was like that of a squirrel, the pose being perfect and the legs spread out as widely as possible. The cat descended in a long, graceful curve, and when she struck the pavement the feet were quickly bunched together and there was no "dull thud." For a single instant the cat paused, as if to recover from the shock, and then, with a long-drawn meow and every hair on end, dashed along the street and disappeared in the darkness.—N. Y. Sun.

Remarkable Funeral.

A remarkable funeral, among the mourners being 100 of the deceased's descendants, 85 of whom were comparatively small children, many of them babies in arms, recently took place at Adamsville, York county, Pa., when Mrs. Rebecca Godling Gafelter, of that place, was laid to rest. There were 40 grandchildren and 45 great-grandchildren, besides the sons and daughters of the deceased, of whom there were five, all the offspring of Mrs. Gafelter's first husband, who died some years ago. The great number of children, all of whom live in York county, attracted the attention of the mourners and friends and made such an impression that the minister, Rev. Adam Stump, dwelt particularly on their presence and the large family connections of the dead woman.

Rodney's Feathered Ally.

April 12 is the anniversary of Rodney's timely but much controverted victory over De Crasse, in which he received assistance from an unexpected ally. While the new manoeuvre of "breaking up the line"—really invented by Capt. Douglas—was being executed, a shot shattered the hencock and a little bantam cock escaped into the rigging. From this coign of vantage, whenever the G6rieux fired his broadside into the Formidable, he would hurl back a prolonged crow of defiance at the Frenchman. This "produced mighty merriment among the seamen, and inspired them with a proper spirit for the business." As a reward for his public services, the plucky little bird was relieved from the cook, and passed the rest of his days ashore as a petted pensioner.

Satisfying Congregation's Curiosity.

Rev. C. N. Wright, Wardle Vicarage, Rochdale, for a personal reminiscence, writes: "In my third living there was a very crowded congregation the first morning I officiated. The parishioners were evidently curious as to the build, color of hair, etc., of their new vicar. As a matter of fact I was, though a young man, very bald. A little thought would have caused me to make my first appearance on any morning but the eighth, but it was the eighth, and in the Psalms, which were read and not sung, I had to say: 'My sins are more in number than the hairs of my head.'—London Globe.

In a German Law Court.

A German law court was the scene lately of an amusing incident. The magistrate, a tiresome and long-winded person, was deciding a small case in which the plaintiff claimed damages for abuse. "To call a man a 'pig' or a 'dog,'" ruled the judge, "is certainly an insult; but to say that he is a 'pig-dog' is inoffensive, for no such animal exists." The plaintiff glared at the bench. "Schweine-hund!" he remarked with bitter emphasis.—T. P.'s Weekly.

More Than One.

"The average woman," said Grumbell, "has but one idea, and that's dress." "Huh!" snorted Maryatt, "my wife usually has at least a dozen ideas, and they're dresses."—The Catholic Standard and Times.

Short, entered into a contract with Harry Church, whereby they agreed to sell to Harry Church said quarter section of land, and also a quarter section owned by the said John F. Short. That said contract was in writing and provided that the said Harry Church should pay for the said section of land, including the land belonging to Elizabeth Short, $10,000, $2,000 of which was paid in cash at the time, the balance to be paid in cash and by note and mortgage on March 1, 1907.

The object and prayer of said petition are that a time and place for his hearing may be appointed and that a decree and judgment may be entered authorizing and directing the plaintiff John F. Short as such administrator to execute and deliver to the said Harry Church a conveyance of said land which belonged to said Elizabeth Short at the time of making said contract, upon the payment to him of the amount still due on the said contract.
