

ANOTHER MEMORIAL DAY

Address Delivered by W. J. Rice at Cliff.

It is characteristic of our advancing years, that memorial day seems to come around every year sooner than before.

We are, at our time of life, realizing that the prophet, who said, "Mans days pass swifter than a weaver's shuttle," was true. It seems a very brief twelve months since the blooming roses and genial May sun called us forth upon this sweetly solemn duty of paying tribute to the nation dead who gave their lives to set the American flag as a sermon in the skies for freedom, human rights and the greatest good to man. With it comes the mournful thought of the augmenting sacredness of the day more than 50,000 of our comrades who last year joined with us in this Memorial occasion are now among those upon whose graves we lay flowers.

The services and sacrifices we remembered and honored last year are greater now by the addition of an army of daed exceeding in numbers those who fought some of the great battles of the war.

Recalling this should swell our hearts with an ever deepening sense of the holiness of the day.

Already the cemeteries hold the great majority of those who fought for the nations life and every year must augment this proportion until within a few years only the rear guard will be living on this side of the great river waiting for their turn to pass over and join the main column beyond.

What thoughts must fill the minds of all who give a backward glance to those of his comrades who have preceded him with whom he marched and the men he followed, and who now live only in history.

It is exceedingly gratifying to every veteran to feel that the great importance of memorial and decoration day is becoming more firmly impressive upon the people of the country who are understanding its meaning and the necessity of it.

They are understanding that as righteousness exalts a nation so is patriotism and a lofty public spirit absolutely necessary for the maintainance of its government.

The real value of memorial day is to the nation itself, not to those who gave the country the last great gift of their lives nor to their sorrowing relations and friends.

It is this that we avoid by the untiring cultivation of public spirit of the duty of every man to support his country and its institutions even to the extent of laying down their lives for them. In this way alone can a nation be maintained and carried on to that still wider usefulness to which its destiny points.

The observance of memorial day is a powerful factor, in this respect it brings to the front in the most impressive way the duties of citizenship of a free country and educates the rising generation as to the lofty requirement of American manhood.

May the God who fought the battles for Israel ever watch over young America and lead her on to higher plains of usefulness.

E. J. Boblits of Tuckerville, an Ex-Judge of Custer county was in the city Monday attending the democratic rally. The Judge was one of the pioneers of the South Loup country. He has announced himself a democrat candidate for the legislature. He has always affiliated with that party and he is entitled to its loyal support for the nomination.

A HELPING HAND

Is Gladly Extended by a Broken Bow Citizen.

There are many enthusiastic citizens in Broken Bow prepared to tell their experience for the public good. Testimony from such a source is the best of evidence and will prove a "helpin hand" to scores of readers. Read the following statement:

J. N. Kennedy, of Broken Bow, Nebr., says: "There is no other kidney remedy I can recommend as highly as Doan's Kidney Pills. In July 1907, I gave a public statement in their favor and at this time I gladly confirm it. I had acute pains through my back and kidneys and at times sharp twinges darted throughout my body. Every sudden move caused an attack of pain and I was often so lame and sore that it was almost impossible for me to straighten. The kidney secretions were unnatural and distressing in passage and if allowed to stand, deposited sediment. I had headaches, felt restless and was unable to get my proper rest. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Haerberle's Drug Store helped me from the time I began them and continued use entirely relieved me. During the past three years I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills, whenever I have been in need of a kidney medicine and I have received benefit. I am in eightieth year and I owe much of my present good health to the use of this remedy."
