A JEWEL OF A GIRL

will prove all the more charming if adorned with some of our jewelry or trinkets. Even if she only adds a set of our jeweled combs to her costume she will look the prettier.

If There's Only One Girl

in this world for you, as the song says, show you appreciate her by presenting her with some of the charming jewelry on exhibition here.

JEWELER AND OPTICIAN

Communication to Farmers.

Experiment, Station Lincoln, Neb.
The Republican,
Broken Bow, Nebr.

Dear Sirs:

I am anxious to learn the names of all the farmers in Custer County who are practicing "clean summer fallowing," "summer tillage," "summer culture" for the conservation of moisture. The three terms all mean the same. I wish to get into communication with every farmer in western Nebraska who is making use of clean summer fallowing, which is the most important practice in connection with the so-called "dry farming" methods, of which so much is being written at the present time.

There are fertile soils in the extreme western part of Nebraska on which it is folly to use the summer fallow, while there are others appearing much the same on the surface and often not more than one half mile distant from the former on which the summer fallow should be made use of. If any of your readers are practicing clean summer fallowing whether they call it this or call it "summer tillage," "summer culture" or "The Campbell Systems", I would be glad to have them send me their names and addresses. If they, themselves, are not practicing it but know of others who are, I would be glad to receive the names and addresses of the latter.

Yours very truly,
F. J. Alway.

King Edward VII is Dead.

King Edward VII of England died at 11:45 May 6. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia following bronchitis. His sickness was of only two days duration. His son George V is successor to the throne at the age of 45.

King Edward became ruler of Great Britain Jan. 22 1901, on the death of his mother, Queen Victoria, in which time he occupied the throne nine years three months and fifteen days.

He was 70 years five months and 27 days. During his comparatively short reign he had not only won the esteem and confidence of his own people but had gained the confidence and respect of other nations for the wisdom, executive ability and diplomacy manifest throughout his reign. His funeral will be held the 18 or 20 of this month.

An Appeal to Parents of Broken Bow.

My Dear Fellow-citizens:—

I beg your indulgence and ask that you lend a listening ear to a few thoughts and suggestions I desire to offer for your careful consideration regarding the welfare of the children of the city and the citizens of the surrounding community.

We have observed many times in going to and returning from the city in the morning and the evening, before and after the school hours of the day, the children congregate on the streets to engage in the innocent games of childhood happy days of playing ball, marbles and the many other sports that are so essential to the health, welfare and happiness of the children of the City of Broken Bow and other cities; and as one who loves the children and has no desire to take from their innocent child life one ray of sunshine, may offer a word or thought that would cause them to believe, we were not a faithful friend, a willing helper and a staunch advocate of children's rights and privileges when based upon the good judgment, weighed carefully and honestly by all parents and guardian who have the custody, welfare and responsibility of the children of this day and generation. But we feel it a duty that compels us to speak out in kindly suggestion to the parents and citizens of Broken Bow asking that they instruct and insist that the children in their play on the streets do not purposely obstruct or persistently indulge in throwing different kinds of missiles at persons and teams that are passing to and fro on the streets. This is not only very annoying an unpleasant but is absolutely dangerous for the children as well as those who are passing along the streets, especially in vehicles drawn by horses and may cause the life of some one to be sacrificed and bring suffering and permanent injury to others. And we hope these suggestions will awaken an interest in the parents and the officials of the city sufficient to arouse them to a necessity of action in this matter whereby they will instruct and so order when the children are playing on the streets when people are passing by in buggies or other conveyances to step aside and give due respect to the traveling public and not endanger their own lives and give annoyance and cause a condition that may result in seriously injuring others.

I desire to be remembered as a friend of children and would not purposely offer undue criticism regarding their conduct and behavior. Hoping that I have not aroused a feeling of displeasure from parents toward me in what I have said by way of timely and friendly suggestions for we all know on of the great duties of life is that we must be patient with the children, the years are passing by.

You soon may miss the laughter sweet and love light in the eye. And in the darkness calling you may hear no voice reply.

When calling for the darling children.

Be patient with the children, the little hands that cling.

Are such as give you wealth of love no gold of earth can bring.

Nor any music half so sweet as are the songs they sing.

The precious happy smiling children.

Be patient with the children amid their noise and glee.

The heart of memory holds a balm for you and me.

Oh! God if only all our hearts were half so glad and free.

As are the darling little children.

Be patient with the children the house is still to-night.

The heart of memory aches to find a little form in white.

Among the seraphs of the skies and aureoled in light.

For sad is home without the children.

Sincerely yours for the welfare of all,

G. R. Russom.

Halley's Comet Visible.
Halley's Comet about which so much has been written the past few months is now visible to the naked eye in this locality.
It may be seen any morning when the sky is clear between 3,30 and 4 o'clock, little north of east, about 30 degrees above the horizon. Its brightness is not equal to the morning star, but it is recognized by its flowing tail which extends upward towards the southwest at an angle of about 30 degrees.
