

about the new tariff law, take the reports of these malcontents for granted, and in many cases are beating time to the anvil chorus of the free traders.

The Opinion is going to place before you an object lesson of free trade and its workings from "Merry Old England," written by an Englishman who makes a study of the conditions of the people and the causes.

London, April 30.—England is getting as much exercised over the "cost of living question" as America is.

England is not the only European country in which the "cost of living question" is being asked. Prices are rising everywhere. But nowhere else are conditions so serious as in Great Britain.

Result, 5,000,000 people out of a total population of 44,000,000 are down and out paupers, and another ten million are just balanced on the line separating the sufficiently fed from the semi-starving.

There are in the city of London approximately 7,000,000 inhabitants. Of these the latest official statistics set down 2,200,000 as living in poverty.

Conservatives blame free trade. Liberals say it is the fault of the House of Lords. Prohibitionists attribute it to drink. Socialists point the accusing finger at private ownership.

Whatever the cause or causes may be the fact remains that bacon, the national breakfast dish, has risen in price from 18 to 28 cents a pound, and that mutton which used to cost 20 cents a pound now costs 25; that pork and veal are 21 cents a pound; eggs 30 cents a dozen.

Is there a single American who will trade his job for asimilar one in England? If so, the English will be glad to swap.

Take the advice of Andrew Carnegie, "stop howling; this country is all right."—Colorado Springs Public Opinion.

That Sound Again

It is very easy to fall out of patience with the republican party. For of all thick-skinned, self-satisfied, ponderous, immovable animals, it is undoubtedly the worst.

Now just why the American people prefer to deal with such an irresponsible brute is often hard to comprehend. The big point in his favor, of course, is his intelligence.

more amiable frame of mind. So why the elephant.

The answer is unfortunately all too plain. It was given only the other day, for example, in an inconspicuous observation of the Hon. Champ Clark, democratic leader in the house representatives.

Think of it! Here at last is a chance for the country to obtain the information which everyone wants—the facts whereupon a proper revision of the tariff by any party can alone be made.

Is it any wonder that with such a brazen sound in the air the American people turn back peevishly to the stubborn old elephant?—From the New York Evening Sun, Ind't.

The possibility that Col. Roosevelt may return from abroad as sound a republican as ever is significantly distressing to the democratic newspapers.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

The republican party points to fifty years of administration, to fifty years of control, and upon the record of those fifty in every department of human life in America the republican party is willing to stand, but it wants a right to insist that the people be given all the facts.—Elmira Advertiser.

ner of sampling, and the depth of sampling. Some samples were taken to a depth of 15 feet in order to reach a point below which the crops could not obtain water.

A map is given showing the division of the farm into fields and also one showing the soil areas of the state. A brief discussion of the movements of the water found in the soil is also given.

The charts show that water is conserved in the soil through cultivation and that it is necessary to keep the surface of the soil loose and in a respective condition to get the water into the soil.

In a small grain field more plants are grown, with the result that the water is used more rapidly and less water is gotten into the soil.

This bulletin may be had free of cost upon application to the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station, Lincoln, Nebraska. E. A. Burnett, Director.
