"Your store is no good, sir! I asked for lace curtains last week, and I couldn't get 'em."
"Indeed?"
"Yes. And I asked for silk socks yesterday, and I couldn't get 'em."
"That's strange."
"And to-day I asked for credit, and can't even get that. Is this a regular store, or what?"

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and cleanses the surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

TALES OF GOTHAM AND OTHER CITIES

Who Owns "Lady"? a Police Puzzle

CHICAGO.—Over twenty-nine ounces of fur and flesh in the form of a matinee terrier labeled "Lady," the members of the police trial board all but lost their tempers and their dignity a few days ago. They did not, however, lose their sense of humor.

"Lady," it developed, had been fought over and fought for by three women and a man. Detective J. T. Quinlan at one stage of the squabble got his foot into it, and on this feature hung the trial. Quinlan was charged with "unbecoming conduct."

Stories differ as to who originally had the dog, but to make a beginning, it might be said that Mrs. Mary M. Singer, 663 Woodland park, wife of the assistant superintendent of a downtown department store, possessed the pup or poodle in the first place.

Mrs. Gertrude Ross, a dog fancier, whose residence was stated as 2430 Indiana avenue, believed, according to the developments of the trial, that she owned the dog. At any rate she got a writ of replevin and got the dog, putting up a bond of $200.

Next, for some unexplained, but possibly obvious reason, her dogship was related as enjoying the comforts of the house of Frank Pallma, musical director of the La Salle theater. He lives at 3708 Grand boulevard.

Mrs. Singer now appears with Detective Quinlan at the Pallma residence. She says she wants her dog, Mr. Pallma, appearing a trifle negligé, asks his visitors to be seated, and excuses himself to put on his coat. He returns. He tells them he has no dog.

Mrs. Singer insists on searching the house. She finds a neat little bed for doggie, but no "Lady." She hunts high and low. She goes downstairs in the basement and asks the janitor. Still no pup. Ah, Mrs. Singer has an idea. Why not search in the vacant flat?

Down she goes with the detective, and there, lo and behold, she discovers her long-lost, dear little "Lady"—and a Miss Mabel Melville as well. It develops that Miss Melville lived at the Pallma home.

Mr. Pallma explained the situation, as he saw it, to the trial board in the following manner:

"I had received a telephone message telling me that I should show the dog to no one. When they found the dog in the vacant flat below they took Miss Melville and myself down to Singer's store and kept us there for over an hour.

"All that time Mrs. Singer referred to us as 'dog thieves.' I thought there was a substitution of the police department in the basement of the store and was kept there until finally I was told Mr. Singer did not care to prosecute me.

As the evidence was concluded the members of the board looked at each other, and later on in conference decided they could not settle the case offhand—that is, the case of Quinlan's "unbecoming conduct"—and they said they would take the matter under advisement.

Danger to Grammar in Grasshoppers

NEW YORK.—John J. Fox, chairman of local school board No. 26, has discovered a peril—a perfectly new peril. Prominent in it is the tadpole, abetted by the grasshopper and backed up by the caterpillar. Mr. Fox finds that our school children study such things too much, neglecting what is really worth while.

Several nights ago he introduced a resolution before the board of which he is chairman asking that it be adopted and a copy sent to the board of education. The resolution reads:

"Resolved, That we, the members of local school board No. 26, having in mind the interest of the parents and the welfare of the children, do hereby record our emphatic disapproval of our educational system, which subordinates grammar to grasshoppers, reading to caterpillars, spelling to golden rod, arithmetic to bullfrogs and penmanship to tadpoles.

"Resolved, That we attribute to these and other equally reprehensible fads the atrocious English that is spoken by the school children of this city, within the very shadow of our grammar schools, from the lips of boys and girls old enough to speak correctly the language of the country of their birth.

"Resolved, That the time has come when the taxpayers and parents should inaugurate a movement for the extirpation from our school system of all the nonsensical fads that have crept into it during the last few years and which inure only to the benefit of those who teach the subjects, write the textbooks or profit by their publication."

But, alas, to-day the tadpole is jubilant; the grasshopper is breaking all records for running and standing jumps and the caterpillar wriggles defiantly throughout the land. Local school board No. 26 killed Mr. Fox's resolution.

Lingerie Gets a Hobo Into Trouble

ST. LOUIS.—The expensive-looking grip that a seedy-looking individual was carrying when he met Police Sergeant Wade Hampton Matthews at Twelfth and Pine streets aroused the sergeant's suspicions.

"Where did you get that grip?" asked Matthews.

"It's my grip," was the reply.

"Where are you taking it?" asked Matthews.

"To my apartments," answered the pedestrian.

"The Openair apartments," replied the man with the grip.

"Where are they?" persisted Matthews.

"In No street," glibly replied the man.

"Let me see what's in there," demanded Matthews, as he seized the grip and started to open it.

"Go ahead," said the man. "There's nothing there that don't belong to me."

The sergeant put in his hand and pulled out a pair of dirty overalls and a blue jumper. Then his fingers came in contact with a strip of lace. As he pulled on the lace he saw there was more of the garment behind. But it was something that certainly no gentleman could wear.

At Central police station the man with the grip said his name was Tom O'Hill, and he counseled the desk sergeant to be sure and not get an "e" in the last name where the "i" is. The grip contained a complete outfit of lady's wearing apparel and a number of letters addressed to "Mrs. Fitzhugh Funsten, No. 5728 Cates avenue."

At the Funsten residence it was stated that Mrs. Fitzhugh Funsten left the city for Chicago Saturday morning. She had been visiting here at the home of her brother, R. E. Funsten. It was stated at the residence that when Mrs. Funsten departed she carried one grip and checked two.

School of Courtesy for Railroad Men

NEW YORK.—So important has good manners come to be rated in the railroad service that one line, the Union Pacific, is going to open a "school of courtesy" for its employes, that ignorance may not be offered or actually exist, as an excuse for brusque behavior or ungentlemanly conduct on the part of the men who represent the road before the public.

It has been trying, as all the railroads and public service corporations may fairly be entitled to credit for trying, to guarantee polite treatment of passengers and patrons, and it has now come to the conclusion that conditions can be bettered by the practical training it proposes to give its employes.

If report is correct all the large railroads have inspectors, not only of the railroad stock, but to note also the behavior of the employes, who once in awhile discover to their sorrow that it would have paid to be polite to all passengers, even if no higher motive had existed than the possibility of thereby treating the incognito inspector to his satisfaction.

But while the passenger desires courtesy from the trainmen, he must not overlook the fact that courtesy can usually be counted upon to secure courtesy. Captious, inconsiderate passengers or customers or patrons are likely sooner or later to wear upon the most mild-dispositioned or self-controlled attendants, and they should bear in mind when they themselves feel irritated or irritated, that they have a moral responsibility not to make their fellow men stumble in the paths of politeness. Before making a complaint, it would be the fair thing to ask one's self whether one had given cause for impatience.

UNCLE JOE CANNON

HE ALSO SPEAKS WELL OF CANADA.

No matter what may be the opinion of Mr. Joseph Cannon, no matter if he may be looked upon by some as a czar, and by others as a big warm-hearted man, with many of the instincts that make humanity very bearable, all will admit that he is a man who has been advertised more than any other man in the United States. What he may have to say therefore on any subject, will have weight. Observant, he speaks his mind freely. He was interviewed the other day by the correspondent of a Canadian newspaper. He spoke of his admiration for Canada, and he is quoted in a way that pictures fairly well the person of the man. The correspondent says he launched out into personal biography, proverbial philosophy, political comment, cynical acorn, broad profanity and sentimental poetry such as one rarely hears in the space of an hour. He discussed the Canadian tariff, and then said: "People say I break the Ten Commandments, all of them. But I don't, at least not often. I did break one of them up in Canada two or three years ago. As I rode from Winnipeg to the Rockies over your great West and saw the finest wheatfields in the world, I thought of Virginia and a lot of our States, and I smashed the Tenth Commandment every hour of the journey. Yes, sir, I coveted my neighbor's land." Coming from a man of the fame of Mr. Cannon, these were words that should have some weight with the Americans who may still have doubts of the advantages that are offered to them in Western Canada. A home amongst the wheatfields. Hundreds of thousands of Americans are adopting it. They go to Central Canada, to any one of the three Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, or to the Coast Province of British Columbia, take up their homestead of 160 acres, and probably pre-empt another 160 acres, or it may be they do not care for pioneering twenty or thirty miles from an existing railway, and purchase a farm. Then they settle upon it and, having no clearing away of timber they begin at once to cultivate it, and make money. That they make money and much more than they could possibly make on the high-priced farms they have left, is the evidence of hundreds of thousands. They do not leave civilized life, they but remove from one sphere to another. They have splendid social conditions, churches, schools, rural telephones, splendid roads, railways, convenient just the same as what they left, and what is more, they get much greater returns from their crops, which give abundant yield. The climate is perfect, and it is no wonder that most flattering reports are sent back to their friends in the States, and it is no wonder that Joe Cannon was tempted to speak as he did. He "coveted" his neighbor's land.

All that time Mrs. Singer referred to us as 'dog thieves.' I thought there was a substitution of the police department in the basement of the store and was kept there until finally I was told Mr. Singer did not care to prosecute me.

As the evidence was concluded the members of the board looked at each other, and later on in conference decided they could not settle the case offhand—that is, the case of Quinlan's "unbecoming conduct"—and they said they would take the matter under advisement.

What Prof. Shaw, the Well-Known Agriculturist, Says About It:
"I would sooner raise cattle in Western Canada than in the best lands of the United States. Feed is cheaper and climate better for the purpose. Your vacant land beyond present conception, splendid schools and people in the United States alone who want to take up this land." See
