Promoting the Efficiency of the Army.

Senator Ingalls' bill to promote the efficiency of the army is an extremely important bill, proposing to fix a new schedule of pay for the enlisted men of the army for a period of ten years. The pay of privates is year, $17 the fifth, and $19 the next five ner (0), Van Al-tyne, Dockery, Wood, years; wagoners are to have $15 per month; artificers, $16; farriers, $21 to $26; corporals of engineer, ordnance, and signal corps, $37 to $42; first sergeants, $42 to $5); sergeants, $58 to $58. The increase is during the first five years, the last five being uniform. The second section of the bill is as

SEC. 2. That hereafter section 2 of the act of August 4, 1854, shall increase the pay of the following enlisted men only namely: Privates of artillery, cavalry; second class privates of the engineers, ordnance and sigcorps; musicians of artillery and infanother enlisted men of the army shall receive no increase above that rated for the second period of enlistment, and they to have that increase only in case they re-enlist within one month after the date of their discharge.

Accident to Gen. Grant.

NEW YORK, December 27 .- General Grant, on leaving home to-day, slipped upon the ice and fell, receiving a severe shock and seriously injuring his thigh. Frederick Grant, his son, says he has seen the surgeons who attended his father, but they were unable to determine whether his injury is dangerous or not. They said, however, that the limb would be paralyzed for the time being. No bones were broken, and the supposition is that the bruise affected the sciatic nerve. The general, immediately after the accident, was assisted to his bed, where he has remained ever since, lying in one position, on his back. While the injured leg is most painful, the general's health otherwise is good, and he is even comparatively cheerful under the circumstances. The surgeons antici-pating nothing serious, but at the same time they predict that it will be several weeks before the general will be able to leave the house.

The Las Vegas Gold Mines.

Advices from Las Vegas, New Mexico, indicate great excitement among the citizens in regard to the late gold discoveries. Gold ger, Young, Debble, Reese, Hopkins, Pu- is said to have been found in paying quantities on a lot at Hot Springs owned by a prominent resident of Topeka a few days ago by two miners employed to assist in the excavation of the ground for the new $100,000 court house. Next morning they were up with the lark staking out mining claims in court yards, and now the hills and valleys round Vegas are all swarming with excited gold seekers, many of whom have met with success. Eight business men formed a company, purchased an interest in the court vard, and will try and develop it. A few years ago Elizabethtown, near Las Vegas, had a population of 5,000 gold miners, and for a number of years a company was engaged in hydraulic mining, taking out $50,-

Mileage of Railway in the United States.

CHICAGO, December 26 .- The Railway Age, in its next issue, will publish a summary of the railway building in the United States for the past twelve months. It shows 6,600 miles of main track laid, at an approximate cost of $ 65,000,000, making the total miles of railway in this country to date 120,000,000. The construction during 1882 was the largest in the history of the country, 11,600 miles; the year before, 9,700. The states and territories which lead in the construction this year are as fellows: Montana, 413; Dakota, 409; Michigan, 406; New York, 375; Pennsylvania, 339; Ohio, 325; Mississippi, 205. New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Delaware, Nevada and Wyoming were the only states and territories in which no new road was built.

Lucca's First Singing.

The following account of the original debut of Lucea comes to us from a gentleman who heard the recital from her own lips:

When the great singer was but a lit-

On the day we knew what answer she had made when sighted the City of Boston a furious the stern examiner did chance to ask her a single question. At last the sels labored hard. The sea seemed declass in music was told to come forword. At this moment Little Lucca happened to espy in the audience her poor mother, with tears in her eyes and a sad and regretful expression on her face. The sight went deep into the the possibility of icebergs. The City of heart of the little girl and at once the thought came te her, "What can I do to please mamma?" Almost with the thought came the answer: "The examination is all over but the singing. Go forward with the singing class. You are familiar with all the songs, and can sing any of them." Lucca's resolution was made and acted upon at once; and, to the dismay of the principal of the school, she stood up with the half dozen other aspirants for honors in music. After these had sung the various pieces to which careful preparation had been given, the examiner turned to Lucca and said, "Well, my little girl, what can you sing?" "I can sing any of those songs," she replied timidly. "Sing the last one, then," said the examiner. Lucca was disappointed, for this was a very simple and insignificant song, and she wanted to sing the "Ave Maria;" but without hesitation she sang the piece in such a manner that examiner and andience were wholly surprised, and the little songster's mother was smiling "No? But a person's appearance is gladly through a shower of tears. With an inspiration worthy of an older and a stouter heart, Lucca saw an opportunity to avenge the impositions and insults that she had so long suffered, and her heart throbbed wildly as she said. "Please, sir, I'd like to sing the 'Ave Marie?'" "I'm afraid its too difficult for you," replied the examiner kindly; "but you may try it." With a feeling that she was to do or die, but strong in the confidence of her ability to carry out her design, and encouraged by her mother's proud and almost ecstatic look of happiness, she sung the "Ave Marie," her whole soul going into every note, her eyes brimming with tears; and so lost was she to all about her that when she ceased singing she neither heard the tumultuous applause that shook the school room, nor saw the tears that glistened in every eye and rolled down the cheek of many a listener, but stood motionless until she was recalled to her senses by feeling the warm breath of the examiner as he kissed her, while the tears coursed down his cheeks in an unchecked flow, and he said, in tones tremulous with Said I: "Judge, what is your estiday I have the proud satisfaction, "My dear little girl, you have sung like an angle from heaven.'
