astic Tribute to Mission Hospitals.

In Uganda, Mr. Roosevelt responded to an invitation to open a new addition to the Mengo C. M. S. hospital Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Long before I came here I had known of the work that was being done in Uganda, and felt particularly anxious to see it. Here you have a particularly intelligent native race, which has already developed a very interesting culture of its own, a culture both political and social. And the great work must of necessity be to try to help that race onward, and to try to do it in a practical fashion, and to do it so that the doing of it shall be primarily a benefit to the race, and, secondly, a benefit to your own people from whom you come.

"I have the strongest feeling as to the good that is being done by the medical missionary. There must be some visible fruit in the life and work of the man who preaches if his preaching is going to have a very great effect upon those to whom he preaches. That visible fruit can be shown in many different ways, and one of the most efficient ways of showing it is by just such work as is being done in connection with this building, which It will naturally be a source of pecultar pride to myself to have my name associated with and which I now take pleasure in declaring to be

Two Scotch fishermen, James and Sandy, belated and befogged on a rough water, were in some trepidation lest they should never get ashore again. At last Jamie said:

"I don't know how," said Sandy. "If ye don't I'll chuck ye overboard," said Jamie.

A DETERMINED WOMAN

Finally Found a Food That Cured Her.

"When I first read of the remarkable effects of Grape-Nuts food, I determined to secure some," says a woman in Salisbury, Mo. "At that time there was none kept in this town, but my husband ordered some from a Chicago traveler.

"I had been greatly afflicted with sudden attacks of cramps, nausea, and vomiting. Tried all sorts of remedies and physicians, but obtained only temporary relief. As soon as I began to use the new food the cramps disappeared and have never returned.

"My old attacks of sick stomach were a little slower to yield, but by continuing the food, that trouble has disappeared entirely. I am today perfectly well, can eat anything and everything I wish, without paying the penalty that I used to. We would not keep house without Grape-Nuts.

"My husband was so delighted with 'the benefits I received that he has been recommending Grape-Nuts to his customers and has built up a very large trade on the food. He sells them by the case to many of the leading physicians of the county, who recommend Grape-Nuts very generally. There is some satisfaction in using a really scientifically prepared food." But Adams, self-effacingly, insisted that the laborious honor should fall to his colleague.

'You are a Virginian," said Adams, 'and I am a Massachusetts man. You are a southerner and I am from the north; I have been so obnoxious for my early and constant zeal in promoting the measure that any draft of mine would undergo a more severe scrutiny and criticism in congress than one of your composition. And finally and that would be reason enough if there were no other-I have a great opinion of the elegance of your pen and none at all of my own.

What was he thinking of as he rode onward? Not of the pain of the cancer, slowly eating away his countenance and sapping his vitality; not of the risk he ran, a solitary horseman, of being waylaid and robbed or murdered upon the lonely journey. He heeded not the hunger and the sleeplessness; he was thinking only of the fact that his vote would turn the day for Delaware: Delaware, though a little state, might influence Pennsylvania, and so the vote of the colonies would be unanimous for a declaration that would immortalize the men who made and signed it, and enfranchise the people of the 13 colonies and their

The desk upon which the declaration was drafted is in the library of the state department at Washington. It was exhibited at Buffalo in the Pan-American exposition in 1901.

The final debate in congress, in the committee of the whole, upon the adoption of the Declaration of Independence began at nine o'clock on Monday, July 1. On that day Pennsylvania, seven of whose delegates were his hands and shouting 'Ring! ring! present, voted against adoption. The vote of Delaware, having two delegates present, was divided. Thereupon McKean of Delaware, who had voted affirmatively, wrote a frantic letter to the absent Delaware delegate, Caesar Rodney, imploring him to come and cast his vote, and thus turn the scale for Delaware, for minations the patriots held glorious it was highly probable that if Dela- carnival that night in the quiet city of ware supported the declaration Penn- | Penn."

He suffered tortures from the cancer, which, starting on his nose, had spread all over one side of his face, so that he had to wear a green silk shield to hide the disfigurement; it was of this chronic affliction that he died. A contemporary chronicle describes him as "an animated skeleton-indeed, all spirit, without corporeal integument." McKean's messenger left Philadelphia late in the afternoon of July 1. It was necessary to get Rodney back to Independence hall by July 4, the day appointed for taking the vote upon the adoption of the declaration. All night, all day he rode at top speed; and Rodney is supposed to have started on the return journey in the evening of the

Give good weight in packing or printing. It is better to give a pound than to have a pound short.

every day. Cows know the difference and it affects their flow of milk You should not only know how much each cow produces, but how much it costs to do the producing. Mangels and ensliage replace one another as succulent foods for milk production, but the ensilage

Keep the cows comfortable at night and when the weather is cold and wet. In daytime if they have pasture and good water they can care for them-

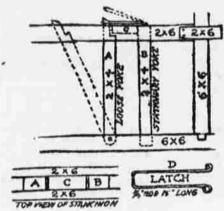

Always pack butter with a view to tidiness in the very highest degree. No matter what form of package is used, specially study the requirements of the markets for packages.

Cool milk quickly before delivering it to the creamery. To cool the milk, place the cans in cold water and stir thoroughly, so as to drive out animal heat and odors.

IMPROVED TYPE OF STANCHION

Trouble Usually Experienced in Getting Cow Free Is Done Away by Stall Herewith Shown.

When a cow gets down in the stall it is quite a job to get her head out of the ordinary stanchion. The loose side of my stanchlon works in a socket at the bottom. If a cow gets down the loose yoke is pulled out, and she is free, says a writer in Missouri Valley Farmer. For the bottom sill I use 6x6inch timber, for upper sill 2x6-inch planks and for the yoke pieces of 2x4. The stanchions are made 31/2 feet apart from center to center. A block is set against the stationary yoke, with a corresponding corner cut from the loose yoke. This keeps the yoke from slipping up and out of place. A quarter-inch rod 15 inches long bent to form a latch is hinged at side of stationary yoke. When loose yoke is in place the latch slips over automatically, holding it in place.

COST OF FILLING THE SILO

Bulletin Issued by Department of Ag riculture Gives Average Yield as 9.01 Per Acre.

Bulletin 292 issued by the United states department of agriculture on Cost of Filling Silos" gives the average yield of silage per acre as 9.01. The author visited 31 farms during the silo filling season and took notes on the number and arrangement of men and teams, the machinery used, length of time, etc. The results obtained are very valuable inasmuch as they are not the results obtained by one farmer under certain conditions. The farms visited are all located in Jefferson and Fond du Lac countles. Wisconsin, where the silo has been in quite general use for several years.

The average cost per ton of silage was 64 cents, and the average cost of putting the corn in the silo was $5.98 per acre. The lowest cost for putting the corn in the silo was 46 cents per ton and the highest 86 cents.

In regard to partnership arrangements among the farmers the bulletin says: "The high cost of machinery for cutting silage and the difficulty in procuring help prevent many farmers from building silos. It is highly important to be able to get an outfit when it is needed. An early frost or a spell of hot, dry weather may so affect the crop that it is necessary to fill the silo several days before the usual time. for this season a man should own his cutter and engine, especially if enough silage is cut each year to warrant this outlay of capital. It is usually easier to hire an engine than it is a cutter. For this reason many buy the latter and depend on being able to rent the former when it is needed. The next best arrangement to owning an outfit individually is for two or three farmers in the same neighborhood to buy the necessary machinery in partnership.

The illustration shows an excellent method of filling a silo by means of a slat elevator.

DAIRYING PAYS BIG PROFITS

Requires Unremitting Attention, But Returns Are Large and Practically Sure-No Holiday.

(By MILLER PURVIS.) Dairying is a confining business to be sure. It requires daily attention and the work must be done with regularity, each duty requiring attention at practically the same hour, week after week, rain or shine, Sunday, Fourth of July and Thanksgiving.

It is this everlasting routine that prevents a great many from taking up dairying as a regular part of the farm work. It is the American distaste for being bound down and hedged in that keeps the dairy part of our farm work very much in the background.

Notwithstanding this undesirable phase of dairying, it has some advantages which producing grain, hay or live stock for market have not.

It is a business on which the operator is able to count without much danger of having his plans miscarry on account of wet or dry weather, early or late frosts, or any other of the things which so often mar the projects of the most careful husband-

With a little forethought the dairyman may be as free from worry about the weather as any other man living. Blow high or blow low the cows come home and the consuming public is ready to take all the butter that is she is being milked take a rope or produced, or the creamery or cheese hair cut, sir? factory is waiting to weigh in the it pass in front of udder and over root | milk and distribute checks every month.

This is another advantage. The live stock breeder must wait two, three or five years for his cattle to get in shape for market, the swine breeder gets his money only once a year and the sheepman is likely to have his profits knocked away by tariff agitation or a big crop of wool in Australia, or a sudden panic among the "predatory wealthy."

Empires may fall and nations disappear, until the map of Europe looks like a western landscape after a cy clone, but people must have milk, butter and cheese and the price gets a little better every year. No dairyman need worry about the result of the election for Republicans, Democrats and Socialists alike need the products of the dairy or they will not feel that they are getting what is coming to them:

The money from the dairy comes weekly, or at longest, monthly, and it is a cash deal all the time. The prices vary with the season a little, but they run in lines that take the same up and down curves year after year.

And the farm. The dairyman who does not improve his land every year must lie awake nights studying how to keep it from growing more fertile. Selling milk is about the hardest sells butterfat sells nothing but sun-75 cents.
