It now looks as if congress will adjourn not later than the 25th of this month.

Democrats are always hopeful over the outlook, even if they usually are disappointed with the look-in.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Missouri republicans are wisely nominating full tickets in the strongest democratic counties. One of the political certainties in this state is the decadence of Bourbonism.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

To those who are fond of making the statement that Congressman Longworth is simply a son-in-law of a certain prominent person, a careful perusal of his latest speech in congress is suggested.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

On election day the Payne law will have had over a year of trial. Its friends reply to criticisms by performances. Revenue is coming in, and business is brisk. They quote the old saw with assurance. The proof of the pudding is in the eating.—Washington Star.

In passing of the railroad bill and the Postal Saving bank bill the republican members of congress have again proven to the public that the interest of the public is safe in their hands. Both bills were supported by a number of democrats in their passage.

The future of the republican party is assured if it is controlled and led by loyal, patriotic men, who stand for progress and humanity. It will live and flourish if it manifests its ability and willingness to serve the common welfare. All it has to do is to keep in the middle of the road under noble leadership to an abiding place in the affections of the people.—Manchester Mirror.

Governor Harmon may not be presidential size, but at least he is too big a man to be spanked in public by Mr. Bryan. The "titular leader" of the democratic party appears to possessed with the idea that a man wear his brand in order to be eligible to the democratic nomination for president. The delusion does not tend to promote party harmony.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

That Comet's a Democrat.

The 40,000,000-mile tail of Halley's comet could be rolled up and put into an ordinary suitcase so little solidity has it. It seems to be very similar to the democratic party—very thin, very light, very long drawn out, very unsubstantial, and coming from anywhere or nowhere and bound for anywhere, everywhere and nowhere. It is bulk and bluff and babble and blubber and blather. It threatens destruction and dissipates into obscurity.—Piqua Daily Call.

Were it a matter of carrying the presidential election in 1912 and of nothing more, the republicans could afford to let the democrats obtain control of the next house. A democratic house next year would insure republican success the year following. But there are legitimate problems to solve. The country does not want a deadlock upon congressional action. Its interests lie in the republican success at the polls next November. Hence, the prospect of a democratic victory will grow fainter as election day draws near. The people will not throw away the opportunity to recure from the next congress the legislation they need. They will not let the democrats get control of the house.—Denver Republican.

Even such a black republican as Jules Haumont approved of this statement though it came from a democratic governor, he approved it. We know he did because we saw him nod his head in pleasing ascent. We could ou passed, became a law through the good offices of a republican house and senate and a republican governor. In due time the debt was all wiped out and the felicitous conditions which you described in your own inimicable style were the result. Of course which, for t has given at ted atten as one of and most e history of our Govern Not a sing n senator It was a speeches not particularly conductive to republican harmony. In fact, he was engaged in an effort to defeat one of the strongest and ablest republican members of Congress. Had he been present, he would have voted for the bill, but his absence on such an errand at such a time, is signified.
