A FEW POLITICAL POINTERS.

CHAIRMAN HAYWARD CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS THIS YEAR.

WILL CUT OFF RURAL CARRIERS

The Democratic Threat to Reduce the Pay-Roll is no Doubt Aimed at the Rural Free Delivery. Opinion of a Nebraska Farmer.

During the past week Chairman Hayward of the Republican State Committee has been holding a successful series of conferences with county chairmen and committeemen at various points in the state convenient for the gathering of the party managers in groups. The meetings were designed to bring the party workers into closer touch and acquaintance among themselves and also with the work of the state committee with a view to promoting unanimity of effort and renewed zeal and enthusiasm in the determination to carry Nebraska for Taft and Sherman and the republican state and legislative tickets. The conferences were well attended and were a marked success, showing that the local party leaders were on the "firing line," alert and active everywhere and with the rank and file of the party and people at large showing new evidence of that dependable foundation of confidence in republican policies and administration which underlies public opinion in the state of Nebraska and which, when called upon to protect the prosperity and progress of the state, has never failed to respond with generous majorities.

"I have been reading the Democratic platform," said a prosperous farmer from a central Nebraska county who was a caller at Republican state headquarters last week, "and if my personal experience of prosperity under republican administration for the last twelve years had not made me a dyed-in-the-wool republican that Democratic platform would do the business." "Twelve years ago I was a 'renter' and owned a team, wagon, a couple of cows and a few farm implements," added the visitor, "and by virtue of good prices for all farm products during that time, which I attribute primarily to the republican policies of sound money and the protection of American wage workers by wise tariff laws, I have been able to pay for a good farm of 120 acres and have money in the home bank. That ought to be enough to bind me to the support of the republican party as against all the promises of the democratic politicians, but if it wasn't, one item in the democratic platform alone would make me hurry to the republican party for defense against the destroying hand of democracy."

"I notice that the democratic platform denounces the 'increase' in the number of public officials in recent years and the consequent increase in the public 'pay roll.' Now that sounds all right, but what does it really mean? Where will they make the first sweeping discharge of men and reduce what they call the pay roll? I have taken the trouble to look it up and as far as I can see, the democrats, if they keep their word, would very probably stop the Rural Free Delivery of mail because that service has added 'more names to the pay roll' in recent years than any other branch of government work. Now rural free delivery of mail was a republican idea, has been fostered and promoted by republican legislation and is one of the most important things the government ever did for the farmer. We farmers wouldn't give it up without a fight and the democratic threat to 'reduce the pay roll' is no doubt aimed at Rural Free Delivery and the best way to fight that issue is to vote for Taft and Sherman. That this democratic threat is seriously meant is proven by the figures known to everybody. From the reports of the Department I see that in 1898 the total expense of Rural Free Delivery was around fifty thousand dollars and less than 150 carriers were employed. In eight years the service had grown so enormously that nearly thirty-five thousand carriers were employed and nearly twenty-six million dollars appropriated to pay the expenses of this service to the farmers. That is where the democratic howl comes in about the 'increase' in the number of 'public officers' and the increased 'pay roll' because all these Rural Carriers are counted as public officers of which course they are. Am I going to beat myself out of Rural delivery by voting the democratic ticket? Not much. I live twelve miles from town and my mail and daily papers come to my farm gate every day. I read and keep even with what goes on in the world and I am taking no chances with the democrats who are for cutting down the pay roll, for their first 'choy' would be at the farmers mail delivery. None of that kind of democratic economy for me. They could cut 35,000 men off the 'pay roll' by stopping rural delivery of mail. That might look fine for the pay roll, but what would it do to us farmers?"

Civic Improvement Club.

The Civic Improvement Club will meet in the park next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 for work and such other business as may come before the meeting. You are invited to be present.

Delivery Horse Runs Away.

Clarence Armstrong had a narrow escape from being badly hurt Monday forenoon. He was delivering groceries for J. N. Peale and when near Mr. Shinn's residence the breeching broke which let the wagon run onto the horse. This caused the horse to run and it came down onto the square in a hurry. In order to keep from running into a buggy Clarence turned the horse into the fence. The nag jumped this and the sudden stop of the wagon threw young Armstrong over the horse. He landed on his hands and knees and before the horse could clear itself from the wagon he was up and had it caught. About the only damage done was a badly frightened boy, a scared horse and a demolished front wheel.

Here From Iowa.

A. B. Lewis and wife of Corn- ing, Iowa, were in the city a few days last week. They were guests of H. G. and Warren Lang who reside about thirteen miles west of here. Mr. Lewis was county superintendent of Adams county, Iowa for several years. He was here to look over the country with a view of buying land. They left Monday for the Kinkaid country where they will visit a nephew of Mr. Lewis.

Gaining Votes By Deceit.

One of the notable political incidents of the past week was the development of the scheme of the Bryan political managers in Nebraska to clothe the democratic presidential electors in this state with the garb of "Peoples Independent" party nominations, thus securing to Candidate Bryan "Peoples party" votes intended to be cast for Watson, the presidential nominee of the Peoples party. While "legal technicalities" may be cited to show that the law does not forbid this masquerade of democratic presidential electors, the false pretense is not hidden and the moral turpitude of gaining votes by palpable deceit is no less apparent. Candidate Bryan, who, from the high moral plane he has so long assumed to occupy, has devoted so many words on many occasions to the advocacy of the principle that "larceny" is equally offensive whether perpetrated "in violation of the law" or "through the operation of law," seems, from his public expressions, to view this brand of moral turpitude with extreme calmness, not to say satisfaction. "Barkis is willin'" to take votes no matter how obtained and it remains to be seen whether this snug manipulation of practical politics can be forced down the throats of Peoples party men with the mere accessories of outstretched hands and a voice saying, "Bless you, my children, bless you."

About A Home Chautauqua.

BROKEN BOW, NEBR., Aug. 9 1908.—EDITOR REPUBLICAN.—Dear Sir:—Your suggestion in the last issue of the REPUBLICAN that the "home people" consider the advisability of taking the Chautauqua into their own hands is well taken. We believe that a good Chautauqua is of great value to any community and hope that Broken Bow will continue with the good work already begun along this line. We believe, however, that there objectionable features about many of the Chautauquas as they are conducted at present which are chiefly due to the fact that they are being promoted and run for the money that can be made out them. When a Chautauqua is operated, primarily to make money, there are several things that naturally follow all of which detract from its merits. In the first place, the highest price for admittance that will be tolerated will be charged. Second, the cheapest talent that will be accepted will be secured. Third, there will be an attempt to please everybody—vary the program from questionable moving pictures and nonsensical entertainers to high class lectures and concerts. This will draw all classes and no doubt increase the gate receipts, but the good influence of one part of the program will be counteracted by the demoralizing influence of the other. We believe that a committee could be selected that would fairly represent the many different interests in our town and would successfully manage our Chautauqua and would soon become a permanent equipment for this purpose as other Nebraska towns have done. Then we would save the money that is being pocketed by the Redpath System and I believe we could remedy some of the defects referred to above.
