

WORTH KNOWING.

Simple Remedy That Anyone Can Prepare at Home.

Most people are more or less subject to coughs and colds. A simple remedy that will break up a cold quickly and cure any cough that is curable is made by mixing two ounces of Glycerine, a half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure and eight ounces of pure Whisky. You can get these in any good drug store and easily mix them in a large bottle. The mixture is highly recommended by the Leach Chemical Co. of Cincinnati, who prepare the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure for dispensing.

ENCOURAGING SIGNS OF LIFE

Liberal Contribution in United States and Canada for Work of the Foreign Missions.

In spite of the financial depression the offerings of the United States and Canada for foreign missions increased last year $602,000. The increase of income from the foreign field was even more remarkable, being $1,260,000. The total gifts on the foreign field was $1,844,000, and this amount was 48 per cent. of the total amount contributed for foreign missions by the Protestant churches of North America. The increase of native converts last year was 164,674, or over 450 a day. The cumulative effects of the foreign mission enterprise is shown by the fact that it took 100 years to gain the first million converts. The second million were secured in 12 years, and they are now being added at the rate of a million in six years. The percentage of the increase of the church membership of America was one and one-half, while the increase of American missions abroad was 12 per cent. Two members were added in America for each ordained minister, while 41 were added in the foreign field for each ordained American missionary.—The Missionary Review of the World.

Lincoln

DARK were the clouds that hovered over thee. Dear land, deep the encircling gloom, Blasted the fate of blood-bought Liberty, Wide yawned the nation's waiting tomb, When from the West, whither thy fortune ran, Up from the woods and plains God raised a man.

The wild bird takes its long, unerring flight. By what strange guidance none shall say; Stars in their endless courses ride the Night, Sunbeams unfold the curtained Day; Waves of the ocean find the distant shore, Winds of the trackless air blow evermore.

No inspiration, faith or prophecy? The ways of Providence reveals; No miracle from Life's deep mystery Its dearly treasured secret steals; Who holds it in the hollow of His hand, He, only He, can see and understand.

Spirit of Lincoln, giv'n a while to men, To teach and save, thy mission o'er, His voice it was that called thee once again, And softly through the open door Of starry ways, miraculous, led on— And nations bowed their heads when thou wert gone.

—W. P. H., in the Ohio Magazine.

Lincoln The Ideal Leader

IN the recurrence of another anniversary of the birth of Lincoln the commanding figure of the great man is again brought before us. And it was commanding—not in the mere outline of his tall frame or in facial expression, but it was commanding regarded as the home of his great soul. That is what makes all great men impressive. What matters it to the reader of history that Socrates was homely and ungainly; that Plato "talked but never looked" the philosopher he was; that of the great philosopher without whom Christianity could scarcely have won its way it was said that his bodily presence was weak and his speech contemptible, or that the conqueror of Marengo and Austerlitz was small in stature? Here, in the case of Lincoln, the greatness of soul it was that gave dignity to the body and glorified it; the fact is, great natures are always impressive. In his lifetime Solomon was honored above all others. He was declared to be the wisest of men. But he had not the wisdom that achieves just and lasting results: Had Washington, Madison and Monroe been no wiser, the country could not be what it is to-day, declares a writer in the Christian Work. In the measurements of world-history the years are few between Columbus and Washington, and fewer still between Washington and Lincoln. Grand, noble, imposing, the types of greatness represented by the two lives, dearest of all in this land; yet how widely different the genesis of each! The one sprang from the highest rank in social life, as at the time it was necessary he should. On the other hand, it is the glory alike of the country and the man that Lincoln sprang from the people. For such a conflict as our civil war Lincoln was the best possible, the ideal leader. The cabin, the bare-footed boy studying by candle-light at night after the hard work of the day, "the rail-splitter," "Honest Abe"—these became watchwords of inspiration, for they meant just what the war for the union meant; they stood for just that which the future of the country most needed and must have, if the ideals of a noble humanity were to be realized. And we may fittingly add, and most truly so, that the country will never know what it lost when the assassin's pistol ended the great man's life; at least we may believe that the trying period of reconstruction with the criminal precipitation of a vast horde of ignorant suffragists upon the franchise would never have been permitted had Lincoln lived. So it is, whether we look back upon what Lincoln did or anticipate what his wisdom would have done for the country had he lived, we find in him that which is typical and prophetic of a greatness only possible in such a "government of the people, for the people and by the people" as it is our unspoken privilege to enjoy. And it is safe to say that as the years and the centuries go by, that soul-journey from log cabin to white house, that innate greatness of sincerity for humanity, of reverence for the sacred, of love to man and God will ever serve to rebuke vanity and sham and points the way and inspire to that only true greatness that puts a patent of nobility upon people and nations.

New Lincoln Story.

The following unpublished story of Lincoln's relating is told by Adlai E. Stevenson, former vice-president of the United States. "I knew Lincoln well," said Mr. Stevenson, "and he once told me this story. When he was a boy at school there was in the class another boy, who somehow could not learn to read. It was the custom to open school with a selection from the Bible, each pupil reading a verse in turn. "One morning the story was of the children of Israel and the fiery furnace, and the verse, with the names of the three men who were cast into the furnace—Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego—fell to the lot of the little boy who couldn't read. He made a stagger at it, but didn't do very well, and was rewarded by a hearty slap from the teacher. He cried a little, then the reading went on. "All of a sudden, for no cause that anyone could see, he began to cry afresh. A halt was called on the reading, and the teacher demanded to know the cause of the uproar. "If you don't stop that crying I'll give you another slap," said the dominie severely. "An' I don't care if you do," sobbed the boy. "That's just what I'm crying about, anyhow. I've counted up the verses, and when it's my turn again I'll just have to read them same d—names all over!"

PART OF HIS BRAIN GONE

St. Louis Boy Ramps and Plays and Is Bright Despite the Loss.

St. Louis.—A little German boy in North St. Louis seems likely to disprove certain theories that medical experts have cherished for many years by living in health and happiness with a bullet in his brain.

On the evening of July 3, 1909, little Freddy Schaefering was playing with his chums when one of them undertook to clean a small revolver in preparation for the noise-making, glorious independence celebration. The weapon was discharged and the bullet lodged in Freddy's head.

The wounded boy was taken to the hospital and lay unconscious for three days. More than a table-spoonful of brains oozed out, but the bullet refused to follow, and the doctors said that with a hole extending three inches into his head Freddy must die. However, Freddy had no notion of dying. His parents took him home as soon as the doctors said they could not save him. To-day he is the liveliest six-year-old in the neighborhood of his home at 4124 Hull place. He runs, jumps, and plays like any other youngster, knows everybody by name, and is apparently a healthy boy of unusually bright mind.

The X-ray has shown the exact location of the leaden missile that lies in his brain. Once an operation was attempted, but as soon as the skull had been cut through the doctors desisted under the belief that an operation would be fatal.

New York.—Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of Pierpont Morgan, who has taken a prominent part in the strike of shirt waist makers here, is convinced from her study of unionism in New York that many conditions in labor organizations for women are detrimental.

According to a statement given out here, Miss Morgan believes that one of the greatest detriments to the cause is its tendency towards socialism. She thinks also that the leaders of the unsophisticated girl unionists frequently abuse their office.

"It is Miss Morgan's purpose to undertake the organization of women workers on a different basis than at present, but with the same object in view," is the announcement.

The New Neuritis.

"Neuritis is in—appendicitis is out. It is very old-fashioned to have appendicitis now, but if you get a dose of neuritis you are to be congratulated for your modernity."

The speaker, a physician, laughed bitterly.

"We doctors," he said, "are as much influenced by fads and crazes in disease as the women are influenced by fashion's fads and crazes. Everything is neuritis nowadays. The dowager duchess of Manchester died of neuritis. Edna May's husband went to Biarritz for his neuritis. Lord Curzon couldn't speak at the budget debate in the house of lords—he was suffering from an attack of neuritis."

"What's the matter with John D? The poor fellow has got neuritis.' I didn't see Harry Lehr at the embroidery bazaar.' 'No, his neuritis has come back on him.' 'John Jacob Astor's looking rather pale.' 'Didn't you know the hurricane gave him neuritis?'"

"That's the talk nowadays, and mark me well, Sedalla and Duluth will be setting up neuritis clubs before the year is out."

SCRATCHED SO SHE COULD NOT SLEEP

"I write to tell you how thankful I am for the wonderful Cuticura Remedies. My little niece had eczema for five years and when her mother died I took care of the child. It was all over her face and body, also on her head. She scratched so that she could not sleep nights. I used Cuticura Soap to wash her with and then applied Cuticura Ointment. I did not use quite half the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, together with Cuticura Resolvent, when you could see a change and they cured her nicely. Now she is eleven years old and has never been bothered with eczema since. My friends think it is just great the way the baby was cured by Cuticura. I send you a picture taken when she was about 18 months old."

"She was taken with the eczema when two years old. She was covered with big sores and her mother had all the best doctors and tried all kinds of salves and medicines without effect until we used Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. H. Kiernan, 663 Quincy St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1909."

"The Blood is The Life"

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are effected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood.

Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood thereby curing pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.
