JUNIOR NORMAL CLOSERS FRIDAY

Largest and Most Successful in the State.

The Junior Normal in this city closed Friday evening. H. Lomax, Prof. E. O. Garrett, Prof. Lewis and Prof. Elliott occupied the chapel periods during the closing week. The closing examinations were given Wednesday and Thursday.

Supt. Elliott left Sunday for Arcadia to visit his cousin, Frank Tobey. He will go from there to Lincoln and will teach two weeks in the Cedar county institute. Miss Burley and Miss Brooks went to Brewster Saturday and they are teaching in the Blaine county institute this week. Miss Burley will go to Boulder, Colorado, August 10th to spend her summer vacation and will teach in the city schools of Lincoln again this year. Miss Brooks will be kept at home during the summer looking after her political fences as a candidate for re-election as county superintendent of Blaine county. Miss Emily Wood went to Columbus Monday for a few days outing and to study the birds of that place. She will teach one week in the Sarpy county institute in August and will be an instructor in the city schools of Omaha again the coming year.

The students of the normal speak very highly of Superintendent Elliott and his corps of instructors as is shown by the following resolutions which were passed by the students last week:

Whereas, the Broken Bow Junior Normal is about to close and whereas we, as students thereof, regard the term spent here as one of great value to us, both as an aid in the upbuilding of character and as a most profitable means of attaining a greater proficiency in our studies, be it resolved:

First. That we recognize our faculty of eight instructors as an unusually able one. That we know that they, both individually and as a whole, have labored unceasingly for the highest degree of success for our Junior Normal.

Second. That in Prof. R. I. Elliott, we have had a principal of strong executive ability and one who at all times and under all circumstances has most ably performed the many duties of his office.

Third. That we most heartily commend the work of the various a wonderful thing occurred, the sun suddenly went behind a dark gray cloud, edging it with bright gold and radiating long streaks of light all over the field like a bejeweled crown of matchless splendor. The bands were massed and after being reviewed took their station on a knoll and played "Onward Christian Soldiers," over and over again until all the officers, troops of infantry, cavalry and outside batteries of artillery, not omitting the Red Cross service, had been reviewed.

That same evening we attended a grand concert in the chautauqua auditorium given by the Choral Society of Reading, with its seven hundred voices. It seemed funny to me that I should come in touch with another Reading delegation, only this time I would have been delighted to sit in the front row. Saturday afternoon a crowd of us went again to the auditorium to hear Prof. Green lecture on "A Garden of English and American Literature," which was exceptionally fine. I have since heard him on Charles Lamb and had the pleasure of an introduction, through Mrs. Hertzler. His command of language is wonderful. His fund of witty sayings and anecdotes seems inexhaustible.

VISIT TO MT. GREINA.
single or in groups of two to as high as nine, out of the same root—that I imagine, years ago, was large trees cut down and sprouted again. These trees are in the streets and around the cottages and are surrounded by brown stone and the space planted full of ferns. The cottages with but few exceptions, are two stories with exposed roof; an electric light in the center, lights all the rooms that are only petitioned off except the bath room which is ceiled. Big, wide verandas are enclosed by rustic railings and supported by rustic columns, decorated with many fanciful large and small Chinese lanterns, Japanese chimes, rustic chairs, settees, swings, comfortable rocking chairs and small tables, are scattered about. The Wanders family, except the Reverend, are guests for ten days of my brother, George and his wife, at their cottage on 4th street called, "The Cedars." This is not my first visit to this charming resort. Three years ago in October, following my return from Europe, I came over here with my sisters, Mrs. Motter and a few friends to her cottage, called, "Yorktown Lodge," one block from "The Cedars," where we spent a few days chestnutting. Coming now in the height of the season is quite a different thing, even though we arrived in a heavy shower. Friday morning, July 16th, a party of relatives and friends left York for widely separate destinations. My father, sister and Mrs. Pentz, for a town of the northwest, including Yellowstone Park and the Seattle exposition; the rest of the party for Canada and different points of interest in this state. My sister, Mrs. Buckingham, of Baltimore, Md., her husband and two children, came with us and joined a large house party at Yorktown Lodge. Week ends and house parties are the order of the day and all the cottages are occupied.

In this state there are three Brigands of National Guardsmen. The third is now encamped here and is composed of five regiments or 5000, or more citizen soldiers. Each regiment has its own band. A number of regular army officers are in camp with the troop of cavalry from Fort Myer, Virginia, two troops of militia cavalry; two batteries, one of them U. S. regulars; one corp of U. S. engineers. The encampment covers a stretch of high rolling ground nearly one mile long. At the end nearest the railroad station is the large open space called the parade ground. "Officers Row" faces these grounds. You can have no idea how pretty the khaki colored tented city looks with its back ground of green foliage. The day of our arrival was the last day in camp. At five o'clock in the evening we witnessed the last and best dress parade. It was indeed a sight worth seeing. The troops were reviewed by General Dougherty in front of his headquarters, beside the flag pole, and took one hour and ten minutes. Each regiment could be seen way off, headed by its own band, marching through the streets of the tented city to the parade grounds, taking their proper station until every regiment was on the grounds. Then
