POULTRY

POULTRY NOTES.

The average weight of goose eggs is about 5½ ounces each.

Charcoal in a granulated form should always be kept before fowls of all ages.

In an egg of 1,000 grains, 600 belong to the white, 300 to the yolk, and 100 to the shell.

To break a hen of her desire to get put in a small coop and feed her plenty of fattening food.

Do not forget that it requires four weeks to incubate duck eggs. One week more than is required for hens.

Pigeons will not thrive unless they are kept in comfortable, dry, clean quarters, and are given plenty of room to work and exercise.

Goslings and ducklings should be fed damp mash only, for the first few weeks. They do not seem to be able to do well on dry grains.

A mixture of lard and sulphur applied once a week is a good remedy for scaly legs. The fowls' legs should be scrubbed before applying it.

The eggs from pullets are seldom satisfactory for setting purposes. They are often infertile, and if they do hatch the chicks are small and sickly.

In 100 parts of the egg yolk, 52 per cent. is water, 45 per cent. is oil and fat, and one per cent. each of albuminoids, coloring and mineral matter.

In 100 parts of the white of an egg, about eighty-four per cent. is water, 12½ per cent. is albumen, one per cent. mineral, and 2½ per cent. sugar, etc.

After killing the insects with any strong solution, whitewashing will sweeten the room and stop up the cracks so that they will not have so many hiding places.

Select hens a little over size for the cockerels that are up to standard weight, and for the old males select large, well-developed pullets. This gives strength and vigor.

CLASSIFY THE YOUNG CHICKS

Most Successful and Satisfactory Method Is to Bring Them up in Batches, According to Age.

(By W. R. GILBERT.)
In nearly every instance of chicken rearing there are birds of different ages. There will be weeks and sometimes months between them, and to bring them up in mixed lots is not the best treatment they can receive.

It is a kind of process of the survival of the fittest, as the older chicks dominate the younger, and the latter generally come off badly. They have to take a back position in all things, as the large and stronger select the choicest and most of the foods and the most favorable positions in the runs and houses.

We often hear of early chicks doing well and late ones not succeeding so completely. This is wondered at, and few may attribute it to the cause I have pointed out, but it is very often the case.

It is a good plan to classify all chickens as far as possible according to size and age, and bring them up in batches. This is a most successful arrangement, and far more satisfactory than mixed rearing.

The smaller chickens should always have the best attentions in selection of the purest ground, the most sheltered positions, and the sunny spots.

Their food should be more adapted for juvenile requirements than that required for the larger specimens, and when all are about the same size, none experience those aggressions which often occur in the poultry yard, and always to the disadvantage of the young and weak.

In small yards each lot may be kept in wired runs, but on the farm all requirements are met admirably by placing the coops or houses here and there in different fields and positions some distance apart.

How much better they all do by this arrangement than any other, will, very soon, be gratifyingly apparent.

DRY FEEDING METHOD GAINS

Kansas Experiment Station Arranges Hopper So That Fowl Cannot Get Into Feed Box.

The Kansas experiment station, in a bulletin on poultry, prints the picture shown in cut below. This box or hopper is intended for feeding a dry mash, alfalfa meal or shells. As will be seen, the slats prevent the hen from getting ting into the box, while the cover, placed as it is keeps her from walking over it or roosting on it. There seems no doubt that the dry method of feeding hens is gaining.

Protection for Turkeys.
In the damp spring weather turkeys must be well protected from the weather. A good house is an open-front shed with a roost in the rear.

WATER FOR THE DUCKLINGS

Nothing of Greater Value Than Clean Supply—Concrete Pool Is Easy of Construction.

There is nothing of greater value to the young ducks than a clean supply of water; which is large enough so they can thoroughly enjoy their natural element. The pool of concrete shown in illustration may be easily constructed by excavating to the depth desired and inside this setting a square form, of the size the inside of pool is to be; this is made by nailing four boards together; the concrete may be easily filled around this form making a substantial tank of convenient shape and size, says Homestead. A supply of fresh water may be arranged for in building, by inserting a small gas pipe into one side of tank and with sufficient length to reach outside the poultry yard, as an outlet; the inlet pipe from water-works or storage tank (this may be a barrel set beside pool) should be one-third larger than outlet pipe, which will keep pool level full at all times.

Concrete Pool for Ducklings.

With both pipes fitted with a gate or valve you can allow the water to run once a day to clean out pool and then shut off, if supply will not permit running water all day long. The slight expense of constructing such a pool will be fully repaid in the decreased loss of ducklings, for they will be in no danger from vermin as when swimming in creeks and ponds.

COVERED RUN FOR CHICKENS

Protects Them From Hawks and Sudden Showers—Also Tends to Increase Size of Fowl.

Chickens will thrive better when they have access to plenty of green food and are allowed a certain amount of freedom. But when small, too wide a range may be harmful, writes Kathleen Abbot in Orange Judd Farmer. While it promotes a hardy, vigorous growth, the chicken does not attain as great a size nor when mature lay as large an egg. There is the danger, too, from hawks and sudden showers, particularly when there is no mother hen to call them. The covered chicken run illustrated restricts their freedom and also protects them from danger.

Wire netting is stretched around the sides and one end. The roof is hinged so it can easily be raised if desired. The open end is placed close to the door of the brooder so the chicks can go from one to the other. When the grass in that particular section has disappeared the position of both brooder and run can be changed for a fresh green spot.

When Eggs Are Good.

According to the secretary of the National Poultry Organization of London, England, an egg should be either at least three or four years old or not more than three or four days. He says: "I have eggs from China which are excellent. The Chinese wrap them in clay, put them away for three years and then bake them."

"The clay pulls off the shell and the interior resembles a plover's egg in appearance. They are much nicer than a stale English egg, because the chemical process of change is complete."

"The abomination is the month-old egg, which the co-operative depts. are establishing are designed to abolish."

Value of Eggs.

In a paper read before the French Academy of Science, Prof. Ballard showed by new and exhaustive analysis, the value of eggs as food and the enormous consumption of this product of the domestic hen. He showed that 25 per cent. of the egg has a nutritive value; the rest is water. Ten eggs without the shells equals just about one pound avoirdupois of meat. During one year Paris consumed 538,000,000 eggs, or something near 125,000 dozens every day. On the basis mentioned these eggs are equivalent to the meat from 168,000 steers per annum, figures that are almost staggering, but true if science is true.

Duck Raising.

When ducks are ten weeks old they are ready for market and should weigh from five to six pounds. They cost to raise about five cents per pound, and bring 20 to 30 cents, which means a profit of about $1 each.

I raise ducks for market as well as sell stock and eggs for show and breeding purposes and in this way average $300 per year from a pen of five or six fine ducks. The work, moreover, is easy and pleasant and does not interfere with my housework.

A Storekeeper Says:

"A lady came into my store lately and said: 'I have been using a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment. I want one now for my summer home. I think these oil stoves are wonderful. If only women knew what a comfort they are, they would all have one. I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends, and they were astonished. They thought that there was smell and smoke from an oil stove, and that it heated a room just like any other stove. I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now, not one of them would give hers up for five times its cost.'"

The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning, but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking. Now—she knows.

Do you really appreciate what a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove means to you? No more coal to carry, no more coming to the dinner table so tired out that you can't eat. Just light a Perfection Stove and immediately the heat from an intense blue flame shoots up to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven. But the room isn't heated. There is no smoke, no smell, no outside heat, no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

It has a Cabinet Top with a shelf for keeping plates and food hot. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

WESTERN CANADA

Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, says: "The stream of emigrants from the United States to Canada will continue."

Senator Dolliver recently paid a visit to Western Canada, and returned with a report that the land hunger in the hearts of the people of the United States is still as keen as ever. This will account for the removal of so many Iowa farmers to Canada. Our people are pleased with the Government and the excellent administration of the country, and they are coming to you in tens of thousands, and they are still coming.

Iowa contributed largely to the making of Western Canada. Their home during 1900, field crop returns alone during year added to the wealth of the country upwards of $170,000,000.00.
