From specimens of corn shown at this office, we are led to remark that corn is about beyond the power of that grim gentleman, who goes under the style of Jack Frost.

Just arrived, at the City Bakery, a car-load of the Cream and Fancy brands of Grand Island Flour. Also, a supply of white bolted corn meal.

We cannot be too careful what we eat. Leis' German Baking Powder is free from alum, ammonia and deleterious substances. Sold by C. H. Rogers.

Melon parties are numerous on our streets, and the remains of such feasts are scattered along the public thoroughfares just as numerous, and to the great inconvenience of pedestrians.

The most intractable pony in this nook of this mundane sphere assuredly belongs to E. H. McCormick. Her inclination toward festivity is just as marked as upon her first appearance.

What's the matter with somebody adding a skating rink in McCook. Almost every little burg in the state sports such a place of amusement, and a well-regulated rink would pay here.

A social will be held at the house of Mrs. W. O. Moody, Friday evening, September 12, under the auspices of the Good Templars Lodge. All members and friends are cordially invited.

We have the assurance that either Mr. Hayden or Mr. Hoeknell will handle the grain of this vicinity, unless other arrangements are made. This assures the handling of the grain at all events.

McCook is rapidly assuming metropolitan airs in many respects. That everlasting nuisance, the "I travel-on-my-shape" specimen is quite numerous, and we are bearing our portion of the burden—in loss.

To the railroad boys and others who have kindly ministered to his necessities during his late severe illness, J. W. Howell desires to return his sincerest thanks. Mr. Howell may now be considered convalescent.

There are two industries that would be of immense value to our town, a grist mill and woollen factory. Crops of small grain can always be successfully grown and the thousands of sheep in this country would keep a good factory running.

More than one hundred and fifty dollars have already been subscribed toward building a cooler, and we hope soon to be able to announce the completion of that needed public institution. Apropos, we had plenty of use for one this week.

The most handsomely mounted pair of buffalo horns is now owned by Art. Lytle, and they are fine indeed, but we opine this will emulate some other ambitious horn polisher to greater exertions and conquests. It is hard to hold the belt for any length of time.

Our attention is called to the fact that the road connecting the metropolis and county-seat is still in the disgraceful state mentioned in an issue of some time since. If this comes to the view of the proper officer, we hope he will give it the consideration it demands.

The shipment of cattle is now fully inaugurated. Five train loads were shipped in from the west, last week, and two trains of 30 car-loads each were sent Chicago-ward from Benkelman, Sunday night. Two more train loads of cattle passed through, Monday evening.

The manipulator of the paste, brush and scissors of this office takes the liberty to remark that the luscious grape will grow in this country. Mr. Watts of the Sappa, brother-in-law of J. W. Howell, lays on our table the proof in the shape of a number of bunches of an excellent taste and flavor.

An exchange makes the following very truthful remark: "An honest man will pay for his paper before he orders it stopped—a scoundrel sneaks off and lets the postmaster notify the publisher that the paper remains in the post office, because the person to whom it was sent has left for parts unknown."

Something bearing an anatomical likeness to the genus homo in its outlines, got off the trucks of the first-class coach attached to No. 40, Monday, and wandered blindly and aimlessly riverward. It was so paralyzed by dust and the rapid motion of the "cannon ball" upon reaching this station, as to be almost unable to navigate.

The buzzing bee doth now manipulate his pliers to the detriment of the leaves on tree and bush. The absorbing question among those of our citizens who are blessed with these products of the nursery is how to put a quietus on the too busy bee, or at least how to put a stop to the depredations of the aforesaid insect. Suggestions are in order.

W. M. Irwin has taken down his 10 foot Enterprise mill and replaced it with a 12 foot Woodmanse, to run a feed grinder. He thinks the Woodmanse is the best self-regulating, strongest, less noiseless and lightest running mill in market. Call at his residence 1 1/2 miles northwest of McCook and inspect the mill. Will put up a 12 foot Woodmanse at same figures asked for 10 foot Enterprise.

Annie Sevenker, who came home from Denver three or four weeks ago sick with fever, died at the residence of her parents, a few miles northwest of town, early Monday morning. The remains were laid away in their final resting place on the homestead of the parents of the deceased. The transition from the exuberance and glow of health to the palor of death, we are reminded, is terribly rapid betimes.

The Lincoln Land Co. has set aside the entire block in which the water tank on the hill is situated for a park, and will proceed at once to plow up the entire place, preparatory to setting out trees, etc., this fall. It is proposed to set a double row all around the block and also on each side of two walks which are to be laid out diagonally from the four corners. The remainder of the square will be planted to grasses and shrubbery, and will make a handsome place, if proposed plans are carried out.

A little fracas occurred in the Colvin House, Monday, resulting in S. M. Bowman's head coming in contact with a base ball bat in the hands of the proprietor of that hostelry, to the diminution of the personal beauty of the first mentioned. Bowman was intoxicated and became abusive and pugilistically inclined—being desirous of wiping up the floor with Mr. Colvin's manly form—as a result. The b. b. b. aforesaid somewhat cooled Bowman's ardor, and he quitted the premises. Bowman is a quiet, peaceable fellow, but is unfortunately given to drink at times.

The Apron Fair and Festival given by the members of the Ladies' Union in the Opera Hall, Thursday evening of last week, was, we take pleasure in announcing, a pleasant and profitable one. The display of aprons by the Union was very creditable, embracing all grades from the demure little gingham to the handsome hand painted satin, with lace trimmings, and many thoughtful housewives took advantage of the occasion to lay in a stock. The literary preface was fair, but the length of time occupied in preparing the tableaux detracted from their effect. Altogether, the evening was enjoyable and it is to be regretted that the attendance was not larger.

There is now on exhibition at the real estate office of A. C. Towne some specimens of sod corn, broom corn, different kinds of grain, etc., that are unexceptionally fine, and ones that would do any of our more pretentious eastern counties proud. With the amount of moisture that has characterized this season, Red Willow county will come to the front in grand style.

Connection with the well was made, Tuesday, and upon starting the pump broke, but was speedily repaired, and is now doing its accustomed work. With this change in the way of procuring the water, the quality of that liquid ought to be greatly improved. The company ought to put in another engine and pump. When the one now in use breaks, the people are liable to be without water until the needed repairs are made. This can be done without a very great outlay of money, and will strengthen the system.

H. C. Rider whiled away a few days in Crete this week. Mr. Rider has erected 23 buildings at McCook this summer, and transacted a large real estate business. He says that he now proposes to take a little rest. He just returned from a visit to the mining camps of Colorado, where he says everything is dull and business at a stand still. After taking in the state fair, he will start for New Orleans, do up the cotton exposition and take a trip through the Southern States returning via New York.—Crete Vidette.

A meeting of the land agents of the Valley took place at Orleans at the office of R. S. Hendricks this week. There was a good attendance and some good work done that may result in considerable benefit to the Valley. The news of our unprecedented prosperity has reached parts of the east, and the cry is "to Nebraska." We can look for a good immigration this fall and winter. Our local land agents are making strong efforts to secure their share of the coming flood of seekers of homes in the far west.—Orleans Sentinel.

For the information of the public, Postmaster Scott requests us to publish the following letter from the Chief Clerk of the railway mail service at Omaha. He desires to state that one hour is all the time the office is required to be kept open for the delivery of mail on Sunday, and that any longer time is a matter of accommodation on his part:

OFFICE CHIEF CLERK R. M. S., Omaha, Neb., June 3d, 1884. SIR:—I should think if you should open your office from 12 to 1 on Sunday it would be sufficient. It would be well if you would give notice through the paper at your place that the office would only be open at this hour for the delivery of mail. One hour is all the time that is given people here to receive their mail. Respectfully, T. M. SCOTT, P. M., McCook, Neb. A. W. GRIFFEN, Chief Clerk.

There never was a time perhaps when the necessity for paying small bills was more imperative than the present. Every man feels that he should have every dollar that is due him, and the failure of persons to pay small bills who are able to do so, tends to tighten financial affairs and produce individual and general stringency in money matters. If every person would reflect how many debts only a dollar or two would liquidate, and how much a community would be benefitted by a general payment of small accounts, we think a key would be found to unravel and remove much of the complaint of stringency in money matters. Therefore, if you owe this office anything we would be pleased to have it paid in at once.
