ROTHSCHILD MARRIAGES.

Number of Unions Between Cousins Belonging to the Famous Family.

The founder of the Rothschild family, Mayer Amschel of the Red Shield, dying in 1812, exhorted his five sons, engaged as loanmongers under him in Frankfurt, Vienna, London, Paris and Naples, not only to remain faithful to the law of Moses and stand ever united, but to undertake nothing of importance without first consulting their mother.

Nathan, founder of the London branch, also was so convinced of the business capacities of his wife, a Cohen, that he not only left the huge residue of his fortune at her disposal, but added instruction that his sons were to engage in no undertaking of moment without her consent.

How far the instruction was observed one is not in a position to say, but it is certain the Rothschilds have done their best to live in family unity, for from the gentle point of view the number that have married cousins is appalling. Of the five children of the great Nathan each married a cousin.

And coming to contemporaries, Lord Rothschild is the son of cousins and the husband of a cousin. Returning to Nathan, the Sidonia of "Comingsby," though his offspring married cousins, a reaction followed in the next generation, for three of his granddaughters, two of whom have been already named, married not only out of the family, but out of the faith.

COLONY WITHOUT CRIME.

St. Helena, our little Napoleonic colony in mid-Atlantic, is a model community. Its governor, Col. Gallwey, is also its judge, but in the latter capacity he has little or nothing to do. He holds court at stated times, but the only business is the presentation of white gloves.

Nevertheless St. Helena has an "inspector of police," and as the withdrawal of the garrison, hitherto the chief consumer of local products, has adversely affected the finances the St. Helena Guardian urges the abolition of this "unnecessary official who has practically nothing to do." His salary should go to a "much wanted assistant surgeon." There is only one surgeon in St. Helena, and if he became incapacitated the little community on the lonely Napoleonic rock would be in a parlous state.

Texas school land is selling for five dollars per acre. For cheap railroad rates see Jesse Gaudy.

John McGraw is in Omaha today to get two more Jackson autos. One of them he has sold to Dr. R. B. Mullins and the other goes to Gust Taylor. They are both $950 runabouts.

W. A. George purchased the Cole place one and one half miles west of Berwyn, of R. C. Shiley this week. The consideration was $20,000. Mr. Shiley purchased Mr. George's store in Berwyn and his auto. The consideration for the store was $8,000 and the auto $1700.

The council committee sent the amended electric lighting franchise to John W. Early last Monday, but it has heard nothing from him since that time. He has ten days to send his acceptance to the committee and must begin the erection of the plant within six days after he accepts the franchise.

Another Good LAND OFFERING

On May 22nd the Government will open its second tract of 12,000 acres of perfectly irrigated land in the Big Horn Basin, near Garland and Powell, Wyoming. This irrigation project of the Government is first-class and reliable. This land is adjacent to and along side of the Burlington Road. Powell and Garland are prosperous towns. The community is absolutely first-class, and there is not a better place to live in the whole west for climate, sunshine, productiveness of soil and many other good reasons, than the Big Horn Basin. This land is $45 an acre in ten annual installments without interest.

The World's Best Automobile

Western Automobile Stunts

[Centerville, Nebr., Gazette:]

John Schoenfeldt went down to Council Bluffs New Year's day to look over the Jackson automobiles. Now John wanted to be sure about the hill climbing qualities of any car that he might purchase, and he had heard of the Jackson Model C's hill climbing qualities, and after the usual demonstrations he inquired if the car had done the best it could. The Pioneer Implement companies had in reserve a thriller for the buyer who wants to be shown, and as John asked for the third degree, he got it.

Gaily Model C moved the paved streets in search for hills to conquer. Quite innocently it poked its radiator up Tenth avenue, and with the sudden roar of the opened muffler it fairly jumped at the two block straight run up the paved hill side. The hill seemed to fairly rise up to meet friend John, and as the famous hill climber increased its speed and the road seemed to terminate in a perpendicular bluff, tragedy seemed imminent. With a sudden whisk at the end of the pavement the car was off at a racing speed sharply to the right. Below the housetops, to the left the rearing hill, ahead only a few hundred feet the empty air. Suddenly the car swung to the left, and below were the roads previously traveled, only fifteen feet away horizontally, but suffering Jehosaphat! how much perpendicularly? To the right once more, around a tree, always rising, always racing, the car sped on over a little shelf of road clinging dizzily to the side of the bluff. Now to the right, then again to the left, directions were utterly lost. Suddenly between the trees the car brought into view Plattsmouth, twenty miles away, and Bellevue. Lake Manawa was actually four miles away, but it seemed as though the car must shoot into space and land in its waters. A quiet turn of the wheel by the driver, the racing for higher heights swept on.

At every second it seemed as though the car must jump into empty space or crash into the side of the bluff. A sudden whisk through a forty foot cut and the dales of Fairmont park were entered and still the car sped on, rising, turning, whirling onward and always upward, until with a last final turn the peak of the bluff, 226 feet above the car's start. Only seventy brief seconds brought John and the little heroic Model C into the rarified atmosphere at the top. Quietly the car rolled along the roadway at the peak, while our friend John wiped the water out of his eyes, filled his lungs with the gusty winds, and then John quietly melted down into the big leather seat and asked to be taken home by some other route less hazardous. No persuasion could induce our friend to ride down the road he had come up.

Remember that "No Hill is too Steep" and "No Sand is too Deep" for the Jackson.
