On the call of states, 670 bills were introduced. The resignation of George D. Robson (Mass.) was tabled. Mr. Converse offered a resolution calling upon the secretary of the treasury for information concerning undervaluation and other irregular practices in the importation of wools and woolen goods. It is as follows: "Resolved, That the secretary of the navy be directed to inform the senate what the original cost of vessels, whose names are found on the naval register for the year 1883, under the bureau of construction, for repairs, steam engineering, equipment and recruiting, together with the total expense of repairs since their construction under the same bureau or otherwise." The chair presented a communication from the secretary of the treasury, transmitting copies of vouchers accounted by the department of justice since March 4, 1881, with names of special and assistant attorneys and clerks employed. Messages from the president were laid before the senate relating to the Illinois and Michigan canal and the work of the Mississippi river commission. Pending discussion on the rules the senate went into executive session and shortly adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. Gibson asked leave to offer a resolution declaring all laws of the federal government authorizing the sale of intoxicating liquors in the states, wholesale or retail, be made dependent on the parties authorized by first obtaining license of the state authorities. Mr. Deuster objected. The speaker laid before the house the president's message in regard to the Hennepin canal. Referred to the committee on railroads and canals. The speaker laid before the house the message of the president submitting the annual report of the Mississippi river commission. Reference to this report called out an extended discussion. Mr. Kasson offered a preamble and resolution reciting certain foreign governments treaties with which the United States have commercial treaties securing to the United States the treatment assured to the most favored nation in regard to the importation of American produce and manufactures, have, in apparent violation of such treaties, prohibited the introduction of certain food products of the United States under regulations not applied in like productions of other nations, and directing the committee on foreign affairs to inquire into the facts and report what legislation and other action should be taken by congress or the executive to secure the due observance of such treaties to protect the rights of United States citizens with respect thereto, whether relating to legislation or otherwise. Mr. Voorhees introduced a bill to equalize the bounties of soldiers. [This bill is the same as that passed by congress nine years ago, but vetoed by President Grant on the ground that it would take more money out of the treasury than the public interests would warrant.] The senate resumed consideration of the new rules, but without action adjourned.

Mr. Wood offered the following, which was adopted: That the secretary of the treasury be requested to state to the hour the amount of gold certificates issued by the treasury department between Dec.,

Mr. McCall introduced a bill providing for the establishment of a postal savings bank. It requires their establishment in all post-offices where the receipts are equal to $1,000 annually, and deposits to be received of all sums under $100, payment guaranteed by the government. Mr. Anthony's resolution instructing the committee on foreign relations to inquire into the expediency of legislation to enable the executive to protect American interests against those of governments discriminating against healthful meats from the United States was taken up. Mr. Van Wyck moved to amend by adding "excepting governments whose manufactured goods or products were previously restricted or prohibited free access to our ports." During Van Wyck's explanation the morning hour expired and the matter went over and the senate adjourned.

Political Contributions. WASHINGTON, January 8.—Postmaster General Gresham, to-day, in response to the house resolution calling for information on the alleged distribution in his department of circulars asking contributions from the clerks for political purposes, says: In reply I have the honor to state that on Saturday, the 5th inst., I was informed that there was distributed in the department a number of circulars, of which the following is a copy:

To the Indiana Republicans in Washington: The republican state committee is now organizing the state for the ensuing campaign with great confidence of success if the efforts are properly seconded. Your attention is respectfully invited to the fact that money is now needed to meet the expenses of the preliminary work, and the committee must rely upon your zeal and sense of justice for assistance in this matter. They have sent a subscription paper asking voluntary contributions for all true republicans of the state now in Washington, which has been placed in my hands, and I am ready to receive such subscriptions and remit the proceeds to them. The plan is to take monthly subscriptions for six months, payable on the first of each month. Please inform me at once of the amount you are willing to contribute, beginning December, 1883. Respectfully, etc., (Signed) W. S. O'DELL, WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 29, 1883.

Senator Sherman and the Northern Pacific Presidency. WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Senator Sherman's attention being called to a report that the office of president of the Northern Pacific railroad had been tendered to him, and he declined, he said: "The office was not tendered to me, but the matter has been mentioned by leading stockholders and directors. I have said that while I would gladly undertake the duties of the office, and have the highest opinion of the value and success of the road, yet I could not, with due regard for the duty I owe to my constituents and colleagues in the senate, resign the position of senator, nor could I properly, while senator, act as president of the company."

Mrs. Harriet Cumings, of Cincinnati, Ohio, writes: Early last winter my daughter was attacked with a severe cold which settled on her lungs. We tried several medicines, none of which seemed to do her good, but she continued to get worse, and finally raised large amounts of blood from her lungs. We called in a physician, but he failed to do her good. We then called in a physician—a most skillful professor in one of our colleges—he said she could not get well. At this time a friend who had been cured by DR. WM. HALL'S BALM FOR THE LUNGS, advised me to give it a trial. We got a bottle and before she had used it all up she began to improve, and by use of three bottles was entirely cured.
