PURLOINED PARAGRAPHS.

A WRITER says you can almost tell a man's occupation by his gait. True; same way with a youth. If it is half a mile an hour he is a messenger boy.

An old maid in Nashville keeps a parrot which swears and a monkey which chews tobacco. She says between the two she doesn't miss a husband very much.

"You are now one," said the minister to the happy pair he had just tied together. "Which one?" asked the bride. "You will have to settle that for yourselves," said the clergyman.

DOCTOR—"But dear Madam, why let you me not before be called? Your husband lies indeed already in highest delirium." Madam—"Yes, see you, so long as my husband by his understanding was, would he nothing to do with a doctor have."

"No, my son, the car of Juggernaut went out of fashion long ago. The world has no use for it now. The freight train does the business much better. If you would have further information upon this subject ask the brakeman's widow."

RESKIN says "A judicious wife is always nipping off from her husband's moral nature little twigs that are growing in wrong directions. She keeps him in shape by continual pruning." That may account for a wife's pulling out the advance guard of gray hairs which appear in her husband's whiskers and on his beads.

A HOTEL is to be built in Pittsburg seven stories high, with the kitchen on the top floor and an electric fire-escape in every room. The escape is to be operated from the office. By touching a button there the guests are simultaneously aroused, every window thrown open and a flexible ladder loosened that reaches to the ground.

"I HAVE found," says Addison, "that the men who are most fond of the ladies, who cherish for them the highest respect, are seldom the most popular with the sex. Men of great assurance, whose tongues are hung lightly, who supply the place of ideas, and place compliments in the room of sentiment, are the favorites."

A smoke-burning locomotive, which has been tested on the Chicago and Northwestern and Chicago and Rock Island Railroads, has proved very successful. Though the poorest quality of bituminous coal was used, there was an absence both of black smoke and cinders. As the gases are all burnt in this locomotive, there is a considerable saving of fuel. The smoke-stack, which is straight, is at the rear of the engine, and to reach it the smoke traverses forty feet instead of twelve, the usual distance, passing through an upper and lower set of flues. The heavy cinders and dust fall into a smoke arch in front, and another arch in the rear catches the lighter particles of dust and ashes. Thus no cinders, sparks or fire is thrown out, and the light white smoke causes no annoyance.
